LISBON TO U. S. FLIERS IN FOG, NEARING GOAL

Airports Along Seaboard Lighted for Aviators Up 39 Hours.

STEAMSHIP SIGHTS MEN OFF CAPE RACE

Trio Had Expected to Reach New York in 40 to 42 Hours of Flight.

New York, Sept. 15 (Tuesday) (A.P.).—Brilliant lights cast their rays along the air roads about New York early today as airports waited the three Lisbon-to-New York fliers whose Junkers plane was sighted early yesterday afternoon southwest of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Although some aviators calculated the German owner-pilot, Willy Rody, and his companions might have reached here before midnight, others said they probably would be delayed by strong headwinds and possibly arrive between 2 and 3 a. m., E. S. T.

At Roosevelt Field, the welcoming crowd thinned after midnight. Officials said, however, they would keep the floodlights burning until dawn, pointing out that the aviators had fuel enough to last until nearly 4:30 a. m., E. S. T.

Visibility Is Good.

Visibility was good at all airports except Roosevelt Field, but even there, officials said, the haze which hung over the field would not prevent the fliers from landing.

When the plane was observed at 1:40 p. m. (E. S. T.) by the S. S. Pennland 80 miles southwest of Cape Race and 395 miles east of Halifax it had been slightly more than 33 hours out of Portugal and had covered nearly 2,500 miles. About 900 miles to New York lay ahead.

The coast in the vicinity of Halifax was wrapped in fog today and the visibility was growing poor farther south. Lacking definite information as to where the fliers might land, all six airports in the metropolitan area and the Boston Airport were on the alert.

Without Advance Fanfare.

Without any advance fanfare the fliers, Wolly Rody, Christian Johanssen and Fernando Costa Viega, the latter a Portuguese sportsman, took off from Auncal do Sol, about 30 miles from Lisbon, Sunday, just after their plane was christened the "Esa," in honor of Rody's young bride.

They were reported to have passed over the Island of Fayal, in the Azores, at 12:45 p. m., E. S. T., Sunday. A subsequent radio report was that they had been observed off Bermuda. However, the sighting by the Pennland, in which the marking of the plane, D-2072, was distinguishable to the ship's master, indicated the fliers had pursued a northern circle course after leaving the Azores.

At the time of the sighting by the Pennland, the fliers were proceeding in a westerly direction. The position of the Pennland (latitude 45.55 north, longitude 54:39 west) was 395 miles east of Halifax, N. S., as well as 80 miles southwest of Cape Race, N. F. Capt. Making, master of the Pennland, in a radio message to the Associated Press, said the sky was overcast with a visibility of about four miles.

In Face of Bad Weather.

The fliers began their adventure in the face of bad weather reports and with only a small quantity of food and a jug of water.

Johanssen is a veteran pilot. Rody is a 20-year-old aviation enthusiast who recently came into a small inheritance which he spent on the plane the men are using. They came to Lisbon from Germany to prepare for the flight.

The plane was the first to set out on an east-west crossing of the ocean in more than a year, Coste and Bellonte having accomplished the flight from Paris to New York in 37 hours on September 1, 1930. Before that time many attempts had failed and only another German craft, the Bremen, similar in construction to the plane being used by the trio, had succeeded in reaching the Western Hemisphere by air from Europe.

Little Known in Germany.

Berlin, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Willy Rody and Christian Johanssen, German pilots of the transatlantic plane Esa, are comparatively little known in Germany.

The reticence of the fliers themselves during the weeks they were preparing for the flight left little news on file behind them and only a close circle of friends knew of their plans.

Even Rody's mother said, at the time they took off for Lisbon, "Willy seldom tells me what he plans."

Johanssen was born in Denmark, was a pilot during the World War, and made a flight to China in 1929. Rody is a comparative novice at flying. Several months ago he inherited some money and bought the plane, which was formerly owned by Charles Levine.

All policemen available will be on the job to keep traffic out of tangles due to the change, but no arrests are planned, Inspector E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the traffic bureau, said.

The new left-hand turn really is not new. It is the same sort of left turn which used to be legally correct at controlled intersections and always has been legally correct at intersections where there is neither traffic light nor policeman. The turn is made from the center of the intersection. The rotary turn is abolished.

REVOLT IN AUSTRIA VIRTUALLY BEATEN

Leader Hides From Police; Resistance Persists at Only Two Points.

Vienna, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The revolutionary movement started by Heimwehr leaders was virtually wiped out tonight. Except in Voensdorf and Kapfenberg, where some resistance persisted, the situation was quiet and Army contingents were reduced.

The back of the "Putsch" was practically broken when the leader, Dr. Walter Pfriemer, issued a manifesto last night to his followers, notifying them he was laying down his command and urging them to return to their homes peaceably. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but he apparently was well hidden, as police failed to serve it.

They did succeed in arresting Prince Ernest Rudiger Starhemberg, fascist leader, and a number of minor officers in the "putsch."

The revolutionary movement broke out yesterday in an attempt to seize the Styrian provincial government. The Austrian authorities, moving quickly against the Northern and Eastern towns affected, suspended more than 200 civil servants accused of complicity and ordered them to trial.

White and Writer Battle at 'Scandals'

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—George White, theatrical producer, and Lew Brown, one of his song writers, exchanged blows at the opening of White's "Scandals" tonight as a climax to a legal dispute earlier in the day. Crowds in the lobby of the Apollo Theater and a patrolman separated the pair.

Brown and Ray Henderson, authors of the musical score of the "Scandals," unsuccessfully sought to enjoin White from using their music tonight on the ground that he had refused to sign a written contract and had made changes in the score without their consent.

White denied he had made any changes without the full knowledge and consent of the composers. The court decided the composers' suit might be tried next month.

Doherty Plans Immense Sports Center in Miami

New York, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Plans for establishment in Miami of a recreational and sports center on the most elaborate scale ever attempted in the United States were announced tonight by Henry L. Doherty, capitalist and public utility corporations operator.

Doherty announced the purchase of the Miami Biltmore Hotel and the Miami Biltmore Country Club at Coral Gables as the first step toward realization of the project.

He plans to form the "largest and most representative club and sports organization" in America to aid the health of men, women and children, with the hope of ultimately contributing "greatly to life extension."

Number in Prussian Diet Is Cut in Economy Move

Berlin, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—In the interests of economy, the Prussian diet was reduced by decree today by one-third of its membership.

Hereafter there will be one representative for every 60,000 voters instead of one for every 40,000 as now.

CARIBBEAN BREEDS YET ANOTHER GALE

Water Famine, Disease and Riots Menace Belize in Rehabilitation.

La Paz, Lower California, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Meager reports received here from Santa Rosalia today said the town was nearly destroyed by a cyclone yesterday.

A number of deaths resulted, the reports said, adding that most of the victims were drowned in a flood which accompanied the cyclone.

There also has been no report from a boat which was en route from Santa Rosalia with a crew of seven and with six prisoners and a military escort of an officer and six soldiers aboard.

Many houses were destroyed and there is an acute shortage of food, the dispatches said. No estimate of casualties was made.

Flood accompanied the hurricane and water reached the depth of 9 feet in the city. A dredge in the harbor was thrown on the shore.

The environs of the city also were affected, including El Boleo mining camp.

New Disturbance Reported.

Havana, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A new Caribbean storm which threatens to reach cyclonic proportions was reported by Belen Observatory tonight after news of the disturbance had been sent by observers at the temporary observatory in the Barbados Islands and relayed to Belen officials.

Heavy sheets of rain were falling, according to the Belen report, and a strong southeast wind was blowing. Storm clouds were hovering over Santa Lucia and Dominica.

Information regarding the newly reported disturbance was vague and no data on its intensity or direction could be secured, Father Gutierrez Lanza, director of the observatory, said. Its center tonight, he said, was west of Martinique.

Director Jose Carlos Millas of the National Observatory said he observed unsettled conditions in that vicinity but that there was no disturbance of importance in the Caribbean. He said that if such a storm existed as Belen reported it was located in the Atlantic, not in the Caribbean.

By REX SAFFER.

Belize, British Honduras, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—(Via Pan-American Radio).—Little apprehension was felt here tonight that a tropical storm, sweeping the western Caribbean would strike the Honduran capital, devastated by a hurricane last week that took a toll of between 500 and 1,000 lives.

Radio Warns of Storm.

Until advised by radio messages, few persons here knew of the approaching disturbance, due to the fact that all other means of communications had been disrupted.

Last reports indicated that the storm would pass inland between here and Cozumel Island, about 400 miles north, some time tonight.

After a night's rest local doctors resumed their task today of ministering to the injured. They work in an emergency first-aid station established in the Presbyterian Church.

A few cases of gangrene were reported in the outlying districts among natives who have not had an opportunity to come here for treatment. A field crew of doctors visited those sections today and administered relief.

Rehabilitation work is continuing as rapidly as possible under existing conditions and the sound of hammer and saw can be heard as busy workers strive to erect livable quarters.

Funeral pyres, where scores of dead have been cremated, were somewhat quenched by rain last night, but were rekindled today as disposition of the bodies continued.

5 Honduran Vessels Sunk.

The Spanish Honduran consul, Francisco Sinstrosa, jr., reported five Honduran vessels were sunk during the hurricane and that approximately 45 members of their crews were drowned. The boats were the Brunswick, Leinss, Truist, Pasajero and the C. M. Lawrence.

Ninety-seven Hondurans were evacuated by the United fruit steamer Toltec. Groups of doctors from Guate-

Mahatma Gandhi

Articles Relate Habits of Indian "Great Soul," Who by Nonviolence and Self-Abnegation Has Captured Hearts of 300,000,000.

By SYUD HOSSAIN.

(First of three articles by an intimate associate of the mahatma through the years which have made him the most interesting individual figure in the world today).

Christ brought to the world a simple story. Through a season of bitter persecution, He practiced nonviolence. He sacrificed himself without defense, and was crucified, but in so doing He conquered half the world.

Gandhi is doing much the same. His is a message of liberation in the most comprehensive sense of the term, also bedrocked upon nonviolence and selfabnegation. There is nothing that Gandhi seeks for himself; but on the contrary, he has shown himself dauntlessly willing to sacrifice himself for the truth that is in him.

In the course of the long crusade which is now nearing its climax, Gandhi has not only captured the hearts of his own people—numbering 300,000,000 and more—but also, it would seem, the imagination of the rest of the world. Even on the basis of his record so far, he must be ranked as among the half dozen most significant and influential figures of this epoch. There are aspects in which his personality is unique in the contemporary world.

What manner of man is Gandhi? If one came upon him in a crowd or at a meeting, or in a railway compartment in India, one would probably not look at him a second time (assuming, of course, that he were unattended and unheralded.) But no one who has really looked into Gandhi's eyes can ever forget him. Those eyes are certainly the windows of his soul. This man, you would say, is carrying the sorrows and burdens of humanity. His is an anguished and consecrated life. Yet he has retained the gift of a spontaneous laughter, especially when he is with children, as well as a serene sense of humor.

In actual physical make-up, Gandhi is ethereal and ascetic—almost a walking skeleton, weighing less than 100 pounds. His height is medium, but his extreme fragility makes him look smaller than he is. His features, always excepting the eyes, are neither beautiful nor regular, but in their totality present a

(Associated Press.)

Postponement for one year of payment of $9,700,000 due Americans by Germany under awards of the mixed claims commission for losses suffered in the World War was announced yesterday by the State Department.

On the other hand the United States will pay without delay $18,000,000 in similar claims which it owes to German nationals, the trend of the awards this year having been toward Germany.

State Department officials said the suspension of the sum due Americans was the result of French opposition to any payments by Germany in view of President Hoover's international debt moratorium plan.

They added that all the other nations which participated in The Hague conference putting the Young plan into effect gave their consent to the payment, except France. In discussions at Paris, the American Ambassador pointed out in vain that the payment was not intergovernmental, but from a government to individuals.

The American Government first proposed to pay Germany about $9,000,000, the difference between the sums owed, but finally consented to pay the whole $18,000,000.

France had no objection to the United States paying the Germans.

Half of the $9,700,000 payment from Germany is due September 30 and the other half on March 31, 1932. It represents damages for lives and property lost during the war, including some of the victims of the Lusitania tragedy.

As a result of France's stand and American consent Germany will be enabled to devote this additional sum to weathering the depression. It will be payable in a year with interest.

Of the war claims due to Germany, Treasury Department officials estimated that from $15,000,000 to $16,000,000 would go to the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Steamship lines. The total sum represents ships, patents and a radio station seized during the war.

Berlin, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Gratification was expressed in official circles today at the news that the United States had agreed to a one-year suspension of payment by Germany of $9,000,000 under the mixed claims awards.

It is generally believed that the American concession arises from the

Quarantine Halts West Point Guests

Action Is Taken After Case of Infantile Paralysis; Cadets Unaffected.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A one-way quarantine was in force today at the United States Military Academy as a result of the illness of Waldemar J. Thinnes, of St. Paul, Minn., who is suffering from infantile paralysis.

The quarantine, which does not prevent cadets from leaving the academy grounds and returning at will but which stops all tourists and visitors entering, was established a week ago.

The case of Thinnes, who was sent to the post hospital two weeks ago, was described as a light one. Doctors, however, said it was too early to say whether he would escape any after effects of the sickness.

The Army's football season opens on September 26 with a game with Ohio Northern. Officers would not predict whether opening of the season might be delayed, but as the 14-day period of incubation had passed they were hopeful there would be no spread of the disease.

The quarantine was described as purely a precautionary measure but no indication was given as to when it would be lifted.

SUGAR TARIFF PROBE ORDERED BY BOARD

(Associated Press.)

An investigation of the duties levied on raw and refined sugar, molasses and related products was ordered yesterday by the Tariff Commission.

The inquiry is to be made under terms of the flexible provisions of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act of 1930.

A request for an investigation was made some time ago by domestic producers and refiners, particularly beet sugar growers of the West.

The beet producers have been attacking importation of Philippine sugar without duty, and have given notice they would continue a fight in the next Congress for levying a tariff on the island's shipments.

Members of the commission who could be reached last night declined to divulge the details of the inquiry beyond the bare announcement of the investigation.

The inquiry was understood to be directed toward importation of raw sugar in liquified form at a much lower duty than for ordinary raw sugar. This method of avoiding the full duty results in a loss of many millions in revenue to the Government.

Under the flexible provision, the commission studies the different costs of production here and abroad, and recommends to the President a course of action.

The flexible clause provides for increases or decreases of 50 per cent in the existing tariff, which was raised from 1.76 cents to 2 cents per pound on raw sugar in the 1930 act. The duty on refined sugar, which is comparatively negligible in sugar imports, was raised from 1.91 cents to 2.12 cents a pound.

Raw sugar duty accounts for approximately one-fourth of the revenue realized by the United States from imports of all products. The sugar levy supplies approximately $125,000,000 of the $800,000,000 yearly brought in by the tariff schedules.

John McCormick Divorced at Reno

Wife, Formerly Mrs. Gattis, Well Known in Capital, Gets Settlement.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 14 (U.P.).—John E. McCormick, prominent Hollywood motion picture executive, was divorced here this afternoon by Mrs. Janet Gattis McCormick, well-known in social circles of Washington, D. C., and Beverly Hills, Calif.

Mrs. McCormick recited details of her complaint behind closed doors. The complaint charged extreme cruelty and the allegation that McCormick had not been able to forget his first wife, Colleen Moore, the actress.

A property settlement drawn up July 21 was approved by Judge Thomas McKan. The couple was married in Honolulu May 22, the ceremony being delayed several days until final papers of McCormick's divorce had been filed.

Second Oil Explosion Hurts Three Workers

Philadelphia, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The second blast in three days occurred tonight at the plant of the Atlantic Refining Co. here. One man was critically burned and two other workers received minor injuries. John Shiver, 50, was burned about the head and body, and may die.

A small fire, which was extinguished within a half hour followed the explosion. Refining company officials said the blast was caused when a valve on a pipe line blew off. Saturday seven men were fatally injured when a still at the plant blew up.

CUT IN LEAGUE BUDGET URGED BY DELEGATES

OFFICERS' SALARIES ARE HELD TOO LARGE

Disarmament Conference Is Likely to Escape Knife; 2 Nations Elected.

Geneva, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A demand for retrenchment in the expense of operating the League of Nations was made from many quarters in the league assembly today.

Support for the economy move was almost unanimous and the only disagreement observed was upon the degree of the reduction which should be made in the 1932 budget.

Generally speaking, the delegations agreed with the New Zealand representatives who insisted the disarmament conference should not be submitted to the expense pruning knife.

The league's budget for 1931 is approximately $6,000,000. Speakers from Norway, Italy, Venezuela, Holland, and Australia led the attack upon the expenses and emphasized the psychological value of economy in league operations.

Some Salaries Too Large.

"Some officials of the league are getting salaries beyond the wildest dream of any government functionary," said Delegate Hambro, of Norway, speaking in fluent English.

There was a general murmur of approval. "In many countries today," Delegate Hambro continued, "where national budgets are being met with difficulty, the League of Nations is regarded by the ordinary man as a sort of diplomatic luxury."

The present salary of the secretary general is $20,000 a year, and the salaries of the deputy secretary and undersecretary general are $15,000 each.

China and Panama were elected to the council of the league today, succeeding Persia and Venezuela, whose representatives are retiring after having served three years on the league's executive board. Mexico and Hungary each received two votes, but the general sentiment was that Mexico, which has just been received into the league, should wait at least a year before gaining a seat in the council.

Britain Cited in Dispute.

The British government, which was haled before the league council today by Finland in a dispute arising out of British employment of Finnish ships during the World War, protested that the matter was a private claim and should be settled in British courts.

Alejandro Lerroux, president of the council, adjourned the case until he could prepare a recommendation.

The ships in question were requisitioned from Finland by the imperial Russian government, which subchartered them to Great Britain. Finnish owners are urging that Great Britain pay for the ships.

Lightning Strikes DO-X; One of Crew Is Injured

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Lightning struck the giant air liner DO-X at North Beach Airport during a severe storm today, injuring one member of her crew and knocking down two others.

The ship itself was undamaged. Hans Isdle, a mechanic who was seeking shelter with the others from the sudden storm under a wing, was knocked unconscious and taken to a hospital. The DO-X is undergoing extensive repairs here.

Transport Pilot Dies As Plane Hits Swamp

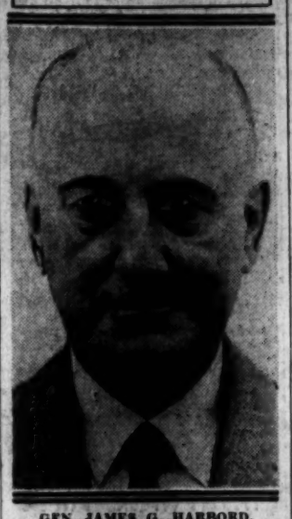
Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The wreckage of a six-passenger transport plane of the Chicago-Detroit Airways was found late tonight in a swamp near Lake Calumet on the southeast side of Chicago. There were no passengers in the plane.

The pilot, Albert Malrick, Chicago, was dead when he reached the hospital. The plane crashed about 8 o'clock tonight. It was en route from Detroit to Chicago.

Propeller of Europa Damaged; Ship Delayed

Bremen, Germany, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A radio message from the homeward bound liner Europa today said her starboard propeller had been damaged by striking a floating object and her arrival probably would be delayed.

WARNS LEGION



GEN. JAMES G. HARBORD.

U. S. ALIEN RECORDS TAKEN FROM FILES

Papers in Case of Maranzano, Slain, Missing; Plot Quiz Speeded.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Federal investigators seeking ringleaders of an an alien smuggling conspiracy redoubled their efforts today when it was learned records of naturalization proceedings had disappeared from the Government files.

The records concerned the case of Salvatore Maranzano, slain last Thursday on the ninth floor of the New York Central Building. In his office authorities found blank immigration forms and indications that considerable correspondence regarding immigration matters had been carried on.

The alien smuggling conspiracy has been called by Secretary Doak "one of the biggest rackets in America." It is said by Federal officials here to have resulted in the illegal entry into the United States of several thousand aliens.

Murray W. Garsson, Assistant Secretary of Labor, and George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, questioned three women regarding the case. One of them, Florence Simmons, was secretary for the Immigration News Service, a publication which officials said had no Government connection, but was believed by many immigrants to have such affiliation.

Robert Bader and Gus Schiman, two of the publication's officers, were arrested more than a week ago and are held under bond for hearing later.

Another of the women, Dr. Ludimulla Brown, a physician, was said by the authorities to have been questioned by the authorities to have been victimized by the alien racketeers. She appeared for questioning with her husband, Boris Brown, like herself a Russian, but after they left Mr. Garsson said neither was implicated. Both, he said, had entered the country legally.

The third woman questioned, Pocahontas Foster, a clerk in the naturalization offices, was closeted with Mr. Garsson and his aids for several hours, but no statement regarding the subject of the interrogation was made.

Mrs. John Held, Jr., Is Granted Decree

Records in Cuernavaca, Mexico, Show Divorce From Artist Aug. 19.

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—John Held, jr., whose cartoons struck a keynote for the post-war decade of jazz and flappers, has been divorced by Mrs. Ada Johnson Held, it was disclosed in the Cuernavaca court records today.

The decree was granted August 19.

Rumors that John Held, jr., or Mrs. Held would seek a divorce were circulated in New York last July, but denied at that time by the artist's wife. Held had been living in a New York apartment while his wife remained on their farm at Weston, Conn.

The couple was married in 1913, when the artist was in the Navy and Mrs. Held was a wartime ambulance driver. In recent months she has taken up aviation, flying a small plane.

Held is of Utah Mormon parentage. He has written several popular books in the last few years and also is talented as a sculptor. The Helds have three children.

HARBORD TELLS LEGION TO DROP 'BONUS TIN CUP'

Warns Job Council That Relief Plan Won't Jibe With Further Loans.

LEADERS HOPE TO NIP MOVE AT CONVENTION

Sentiment Noted, However, for Increased Borrowing as Session Approaches.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD

That great favorite of the doughboys in 1917-18, Maj. Gen. James Guthrie Harbord, U. S. A., retired, appeared before the American Legion Unemployment Conference here yesterday and indulged in some plain, blunt talk.

If, he said, the American Legion, at its Detroit convention next week, adopts an unemployment relief program and at the same time asks for further loans on the war bonus, the country will laugh at it.

"I can not," said the man who rose from buck private to major general, "imagine anything more ridiculous than for you to go down to Detroit with a program of relief for the whole country, and at the same time hold out an empty tin cup."

"If you do, you will be laughed at, and I say that as a man who favored the bonus legislation in 1924 and your action last winter."

Refers to Borrowing Clause.

He meant, of course, the original bonus bill, and the bill last year allowing the veterans to borrow on 50 per cent of the ultimate value of the bonus.

A week in advance of the Detroit national convention, there is a strong sentiment among the legionnaires for legislation to allow them to borrow on the full value of their bonus certificates.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican) of Pennsylvania, has said that this would require the floating of bonds in excess of $2,000,000,000, and undoubtedly would result in a tax increase.

That the legion leaders are trying to head off such action at Detroit was indicated yesterday by the reply which Past National Commander Howard P. Savage, of Chicago, made to Gen. Harbord.

Sure of "Right Answer."

Savage, who led the legion in its pilgrimage to Paris in 1927, said that if the legionnaires at Detroit are given a proper picture of the situation, "the right answer will be forthcoming."

Maj. Savage is chairman of the legion's employment relief commission, which called yesterday's conference to work out a program for aiding the jobless this winter. This program will be submitted to the national convention next week.

Present at yesterday's meeting in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel were the governors of 28 States, or their representatives; mayors of several large cities, and representatives of capital and labor.

Dry Modification Asked.

M. J. McDonough, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, called upon the legion to urge Congress to modify the Volstead act and thus pave the way for legalized beer.

McDonough said that a reopening of the breweries would give employment to 1,250,000 men within six months, and also would benefit other allied industries.

That is another question that is expected to cause a furore at the Detroit convention. Quite a number of departments are ready with resolutions calling for a change in prohibition, and this time, it is understood, no attempt will be made to stifle debate on the question. In the past

24 Arrested in Clash With California Reds

San Francisco, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A large crowd of unemployed demonstrators led by admitted Communists stormed the San Francisco City Hall today and after a clash with police was dispersed.

Twenty-four persons, three of whom were women, were arrested on charges of inciting a riot and disturbing the peace. Three persons were injured by police and received hospital treatment.

U. S. Unable to Guard Gold Reported on Wrecked Ship

San Pedro, Calif., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A partially verified report here says that $850,000 in gold bullion was carried by the Panama liner Colombia, abandoned by crew and passengers yesterday, but Coast Guard headquarters declared tonight that it could not act to protect the treasure from possible looters.

The Colombia went aground approximately 700 miles south of San Pedro, off the coast of Lower California. One hundred and thirty passengers and 100 members of the crew, all aboard, were rescued, and were en route here tonight aboard the banana carrier La Perla.

After the receipt of an SOS call, broadcast by the Colombia, the Coast Guard cutter Montgomery started at high speed for the scene. After learning of the rescue the cutter returned to San Pedro.

In explanation, Coast Guard headquarters said action can be taken only when life is in danger.

It was reported that the bullion, consigned from Central American ports to San Francisco banks, was in the strong room of the Colombia, well below the water line. Those acquainted with the ship said divers and blow

Baby Falls Three Stories To Death as Mother Irons

Robert Berneker, jr., 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berneker, sr., was fatally injured yesterday when he fell from a third-floor window of the family's home, at 63 K street northeast. Slightly less than four hours after the plunge, he died in Walter Reed Hospital of a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

The child was under the watchful eye of his mother, who was ironing in the kitchen, when she turned her back for a few moments to go for more linen. During this short time, Robert climbed onto a chair that was near a window and apparently threw his tiny body against the screen, which gave way. He fell on the iron stoop below and then struck the cement pavement.

Hearing the crash, Mrs. Berneker rushed downstairs and found her son's broken body. Almost crazed with fear, she went to a neighbor for help and together they took the boy to Sibley Hospital in a taxicab.

He was later transferred to Walter Reed Hospital, where he died about two hours after admittance.

The child's father is a soldier, quartered at Fort Myer, and a musician in the military band. The family had moved into their new home only a few days ago.

ARCHBISHOP BLAMES MEXICAN CONGRESS

Says It Sided With Vera Cruz in Fight on Church; Drops Modification Pleas.

Mexico City, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—In a circular letter issued tonight to the Catholics of Mexico, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate, says Congress has sided with the Vera Cruz state government in hostilities toward the church. Therefore, the ecclesiastical authorities, he asserts, have decided to postpone plans for petitioning the federal government to modify the religious clauses of the constitution.

"How can it be possible to ask the Catholic people of Mexico to esteem their governors, respect the laws and sincerely cooperate with the authorities when they find only hostility and persecution in the laws, legislators and subaltern authorities?" he asks.

He recommends that the situation be met by peaceful means and that Catholics form associations to spread the faith and seek legal defense against violations of the constitution.

Senor Portes Gil will leave Paris this week to represent Mexico at the present session of the assembly.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—The supreme court today upheld a lower court verdict rejecting the plea of former President Hipolito Irigoyen that only Congress can judge him on charges of maladministration. The charges against the aged Irigoyen, who was deposed by revolution a year ago and is held prisoner by the present government, therefore may be tried in the courts.

torches would be necessary to open the room.

Marine sources said the wreck has been technically abandoned by the crew and now comes under Mexican law, which holds that if there is no living thing aboard a vessel it is anyone's property who gets there first and is able to establish himself in command. A large number of small vessels are in the vicinity of the wreck.

Meanwhile, the 230 passengers and members of the crew of the Colombia, picked up early Sunday from lifeboats by the southbound fruit ship San Mateo, and transferred shortly after to the banana carrier, La Perla, were reported en route here. The group is aboard a vessel with accommodations for only twelve passengers.

The refugees include 28 white women. Many races are represented.

The La Perla is making top speed to save her perishable cargo, after having already lost a day. It was at first reported she would put into San Diego tomorrow, but a MacKay radio dispatch later today said she would come directly here, arriving early Wednesday.

The condition of the stranded vessel was said in meager wireless messages to be "not so good," from the standpoint of salvors. The salvage tug Peacock is now on its way to the scene, and reported the expectation of reaching it tonight.

The Colombia was driven onto the beach broadside and is listed at a dangerous angle. The ship is reported so far down at the stern that she may break up entirely if the seas arise.

The coast at Point Tosco, where the vessel is aground, is wild and sparsely inhabited. Mexican law applies only slightly to the inhabitants, who live in an aboriginal state, and this fact has heightened concern over the safety of the ship's valuables.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Radio messages received here from the fruit ship La Perla tonight said the vessel would go directly to San Pedro to disembark 234 passengers and sailors taken off the steamship Colombia, wrecked yesterday at Point Tosco, 600 miles south of here.

The United Fruit Company, of Boston, operators of the La Perla, announced earlier the ship would put in at San Diego. The messages from the La Perla tonight, however, said it would proceed to its original destination, San Pedro, without stopping.

Check Forgery Charged To Hollywood Writer

Los Angeles, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Frederick Deliden, Hollywood writer, was accused in a complaint from the district attorney's office today of forging the indorsement of Lupe Velez, film actress, to a check for $150.

The complaint accuses Deliden of two other forgeries. Deputy District Attorney S. E. Roll said Deliden traced the signatures of Victor Heerman, motion picture director, and Mrs. Heerman, on checks totaling $139.40.

A regular passenger airplane from San Salvador and a chartered plane being used by a news picture organization were odered to remain overnight in Tela because of the disturbance reported north of here.

Those injured in the storm continued to flock to the emergency relief station today. Doctors, Navy Medical Corps men and marines treated 400 emergency cases this morning and a like number this afternoon. The dead are being burned without identification or ceremony.

The Salvation Army took over opeartion of soup kitchens to feed the hungry. Doctors ordered 10,000 gallons of fresh water, stored in drums on a nearby key, commandeered for use here.

Approximately 5,000 cases of whisky were stacked along the main street here as agents for bonded warehouses rescued their stock, scattered about when the warehouses were destroyed by the wind.

A graphic first-hand picture of conditions in the hurricane area was sketched by Diddier Masson, local Pan-American field manager, as he returned from assisting in relief work.

Number of Dead Mounting.

His report estimated the number of dead at "well over 1,000," and said the number was mounting constantly, "with the dead and injured equal to about one out of every ten persons in the city."

Lieut. Comdr. T. L. Morrow, U. S. N., who is in charge of medical relief in Belize, told an Associated Press correspondent the total known dead did not exceed 500 thus far, but when more definite information is available his figure might be doubled.

Mr. Masson said the three great fears were that riots would break out among the lower class of natives, that a water famine would occur with "terrible consequences," and that epidemics of disease would start.

"There is still great danger of difficulties among the laboring classes which would be fatal to the relief work now going ahead under critical difficulties," he said.

Families Quitting Belize.

Whole families, he declared, are making their perilous way up-river to settlements in the jungle unscathed in the storm, "confident they will be able to live on the natural edibles of the jungle, with the meager supplies of corn flour and other articles they may be able to secure from the tiny colonies along the river banks."

He told how the Belize River was being cleared of the mass of bodies, houses, wrecked boats and debris which had choked it for three days.

"Critical problems still remain to be solved," the report said. "The food supply is running seriously short. All supplies which have been brought in by plane and on the two United States Navy ships are being carefully rationed out, but the coverage is very slim.

"Lack of drinking water is critical. The need is urgent for carpenters, who can build tanks to receive rain water and roof buildings where the injured are being cared for, since they now are entirely at the mercy of the elements.

Injured Suffer in Sun.

"The blazing sun has been beating down mercilessly since, bringing additional suffering to the injured as they lie in rows on the floors of the roofless homes.

"The possibility of an epidemic is most serious, the medical directors are taking every possible precaution with the limited supply of serum which has been brought in by plane.

"Masses of sea fish imbedded in pools of liquid mud piled up by the tidal wave are decomposing and the air at times is unbearable.

"Whole families, or all now left in the families, have been gathering up their few bits of personal effects that remained after the storm, are conditioning dugout canoes or little skiffs and are making their perilous way upriver to the jungle settlements.

"The remaining population is still dumfounded by the enormity of the catastrophe. It had been the belief for generations that no hurricane would ever strike Belize. Even when neighboring weather and radio stations on our line informed us that the city would not escape and gave the approximate time the hurricane would strike, the people still could not believe.

Natives Are Awe-Stricken.

"Every home in the city received more or less serious damage and the native population, awe-stricken, goes about relief work as in a trance, still unable to grasp the truth of the horrible tragedy."

The report told how the Belize radio operator stood by during the hurricane to protect his equipment and after the storm worked furiously to get it in condition so it could be used, knowing it represented the only contact Belize would have with the outside world.

The operator, L. E. Sherouse, worked for 96 hours without relief. Until last night every word that went out from here was sent by him.

Mr. Masson said one Pan-American employe, Herbert Gill, a British subject, was found, buried under "the bodies of his father, mother and ten brothers, all drowned like rats in a trap when the tidal wave swept them in one corner of their home and buried them under a wall of water."

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m.: Tropical disturbance now moving westward over Yucatan Peninsula with diminishing intensity. Its center will likely pass near Frontera, Mexico, Tuesday morning."

END OF HEAT WAVE IS DUE TOMORROW

Relieving Storm Hits Maryland as Mercury Goes to 92 Here.

While "old man heat" continued to keep the upper hand on Washington and its environs yesterday—with no break in sight until tomorrow or next day—nearby States fared a lot better when a heavy rain and wind storm swept across Maryland and into southern Pennsylvania, leaving in its wake piles of debris, uprooted trees and a greatly relieved populace.

Although the storm struck as near as Frederick, Md., the Weather Bureau said last night that Washington would not experience cooler weather until tomorrow afternoon or night. The highest official temperature yesterday was 92 degrees at 3 o'clock, while the coldest was 71 degrees at 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

As midsummer heat continues to linger, reports from Alberta, Canada, say the temperature there is below freezing. States in the Central West report unusual heat.

By the latter part of the week, however, the wave of heat throughout the Eastern United States is expected to be broken. The wind is gradually going to bring Alberta's coldness eastward and by the time it reaches Washington, although considerably warmer, will bring relief.

Crashing Coaster Injures 4 Boys

One Suffers Fractured Leg in Georgia Avenue Mishap.

Samuel, Benjamin, Abraham and Joseph were looking for a thrill yesterday, so they squeezed into a coaster wagon at Columbia Road and Georgia avenue, and, with Abraham at the controls, raced downhill to the reservoir. Some fun, they thought, and walked back up the hill to take an encore. That's where a mistake was made.

On the repeat ride, the coaster crashed into a tree and was demolished. Benjamin Smith, 77, 521 Columbia road, suffered a fractured leg and his three companions were cut and bruised. All were taken to Garfield Hospital in a passing auto.

Antiseptics and bandages also were dispensed to Abraham Pekover, 18-year-old pilot, who lives at 604 Columbia road; Samuel Denenberg, 18, 3214 Warder street, and Joseph Prince, 15, 515 Columbia road.

Arlington Man Fined in Accident.

Robert Rust, of Braddock, Va., was treated yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital for injuries sustained when his motorcycle was struck by a hit-and-run driver. Roy Willis Davis, of Nauck Station, Arlington County, was arrested by a policeman and in police court yesterday was fined $50 and costs on the hit-and-run charge. Mr. Rust was not seriously hurt.

Catholic Women Meet Tonight on Convention

Representatives of local Catholic women's organizations will meet with other interested Catholic women at the Mayflower Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock to proceed with plans for the eleventh annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women, to be held there October 4 to 7.

Miss Agnes G. Regan, executive secretary of the National Council, will conduct the meeting, which will hear reports from chairmen of eleven committees created September 2 to execute reception plans.

Mary Tatspaugh Heads Jones Post

20 of Women's Legion Unit to Attend the Detroit Convention.

Mary Tatspaugh was elected commander of the Jacob Jones Post, of the American Legion at a meeting held last night in the boardroom of the District Building. The new officers will be installed at the next meeting of the post, October 12.

Other officers elected were Mary Weide, senior vice commander; Kate Briggs, junior vice commander; Nelia Eichorn, chaplain; Gladys Allen, historian; Ella Chambers, quartermaster; Charlotte Berry, sergeant-at-arms; Lela Angelberger and Genevieve Sparshott, color bearers, and Helen Sprague, investment adviser.

Plans for the national convention of the legion to be held in Detroit from September 20 to September 24 were discussed. Approximately 20 members of the post will attend the sessions, leaving Washington Friday. The post voted to continue its annual $250 scholarship offered to a blind student through the American Foundation for the Blind and will attempt to find the child of a World War veteran to fill the scholarship.

Demented Man Hatchets Woman and Kills Self

Los Angeles, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—From her hospital bed tonight, Mrs. Christine Kane, 25, told of a hatchet attack made on her today by Henry von Emden Klein, also known as Dr. H. von Emden, who shot and killed himself after Mrs. Kane had escaped by crashing through a French door. Klein is believed to have been demented.

Mrs. Kane received a deep cut on the head from Klein's hatchet and other cuts when she broke through the door. Klein shot himself while Mrs. Kane was telling her story to passersby on the sidewalk outside the house.

Food Committee Meets Thursday

Conservation Group Will Open Headquarters at Harvey's

The Surplus Food Conservation Committee of the District of Columbia will begin its work in earnest at 11 o'clock Thursday morning when members of the group will mark opening of the new headquarters at Harvey's restaurant.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, expects that the three District Commissioners will be present Thursday morning, with members of various women's groups, representatives of churches and other guests. The work will be in charge of Mrs. Mildred Traynham.

Announcement that the old restaurant at Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenue would be headquarters of the conservation committee was made yesterday by George J. Adams, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Committee on Employment. He negotiated with officials of the Treasury Department, which now owns the restaurant, and with Julius Lulley, president of "Harvey's," which rents the building as a storehouse from the Government.

HIGHER INCOME TAX GAINS NEW BACKERS

Sheppard, Texas Democrat, Joins Frazier, Republican, on Rich Levy Plan.

(Associated Press.)

A Republican independent and a Democratic senator yesterday joined those who are advocating tax legislation in the next Congress by raising the levy on large incomes.

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, said he thought it the most logical method of meeting the prospective Treasury deficit, while Senator Frazier, of North Dakota, said he believed additional demands on huge incomes should have been in effect long ago.

Speculation on the possibility of tax revision in the next Congress began as the deficit mounted to more than $900,000,000 in the last fiscal year. The revision move grew recently with proposals from Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, for a general sales tax, and Representative Bacharach (Republican), New Jersey, to increase the rates on incomes of more than $100,000.

Senator Sheppard said he agreed with Bacharach that estate tax laws should be strengthened to reach wealthy men who transfer their property before death and thus escape the tax.

Neither the Texan nor Senator Frazier approved the Reed plan for a tax of one-half of one per cent upon all commodities sold to the public.

Driverless Auto Menaces Traffic

Car Halted by Pedestrian After Hitting Two on New York Avenue.

A motor car, which proved itself an automobile with malicious intent, struck and slightly injured two young women yesterday afternoon and threatened to disrupt traffic routine at the busy corner of Fifteenth street and New York avenue, when its flight was halted by a pedestrian.

It seems that the brakes of the sedan, which belongs to Col. Julian R. Bernheim and was parked on Fifteenth street, north of the intersection, slipped and sent the car rolling into more orderly traffic. Elsie Matheny and Edna Tumford, homeward bound from the American Security and Trust Co., where they are employed, failed to step aside in time and were bruised.

Former Judge Lindsey Recovers in Hospital

Los Angeles, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Ben B. Lindsey, former judge of the juvenile court of Denver, now a practicing attorney here, has virtually recovered from two recent major operations.

Lucille Anderson, his nurse at a hospital here, said today that he is able to walk about and probably would leave the hospital in a few days.

PROFESSOR ACCUSED OF MURDERING WIFE

Coroner's Jury in Virginia Fails to Reach Verdict in Drowning.

Hampton, Va., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane, whose husband, Prof. Elisha Kent Kane, of the University of Tennessee, is held on a charge of murder, recessed tonight after a four-hour session behind closed doors without rendering a verdict.

Coroner George K. Vanderslice said he was convinced that the woman drowned and it was for the jury to determine whether it was accidental or homicidal.

Prof. Kane, who is held without bail, has disclaimed responsibility to officers, but has declined to discuss his wife's death with newspapermen. Officers quoted him as saying his wife apparently slipped from a rock while they were swimming at an isolated spot in Chesapeake Bay and that he made unsuccessful efforts to resuscitate her after he pulled her ashore in an unconscious condition.

Seven fishermen, who were taking clams at Pequoson, were questioned at the inquest this afternoon. They said they saw a man and a woman in the water apparently splashing water on each other. Later they said they heard the woman scream and saw the man pull her out of the water and place her in an automobile. They reported the incident to officers, they said, when they read in a newspaper that Mrs. Kane had been drowned at that spot.

Commonwealth's Attorney Cocke said the warrant charging murder was issued after he had received the reports of the fishermen and had received conflicting reports from Prof. Kane as to the manner of his wife's death. He also said there were other circumstances which he was not at liberty to reveal.

Prof. Kane holds degrees from several leading American universities. He is the son of Dr. Elisha Kent Kane, of Kane, Pa., who attracted attention a dozen years ago by performing an operation for appendicitis on himself. He is the grandson of a noted Arctic explorer. He met Mrs. Kane, a native of Salem, Va., while attending Roanoke College.

Before going to Tennessee as professor of Romance languages, he was a member of the faculty of the University of North Carolina.

2 Held in Fairfax On Liquor Charges

Alleged Beer and Whisky Taken From River; Auto Driver Arrested.

Fairfax County authorities, led by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, for the second time this summer raided the place of Gus Quayle, on the Dyke, near New Alexandria.

The police state that they watched Quayle fish the alleged liquor from the bottom of the Potomac River and make a sale. They arrested Quayle on a charge of violating the State Prohibition law, and found 138 bottles of alleged home brew and seven pints of alleged liquor in gunny sacks under the water.

Quayle was ordered held for the action of the grand jury at the September term of the circuit court, which opens next Monday, under a $1,000 bond.

Frank J. Kendall, of 2511 Twenty-second street northeast, Washington, was arrested by County Policeman A. W. Mills, on the Washington-Richmond highway, near Accotink, and charged with the transportation and possession of ardent spirits. He was ordered held for the action of the grand jury under a $500 bond.

Arlington Will Enforce Boarding House Statute

Mrs. Mae Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare in Arlington County, announced yesterday a county-wide drive is being planned to enforce the boarding house law for children.

The law, Mrs. Jacobs said, enacted by the General Assembly at its 1922 session, requires any persons keeping two or more unrelated children must first obtain a license for a boarding house. Applications for license, issued without any charge, are to be made at her office at the courthouse. Violators of the law, Mrs. Jacobs said, are subject to arrest on charges of committing a misdemeanor and fines from $5 to $250.

Nearly Half of Auto Men Accept 5-Day Week Policy

(Associated Press.)

The Labor Department has been advised that almost half the men working in the automobile industry have accepted the five-day week as a permanent labor policy.

In the department's next monthly labor review will be statistics to show that 44.3 per cent of the workers in the automobile industry are on a permanent five-day week; 34.4 per cent of the workers in the radio industry; 27 per cent in the dyeing and cleaning industry and 24.9 per cent in the aircraft business.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics has tabulated questionnaires sent establishments throughout the country and in 77 different industries. Replies were received from 37,857 firms showing that 2.4 per cent of the establishments have adopted the five-day week and that 5.6 per cent of all employes covered in the survey are on that work basis.

Ice Business Hot Stuff; Depression Frozen Out

By JOHN J. DALY

IN A day when everybody seems to be complaining, the ice industry steps out and boasts gleefully of the greatest year in its history.

Manufactured and natural ice crops in America this season will total half a billion dollars.

There was an old song!

Oh, the ice man is a nice man;
But one thing that is sure:
There is something in his business
That affects his temperature.
Love is such a funny thing
That I found out, once or twice,
All you can get from the ice man
Is ice, ice, ice.

* * * *

It is, of course, the power of concentration. An ice man handles ice, and ice only—if he is a nice ice man.

As a distinct benefactor of other businesses, ice is in a class by itself. There are certain affinities that must have ice. When ice is plentiful, manufacturers of glassware, ice picks, ice pack and ice bags, not to mention other commodities — notably, the sparkling beverages — realize an increased demand for their wares. Yet you can never get any of these things from the ice man. He is a specialist.

* * * *

IN 1929, when mechanical refrigeration got a foothold in the households of America, it looked as if the dog days had descended upon the ice business. Ice dealers feared they would be driven out of their own preserves, frozen out of their own market. It was tong warfare.

Here is where faith in America asserted itself. The ice men started a campaign to make America ice conscious. As a result, there is more ice used in the United States today than in all the countries of the world, including Iceland.

Ice farms are now valuable property; paying dividends. It is probably the only crop in America that has not appealed to the Federal Farm Board for relief. Should an emergency arise, the Farm Board would have difficulty finding something to trade for ice. Unless all the nations in the world began to develop headaches, as some of them are doing, the Farm Board would be unable to furnish relief to the American ice industry. Ice melts, which precludes the possibility of doing business with the South American countries, the Farm Board's greatest field.

* * * *

NOTHING of that nature is necessary. All is lovely in the ice houses. The barons are happy, rolling in wealth, as the clink of the ice in the pitchers makes music throughout the land.

Young ice, nice, fresh ice from the countryside, the lakes and rivers of America, chopped in the winter and sold in the summer, has an appeal that nothing else approaches. Even mechanized ice—brittle, transparent, and colorless, with its delicate aroma of ammonia—looks good on a hot day, when the mint beds are blooming, and a Kentucky colonel comes a-calling.

So great is the demand that the years ahead offer even bigger opportunities in the ice business. The secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries, bubbling over with enthusiasm, breaks off an icicle, and states: "We believe we still have room for a 50 per cent growth in the domestic field."

Think of it. There is more ice on the way.

Grand Jury to Get Policeman's Case

Clerk LaForce Accused of Obtaining Indorsers by False Pretense.

Evidence in the case of Policeman Edward J. LaForce, of the Seventh Precinct, arrested on a warrant charging him with false pretenses, will be presented to the grand jury, it was learned from the office of the United States attorney yesterday.

LaForce, formerly a desk clerk at the Seventh Precinct, was charged with having induced two fellow officers, H. G. Wanamaker and Joseph A. Wheeler, to indorse a note in blank. He is said to have told them that he was going to make out the paper for $50, but, instead, it was made out for $300.

The note came due at the Franklin National Bank and the two indorsers were called upon to make it good when it went to protest. They lodged complaints against LaForce and he was suspended. In Police Court yesterday LaForce entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $300 bail for the action of the grand jury.

Rechabite Order To Convene Here

Dry Organization Will Assemble Sept. 2, 1932, During Celebration.

The Independent Order of Rechabites, a temperance organization, will hold its next convention in Washington on September 2, 1932, accepting an invitation from the George Washington Bicentennial Commission to meet here during the height of the celebration. The invitation was accepted at sessions of the convention in Washington last week.

During the convention this organization adopted a resolution reaffirming its faith in the eighteenth amendment as the best means of suppressing the use of intoxicants, and pledging cooperation to President Hoover in his law enforcement program and aid to all temperance organizations.

Those named as officers of the organization were the Rev. William Reynolds, of Franklin, N. J.; Mrs. Ella Martine, Chester, W. Va.; John R. Mahoney, Mrs. Sadie E. Mahoney, William J. Miller, Mrs. Louise Ourand, Mrs. Goldie Bowman, of Washington, and Mrs. Minnie Taylor, of East Liverpool, Ohio.

At Hamburg, Dr. W. Klesselbach, German member of the mixed claims commission, said the American decision was news to him.

He explained that the payments are payable semiannually in October and April. They were protested by France, he said, which claimed that the payments violated The Hague agreement in that they discriminated in favor of the United States.

The Lincoln Post of the American Legion last night nominated a slate of new officers, who will be elected at the next meeting of the post, the second week in October. The officers announced that with a membership of 227 the post was enjoying the greatest growth in its history. This expansion necessitated moving from its old quarters to 2800 Thirteenth street for the meeting last night.

About a dozen members of the post plan to attend the annual convention of the legion at Detroit.

Colored Benefit Society Asks Dissolution Order

Five officers of the Helping Hand Association of the District, a colored benefit organization, filed a petition in the District Supreme Court to dissolve the organization.

PRESIDENT IS HOST TO RESERVE COUNCIL

Learns of Nation's Business Conditions at Dinner in White House.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover last night obtained a first hand picture of business conditions throughout the country at a White House dinner conference with the Federal Reserve Board's advisory council and Eugene Meyer, governor of the board.

White House officials said there was no special significance to the meeting, but that the bankers merely were invited to dinner and an informal talk during the regular quarterly session here. This session will convene today.

The advisory council is composed of one member from each of the twelve Federal Reserve districts. It acts only in an advisory capacity, having no authority other than to make recommendations to the Reserve Board. Its discussions are never made public, and only rarely are its recommendations announced.

The council is expected to report to the board at today's session.

The White House list of those attending the dinner did not include B. A. McKinney, of Dallas, president of the council.

Besides Governor Meyer, those who dined with the President were: Herbert K. Hallett, Boston; Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago; R. H. Treman, Ithaca, N. Y.; Howard A. Loeb, Philadelphia; J. A. House, Cleveland; John Poole, Washington; John K. Ottley, Atlanta; Walter W. Smith, St. Louis; George H. Prince, St. Paul; Walter S. McLucas, Kansas City; Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles, and Walter Lichtenstein, Chicago, secretary of the council.

Several weeks ago Mr. Hoover consulted three New York bank officials on the state of business. Robinson, a close friend of the President, has been a frequent week-end visitor to the Hoover camp in Virginia.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 45

DOWNTOWN scenery has changed so much in the past half century that it would be difficult for any old resident of Washington to tell where this home once stood. The main offices of the telephone company now occupy this site on the 700 block of Twelfth street northwest.

The home was once the residence of Edward F. Droop, founder of the music store of that name. Originally, the building was divided into two homes, but Mr. Droop built it into one. Mr. Droop made his home in the south wing and it was in this section that his children were born.

The north wing, a home in itself, was rented to a number of well-known Washingtonians, including Dr. Edward S Kimball, a prominent vocal teacher of the latter part of the last century.

The home was razed in 1917 and the property sold to the telephone company.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC KILLS 5 AT ASYLUM

125 Others Are Afflicted in Ohio as Quarantine Bars Relatives.

Cleveland, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Overtaxed doctors and nurses toiled without sleep tonight to curb a typhoid fever epidemic in the Newburg State Hospital for the Insane which has claimed five lives, afflicted 125 other inmates and placed the entire institution under rigid quarantine.

As the fifth victim died, an appeal was dispatched to the State health department at Columbus for more serum with which to inoculate more than 2,000 inmates in the institution. There was no immediate danger of a shortage, however.

The death toll was expected to mount, since many of the 125 patients were reported in a serious condition or already weakened by the infirmities of old age.

Physicians under the direction of Dr. Guy H. Williams, superintendent, were striving to ascertain the source of the epidemic which was not correctly diagnosed until Saturday after it had been felt in a mild form for several weeks. The malady was first thought to be influenza.

The milk and water supply was carefully analyzed to determine if the epidemic originated from either of these sources. Blood tests also were made to determine if a human carrier was responsible.

The GIRL About Town

DAUGHTERS appear to be a long suit with Belgian Ambassadors to Washington. No sooner do the de Lignes disappear over the diplomatic horizon with their three daughters than the new Ambassador and Madame May move right into the embassy with their fair trio. From what I have heard of the Mays they are very charming people. That's one of the joys of society in Washington. If old friends leave, new ones are always arriving. It is hard to be lonesome in a world capital.

I am so excited over Eleanor Hard's engagement. Eleanor is a student, of course, but awfully jolly, and she inherits brilliancy and charm from both parents. Bill is in Europe just now trying to sell the League of Nations idea to the world via the radio, and Anne is keeping house with Eleanor in Georgetown. "Dr. Gerard Kirsopp Lake, professor of ecclesiastical history at Harvard," sounds dreadfully highbrow and serious. But he probably has his lighter moments. I suppose they will live in Cambridge Here's a world of luck to them.

THE most attractive girls have gone "blue stocking" these days. There is that engaging Beatrice Aitchison, who never has had time to make a debut, she has been so busy collecting degrees here, there and everywhere. She has special keys on her typewriter for her scientific research work. Beatrice has returned from Europe with her father and is back at her postgraduate work at Johns Hopkins, getting some new degree or other. If you have an important dinner party and want a girl who can really keep great men occupied, ask that girl.

Cornelia Mayo will present Charlotte to Washington society this season, despite her youth. Cornelia is wise in bringing pretty Charlotte out now, else she might have a bride instead of a debutante on her hands.

• • • •

Senator Royal S Copeland is back, no doubt making up his stock of congressional pills for the season. Dr. Copeland works hard at the task of keeping fresh air in the Senate. The Vice President sympathizes with him, but he has little hope of driving the hot air out. No matter how faint a solon may become, "Doc" Copeland is hard boiled in denying prescriptions. If he once started giving them the whole Senate would be ill.

Speaking of the Senate, Mayor Walker evidently thinks it is another rest cure. He confided to a newspaperman in Paris the other day that his ambitions were in the direction of a toga in Washington rather than a gubernatorial seat in Albany. Senator Wagner's term will expire March 4, 1933.

G.A.R. ENCAMPMENT IS LAUNCHED IN IOWA

Two Thousand Veterans of Civil War Show Zest in Proceedings.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—With an enthusiasm that would do credit to persons one-fourth the average age of its veterans, the Grand Army of the Republic today started its sixty-fifth annual encampment.

While the encampment routine had just started, the 2,000 or so Civil War veterans started campaigns for new officers and the 1932 convention city.

Kansas veterans, their sunflower ornaments taking their place in the color of the flag-decorated city, advanced H. I. Merrill for commander in chief with a steady piping and drumming in the crowded convention headquarters.

Cleveland, Springfield, Ill., and St. Paul were among the first cities to make bids for the 1932 convention.

An executive committee session, directed by James E. Jewel, of Fort Morgan, Colo., recommended approval of the audit report of Edward Hurley, of Buffalo, quartermaster general.

Meetings also were conducted by the credentials committee, the council of administration, and department commanders and aid-de-camps.

On tonight's program was a public welcoming, with addresses by Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa and others. Greetings were brought by national presidents of the Army Nurses Association, National Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Union Veterans, Sons of Union Veterans, and Sons of Union Veterans Auxiliary, which also are convening here.

Tuesday will be devoted to a meeting of the credentials committee, visits to Des Moines schools, reunions, a joint allied reception, and the fiftieth anniversary program of the Sons of Union Veterans.

Dentist Is Accused In Woman's Death

West Virginian in Reno for Divorce Held as Widow Dies in Auto Case.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, Fairmont, W. Va., dentist, in Reno seeking a divorce, was charged with manslaughter today following the death last night of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, of Fairmont, who was killed when she allegedly fell or jumped from Andre's speeding automobile.

Mrs. Hutchinson, a widow, died shortly after being taken to a hospital by Dr. Andre. Death was ascribed to a fractured skull.

The sheriff said Andre stated he was traveling 50 miles an hour when the accident occurred. According to the officer, the dentist said the woman came to Reno intending to marry him when he obtained a divorce but that he had lost interest in their prospective marriage.

SLUMP HAS LITTLE EFFECT ON HOLLAND

Colonies Face Future With Calm After Averting Setback Thus Far.

The Hague, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Holland is prepared to buttress her economic dikes against financial storms as the world economic depression dips into her colonies.

"Although her commerce, agriculture and industry and her public and private finances are heavily affected," said J. T. Verschuur, minister of labor, commerce and industry, "Holland is less touched than most other countries."

"Fortunately," said P. J. C. Tetrode, vice president of the Bank of The Netherlands, "we are getting only the tail end of the economic hurricane."

"Only if the economic depression continues long will the situation become serious," said Louis Reis, undersecretary of the treasury. "At present we face the future calmly."

Rubber, tea, coffee, tobacco, oil and tin prices have tumbled and world consumption has decreased. Yet the Netherlands remains financially stable.

Factors in Stability.

Factors in that stability, Undersecretary Reis said, are:

"First, our staying out of the war; second, the wealth of our colonies; third, the insistence of a balanced budget; fourth, our quickness at anticipating difficulties; fifth, free trade."

"We, too, have troubles," he said. "Billions of florins have been lost through the drop in world prices. Our taxes are the highest in Europe after England and Germany. But our nation, which for centuries has battled against the elements, is prepared also to master economic adversity."

"Colonial exports totaled only 1,245,000,000 florins (about $498,000,000) in 1930, as compared with 1,505,000,000 florins (about $602,000,000) in 1929." Dr. Van Der Waals, chief of the economic section of the ministry for the colonies.

Third in World.

The importance of colonial trade is realized when it is remembered that Holland's 8,000,000 inhabitants have the third largest colonial empire in the world.

Colonials to the number of 60,000,000 owe allegience to Queen Wilhelmina, who rules over possessions ten times as large as Minnesota although the motherland is only one-seventh the size of that American State.

In the colonies Dutchmen of all classes invest their savings and from the colonies they draw their incomes. The colonial profits of 1920 to 1929 are enabling Hollanders to stand the lean years of the world-wide depression.

Canny business men, they did not squander their profits during prosperity, but saved for a rainy day. Unemployment was not yet a cause for alarm.

Bridge Chiefs Meet Without Any Cards

Mr. Work, Kate Wheelock Send Out for Deck; Convention Opens.

New York, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Inability to find a deck of cards proved embarrassing today for officials of Bridge Headquarters, Inc., sponsoring the first annual convention of 500 American bridge teachers at the Hotel Roosevelt.

Newspaper photographers wanted to show Miss Kate Wheelock, the Nation's first teacher of whist, in deep conference with Milton C. Work over pasteboards. Everything was in readiness for the picture when it was discovered that nobody had a deck of cards.

"I tell you," said one man, "suppose I go down to the lobby. Maybe I could get a pack off the cigar counter." "Say deck, not pack," frowned one of the committee ladies, "and go on quick." So they got the deck, not pack, from the cigar counter and the picture was taken without further ado.

Walker Estimates Beer Would Bring in Billion

London, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—A way to raise a billion dollars from beer sales in the United States was suggested today by Mayor James J. Walker of New York as a means of meeting Federal burgetary needs.

Mr. Walker, who received the press after having luncheon with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street, suggested "a reasonable tax on beer at its source and a retail price of 10 cents a glass" to relieve the thirst of his homeland.

Road Survey Cards Issued To Autoists at 250 Points

A traffic recorder handing questionnaires to a motorist, for use in the traffic survey of the regional area of Washington. The survey is to last a year and 250 traffic counting stations are being operated.

Information to Be Used in Developing Plan of Improvement.

Roads leading from the District of Columbia are now guarded by a new kind of "traffic cop," in accordance with the Government's recent traffic survey, to be effective throughout the next twelve months, it has been announced by the Bureau of Public Roads. The duties of these men are to serve passing motorists with special cards seeking information to be used in outlining a comprehensive plan of highway betterment in this area.

Approximately 250 recording stations are now in operation in and around the District. As cars, trucks or buses pass, the license tag numbers and the State from which they come, are recorded, as well as the direction of travel and observations as to weather conditions.

From these cards, calling for such information as mileage traveled during the day, exact place of origin and destination of the trip and number of passengers, statistics will be compiled showing the daily volume of traffic on all important routes and providing definite facts for working out the character and priority of highway improvement.

VIRGIN ISLANDS PLAN FOR NEW INDUSTRIES

Farm Diversification Also Is Proposed to Relieve Economic Stress.

(Associated Press.)

Introduction of new industries and agricultural diversification are being planned to relieve the economic situation of the Virgin Islands.

Charles F. Knox, West Indian expert of the Commerce Department, said yesterday, in outlining plans for the islands, that the new program proposed the promotion of handicraft industries and formation of cooperative marketing associations in the cattle and charcoal industres.

Efforts will be made to diversify agriculture with a view to producing high-grade vegetables to be sold in northern markets during the winter and to introduce citrus fruits.

Work is now being done to eradicate the pink boll worm so the growing of long-staple cotton may be resumed. Homesteading projects, establishment of fisheries and promotion of tourist business also are planned.

Knox said that, contrary to public opinion, the St. Thomas Bay rum industry has been steadily expanding in recent years, and the exports of bay rum during the first six months of 1931 were the largest on record.

He said decline of the sugar industry and ship provisioning industries had been chiefly responsible for the unfavorable situation.

1930 Census Base For Radio Quotas

Radio Commission Adopts Figures to Distribute Facilities.

(Associated Press.)

The Radio Commission yesterday adopted the 1930 population figures as computed by the Census Bureau as the base for its quota system governing the distribution of broadcasting facilities.

Under the new figures, 33 States, the District of Columbia and Porto Rico were affected, with 16 States gaining in the radio quotas and 17 losing. The greatest gain was .05 of a unit by New Jersey and the greatest loss was in Kentucky—.04 of one unit.

There are 400 units for the entire country, in which there are distributed 435 units of radio facilities, the Nation being 35 units above the amount the commission thinks should be the maximum.

WHEAT BLOC ADOPTS 'BITTER-END' POLICY

(Associated Press.)

Determination to remain in Washington until the Farm Board has adopted a plan for the relief of wheat farmers was expressed yesterday by Representative Summers (Republican), Washington.

Summers is one of the leaders of a Pacific Northwest delegation urging adoption by the board of the "Walla Walla" plan. It provides for sale to farmers of surplus wheat held by the board contingent upon contracts not to plant next year an amount equal to individual purchases.

His group, Summers said, would agree to modification of their proposal if necessary, but were insistent some action be taken by the board to relieve present "deplorable" conditions.

A conference was held with several board members yesterday. Others will be held during the week.

"If our plan needs changing," Summers said, "we will agree to its modification. We are willing to agree that only the wheat that remains after sales or trades to foreign governments are completed be sold to domestic farmers, but we are not willing to be turned down completely.

"So far, board members have not offered a substitute plan. Neither has there been any specific opposition. The members, however, have raised many questions and many ifs, buts and ands."

Crude Oil Imports Embargo Refused

Hoover Wires Seligman He Lacks Power; Board to Consider Case.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—President Herbert Hoover telegraphed Gov. Arthur Seligman today that he has no authority to place an embargo on foreign crude oil.

"Specific complaint on the question you mention by the Independent Producers Association has been laid before the Tariff Commission and they are giving it consideration at the present moment," Mr. Hoover said.

Gov. Seligman interpreted that to refer to his suggestion that foreign imports have increased since curtailment of domestic production, resulting in alleged unfair competition.

The New Mexico executive sent the President an appeal for an embargo last Saturday, in which he was joined by the Governors of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana.

Women Trampled, 60 Hurt in Rioting

Berlin Debate Partisans Rushed by Police as Fight Starts.

Berlin, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Upward of 60 men and women were injured tonight, some seriously, in fighting which broke out between police and a crowd of 1,000 which was trying to jam its way into the Sportspalast to hear a debate between Communist and Social Democratic leaders.

The throngs arrived before the doors were opened and began exchanging banter. Words soon gave way to fisticuffs, and then the police intervened.

Charging the crowd, which at first refused to give way, the police swung their rubber clubs and the crowd broke in a panic, dashing through side streets and trampling several women. One small group offered stubborn resistance. It was in this crowd that five persons were more seriously hurt.

SCHOFIELD TO HEAD NAVAL FLEET TODAY

Aid to Sims in World War Will Succeed Chase as Commander in Chief.

San Pedro, Calif., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Admiral Frank H. Schofield will become commander in chief of the Nation's battle fleet tomorrow in succession to Admiral Jehu V. Chase.

Gold braid, cocked hats and gleaming epaulettes will supply the background for the designation of Admiral Schofield as the new commander, outranked in naval circles only by Secretary Adams and President Hoover—the latter as head of all U. S. land and naval forces.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations for the Naval Bureau at Washington, will witness the ceremony. Admiral Chase is scheduled for duty at Washington as a member of the Navy General Board. Admiral Schofield comes to his new post from the battle force, of which he has been commander in chief the past year.

Command of the battle force will fall to Vice Admiral Richard H. Leigh, heretofore commander of battleships in the battle force. He will have the rank of full admiral.

(Associated Press.)

Admiral Frank H. Schofield, who today becomes commander in chief of the United States fleet, is considered one of the leading naval strategists.

During the World War, Admiral Schofield served in London on the staff of Admiral Sims. For his services he was awarded the Navy Cross, the decoration of Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George by the British government, Officer of the Legion of Honor by France, and Knight Commander of the Liberian Humane Order of African Redemption by the President of Liberia.

Immediately after the war Admiral Schofield participated in Paris in the drawing up of the naval terms of peace with Germany. In 1927 he was one of the naval members of the American representation at the three power conference.

Born in Jerusalem, N. Y., January 4, 1869, the admiral was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1886.

Mississippi Sheriff Shot Dead in Tennessee Hotel

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Sheriff F. S. Nasen, of Green County, Miss., was found shot to death in a hotel room here today and police said they are considering a theory of murder.

Capt. Frank Clisson, of the Memphis Homicide Bureau, declared he could not understand how an assailant could have left the room after the shooting but nevertheless he did not conclude it was suicide.

Porto Rico's Governor Arrives in New York

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt arrived today from Porto Rico on the steamer Coamo on his way to the American Legion convention in Detroit.

He went to his home at Oyster Bay tonight to spend a few days with his family before leaving for Detroit Friday.

Protection of Workers By Tariff Held Sham

Gulfport, Miss., Sept. 14 (U.P.).—The Smoot-Hawley tariff law is a "sham and pretense at an effort to protect American labor," Senator Pat Harrison told delegates to the thirteenth annual Mississippi State Federation of Labor convention here today.

"The builders of the law knew, and the laboring people of this country knew, that in normal times the increased prices exacted by the protected interests under the shadow of high protected tariffs go to the stockholder, either in large reserves or increased dividends, rather than to those who sweat and toil in the production," Senator Harrison said.

UNION OFFICIAL ASKS NEW ECONOMIC DEAL

Printers' President Calls for More Equal Distribution of Wealth.

Boston, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, which opened its seventy-sixth annual convention here today, called upon capital, management and labor to work out a more equal distribution of wealth in an address concluding the first session.

"The people of many nations are yet seeking a way out of unemployment, sometimes through revolutionary changes, armed and otherwise," Mr. Howard said. "We hear new and strange theories expounded and in some quarters the confusion appears so great that even the most brilliant minds do not know which way to turn for a solution. And in all this there appears to be just one problem, a more equitable distribution of the wealth and production of the world.

"The ingenuity of man has solved the problem of producing enough for all. We have overcome the conditions where millions were forced to desperation each year because of crude methods of production. However, because of the cupidity of some, which has resulted in unequal distribution, we yet have suffering and starvation.

"Capital, management and representatives of the workers must sit down around the table and find the cure for the awful condition from which all elements are suffering."

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who welcomed the several thousand delegates and their families to Boston, took the occasion to advance again his advocacy of the five-day week universally applied, a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan and a conference such as that which Mr. Howard advocated.

Policeman's Slayer, 20, Electrocuted in Bay State

Boston, Sept. 15 (Tuesday) (U.P.).—Paul V. Hurley, 20, who introduced himself to crime at 15, was electrocuted at State Prison early today for the murder of Patrolman Joseph F. O'Brien.

Hurley entered the death chamber at 12:03 a. m. and was pronounced dead at 12:10. Robert Elliott, who has turned the lethal current on some 160 condemned persons, including Ruth Snyder, Judd Gray, and Sacco and Vanzetti, was executioner.

COUNTY PROSECUTOR DOUBTS PIRACY TALE

Wife's Yacht Story Later, However, Called Productive of Results.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—In the presence of a skeptical county prosecutor aboard the cruiser Penguin, Mrs. Benjamin Collings' third reenactment of her story of her husband's disappearance was described tonight by authorities as "productive of results."

The announcement was made by Fred A. Munder, assistant district attorney of Suffolk County, whose superior, District Attorney Alexander Blue, told Mrs. Collings earlier he did not believe her account of an invasion of their yacht in which two men threw her husband overboard and abducted her.

Munder said Mrs. Collings repeated her original account of the midnight "piracy" without any changes.

"Her attitude under today's questioning was helpful," said Munder, but he refused to amplify his statement as to the "results" obtained.

Mrs. Collings was accompanied on the yacht trip by an attorney, H. C. Kelly, the Suffolk County prosecutor and District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, of Nassau County, who has expressed himself as convinced she has been telling the truth, "fantastic as her story sounds." Later she was taken to a ferry en route to her Stamford, Conn., home, where she will spend the night before returning tomorrow for further examination.

It was as they reached the dock on the estate of William B. Leeds, where the Penguin was docked, that the Suffolk district attorney, who entered the case today for the first time, turned to her and said:

"I don't believe your story. We intend to get at the facts and this is your opportunity to give them to us."

The party had expected to be gone for only two hours, but four hours later they had not returned.

The young wife already had undergone nearly 30 hours of questioning since she was found in a moored motorboat, where she said her two kidnapers had left her, after throwing her trussed husband into the sound and leaving her small daughter on board the drifting cruiser.

A futile search throughout the day for the body of the missing Connecticut yachtsman, engaged in by more than 100 boatmen and owners of a number of small yachts, was discontinued at dusk for the night. Authorities had figured if Collings drowned Wednesday night, the body, under normal conditions, should rise to the surface today.

Painter Confesses $2,500 Extortion

Lack of Job and Disappearance of Hazleton Gave Him Idea, He Says.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—George Marthens, middle-aged house painter, admitted to police today that it was he who attempted to obtain $2,500 from Edgar Hazelton on the pretense of bringing back Hazelton's son, Edgar, jr., who had disappeared August 20.

He said he was out of money and had no work, and he conceived the extortion idea upon learning of young Hazelton's suspected abduction.

The 16-year-old Hazelton youth returned home last week, having wandered away on a hitch-hike journey. The extortion attempt was traced to Marthens when a police airplane followed a carrier pigeon by which Hazelton had been instructed to send ransom money for his son's release.

Drunken Father Slain By Daughter, Aged 14

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 14.—After her drunken father had torn nearly all her clothing from her, Audrey Underwood, 14, took a target rifle and shot him dead Saturday night at their home at Elk Lick, Doddridge County, ten miles north of Salem, a coroner's jury was told today. It returned a finding of justifiable homicide.

Equity Urges Subsidizing Of Youthful Playwrights

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Woes that haunt the struggling young playwright will be eliminated for a dozen picked writers each year if Actors' Equity can win support for a plan disclosed today.

Alfred Harding, Equity official, told how the organization is trying to persuade some group of producers to subsidize ten or twelve promising young men annually, in the hope that once free of monetary worries they will be able to write plays good enough to "pack 'em in."

Mr. Harding admitted the idea was not an original one, that it had been inspired by big business and Hollywood, but he said it would solve one of the theater's biggest problems if it worked.

The ten or twelve subjects of the experiment would be chosen not by past accomplishment but on a basis of what they might be capable of doing under ideal conditions.

They would receive $5,000 or $6,000 a year, without any strings tied to it. They would be told to spend all their time working on plays and guaranteed that anything they turned out would receive the prompt, thorough attention of producers in the subsidizing group.

Thus would be eliminated for those ten or twelve the worry of "where's the next meal coming from," which Mr. Harding said is hardly conducive to good work, and the job of "peddling" a play from producer to producer until some day someone sees something in it.

As soon as one of the subsidized writers turned out a money-making play he would be dropped from the group and replaced by another struggling playwright.

"If only a small percentage of those we subsidized made good, it still would be a profitable venture," Mr. Harding said, "for the crying need of the theater is for good plays. There is plenty of talent on hand to act them and there is a potential audience ready to patronize them, if we can get the plays."

Airplane-Dirigible Shown; Resembles Link Sausages

More Than 32,000 Doodads Displayed at Patent Exposition in Chicago; Ball-Bearing, Free-Wheeling Rolling Pin Is Exhibited.

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A combination airplane-dirigible, resembling a dozen sausages banded together with motors in the middle, above and below, was one of the chief attractions for the stares of visitors at the second international patent exposition today.

Inventions, doodads and thingumabobs numbering more than 32,000 were on display. The devices were the creations of 25,000 men and women from 22 countries.

The novel air machine, according to its inventor, obeys the slogan "Through the air with the air." The "sausages" hold compressed air and are kept filled by the motors while in flight.

The baby, there's a nifty bottle holder. A bracket holds the bottle on the side of the carriage; it is adjusted until the nipple reaches baby's mouth. Also for baby: A storm baby buggy and snow sled.

For the jobless there is a demountable half-sole for shoes. Two soles, the inventor claims, will last the winter out.

If Dobbin is getting old and touchy, a pneumatic collar will feel soft to his aging neck. The inventor claims it will cause no sores by rubbing and chafing.

The "swat the fly" campaign is helped along by a double-action fly swat. The pest is caught, if the aim is true, between two blades of screening.

For mother's baking, there's a gadget on display that is a gadget. It's a ball-bearing, free-wheeling rolling pin. It'll spin on its handles for five minutes.

For the tired Morse telegraph operator, one of the inventors has provided a shorthand keyboard. Every letter is sent, in dots and dashes, by pressing one of a combination of eight numbers.

The motorist who cleans his own valves comes in for a one-valve motor, for any number of cylinders, from four to sixteen.

With winter and ice skating near, another doodad was timely, a life preserver, guaranteed by its owner to prevent drowning in ice holes.

French Ministry of Interior May Investigate Reports That Players Appeared as if in Trance While Winning $3,200 Nightly From Casinos.

Paris, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—The sensational luck at gambling tables of several mysterious women players, rumored to have been hypnotized by some unidentified master of psychic phenomena, was investigated tonight by operatives of the French Riveira casinos.

The sudden appearance of the women, who were reported playing without appearing to give any thought to the game, and a coincident rage among regular players for lucky stones, scarabs and dubious mystics, was said to have caused such consternation that the ministry of interior probably would be compelled to investigate the entire situation.

One of the strongest complaints was made to M. Baudoin, director of one of the Nice casinos. He was informed by several players and by members of a professional gambling syndicate of the strange luck of the women. The complaints were to the effect that someone like the fictitious Svengali, hypnotic master of Trilby, was sitting behind the scenes and controlling them in an effort to break the bank.

The women players were described as apparently "impressionable" types who might easily be influenced by hypnotism. They appeared, fashionably dressed, at the baccarat tables in Nice and Juan-Les-Pins, playing somewhat as if they were going through a ritual. They had astounding luck. Their winnings were estimated to average around 80,000 francs (about $3,200) each night, but they never overplayed their luck.

Some of the witnesses were of the opinion that the women did not know where they were, and it was remarked that after winning a certain amount they invariably rose without delay and left the tables. It also was observed that they departed in expensive automobiles.

As an indication of the belief in the hypnotic "system," it was pointed out that the actress, Dolly Davis, submitted to a test which enabled her to win several thousands francs at Nice. She permitted herself to be hypnotized, although she was skeptical, and played without knowing just what she did, according to her story. She said it was all "much like a dream."

Miss Phyllis Woodcock, internationally known society woman, has won 300,000 francs on the tip of an Egyptian astrologer, and Miss Alice Morris, of Cincinnati, was reported to have won 59,000 francs after visiting a fakir who has been practicing recently at Juan-Les-Pins.

COLD DRIVES GANDHI FROM PARLEY ROOM

Mahatma Observes Silence, and Finally Leaves, as Leaders Laud Him.

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—British and Indian political leaders, assembled at St. James Palace today at a meeting of the federal structures committee in preparation for the second round table conference on Indian affairs, heard numerous diplomatic speeches expressing hope the great Indian problem might finally be settled—but Mahatma Gandhi, the man who dominated the meeting, sat wrapped in his dhoti and said nothing.

The mahatma's dhoti—or shawl—and loin cloth afforded little protection against the chill in the centuries-old palace.

During the morning and early afternoon Mr. Gandhi fared well, for sunlight poured through the window on the mall at his back. But as the day advanced the sun passed, and a short time before adjournment he got up from his seat without a word and departed.

The leader of India's Nationalist millions said nothing today because Monday is his day of silence, which he has observed for many years. Saying nothing, he still dominated the meeting, for, as many speakers observed, he represented the largest political organization in India.

Gandhi to Talk Today.

Behind him are the millions who made possible the devasting civil disobedience movement that crippled British business in India, and his absence created a great gap in the first round table conference that ended last January.

Tomorrow he will speak, and many observers say that when he has spoken it will be possible to gauge the success or failure of the conference.

What he will say remained unknown tonight for he has not outlined his speech. Instead, he will rely on his "inner voice" which, to him, is God.

"If arithmetically our hopes and fears are weighed in the balance, I am afraid our fears will far outweigh our hopes," the mahatma explained this evening after his period of silence was over. "But it is really too early to make predictions. We ought to be able to say a week hence whether our hopes will ultimately overbalance our fears. At present everything is in the lap of the gods."

Throughout today's meeting Mr. Gandhi kept an American-made vacuum bottle containing goat's milk on the table in front of him, and occasionally he sipped from it. Now and again he twiddled his thumbs or picked at his finger nails. Infrequently he looked with a broad smile at the speaker, but otherwise he was solemn.

Had Place of Honor.

He had the place of honor at the conference table at the left of Lord Sankey, chairman of the committee, with Pandit Malaviya, one of India's sages, on his own left. Sir Samuel Hoare was at Lord Sankey's right.

The various speeches appeared to pall upon the mahatma after a while and it was evident he was anxious for the time when there will be discussion with less oratory and more negotiation.

All those addressing the conclave stressed their pleasure that Mr. Gandhi, frequently referred to as the representative of the "strongest and best-organized political association in India," had come to London.

The speakers included Sir Zafrullah Khan, Sir Maneckjee Dabahoy and the Gaekwar of Baroda.

The problem of the federal structures committee sessions is to evolve the framework for the federation of Indian states and principalities which the conference hopes to effect.

Civilization Fails On Crime, Is Claim

Bar President Asserts Procedure Changes Won't Assist.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Charles A. Boston, president of the American Bar Association, tonight asserted present day civilization had not shown itself competent to deal with the crime question.

Mr. Boston spoke in an interview anticipating the meeting of the bar association tomorrow. He declined to suggest remedies for crime, but said that criminal procedure changes would not solve the problem.

An increasing tendency in Congress to increase Federal regulation of industry as a result of the business depression was seen in the report of the section of public utility law to the bar association today. This report will be presented to the section tomorrow when it convenes to hear Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland speak on "The Power Question—Let Us Not Go Revolutionary."

Mahatma Gandhi, the Man

countenance at once rugged and tender, deeply seamed and sensitively mobile. A massive head, with close cropped, gray hair, is supported on a comparatively frail neck, and is flanked by large ears. A long nose surmounts a crisply clipped mustache, fringing the upper lip of a mouth naturally large and unnecessarily toothless. (Mr. Gandhi had promised his friend, the late Pandit Mehru, some years ago that he would acquire a set of artificial teeth, but has not got around to it yet).

He Wears Spectacles.

A rather conspicuous pair of glasses precariously attaches itself to his nose, but never really succeeds in dimming the glow or diverting the gaze of dark brown and small eyes, which more often than not may be averted in contemplation or through courtesy, but which may readily and swiftly attain an expression of cosmic steadfastness or devastating directness. To complete the picture—and the paradox—a gentle, winsome, irrestible smile, astonishingly often, irradiates and redeems this physiognomic ensemble.

By fundamental temperament Gandhi is an ascetic, a puritan, and an absolutist. Although he has evolved to his present spiritual and intellectual state by sustained and unflinching self-discipline for more than 30 years, which included a ceaseless self-scrutiny for the motives behind his acts, his boyhood and early manhood were lived normally in conformity with the customs and usages of the caste and community in which he was born.

But the roots of his temperament undoubtedly go back to his racial and religious inheritance. Gandhi was born in an orthodox family owning allegiance to the Jain faith—perhaps the most rigorously puritanical branch of the Hindu religion. The cardinal principle of Jainism is reverence for life—all life—human and other, with the corallary of nonviolence and noninjury to any being in any shape or form. Furthermore, Jainism enjoins upon its followers complete and absolute abstention from all meat diet and all and every variety of alcoholic or intoxicating beverages, as well as a strict standard of sexual purity.

Studies in England for Bar.

When in his later teens Gandhi finally overcame the objections of his parents and family to proceed to England to study for the bar, his mother only consented when he had made a solemn vow to her that during the years of his sojourn in England Gandhi would remain a celibate and scrupulously refrain from eating meat or drinking liquor. It is characteristic of Gandhi that, as he records in his autobiography, he was able, in spite of "hellish temptations," as he puts it, to keep that vow.

During this period of trial in a foreign land, Gandhi records, whenever he was tempted and seemed to weaken in his resolve, he always steadied himself by the thought of his mother. "How could I look her in the face when I go back?" was the question he asked himself, and that seemed to settle all his doubts and hesitations. This episode was an early indication of his inherent capacity for a Spartan self-discipline.

The routine of Gandhi's daily life is unique; it reveals both his personality and his principles. He rises at 4 a. m., and invariably the first item of the day's schedule is an hour's prayer and meditation.

Averages Twelve Hours of Work.

Then follows an average of twelve hours of sustained and methodical work—seeing visitors, attending to correspondence, writing or dictating editorials for Young India, of which he is the editor; taking part in conferences on matters of national interest or importance, directing the affairs of the Ashram (the retreat or community house in which he lives), responding to the thousand and one calls upon him from all parts of the country as the generalissimo of the National movement.

The mahatma does not take or get a respite of even half an hour during this period of rigorously scheduled activity. Even when he partakes of his frugal midday meal, consisting invariably of milk and fruit, he does not seek privacy. On the contrary, he looks upon the occasion apparently as a half hour of social relaxation, for it is not uncommon for a dozen or more casual visitors, who possibly have been waiting anywhere from one to six hours to see him, to be shown in. The mahatma converses with them cordially and pleasantly while he takes his meal. (This type of visitor usually comes without appointment, hailing from all parts of India, and the purpose of their pilgrimage is more to pay their personal homage to Gandhi than to discuss any particular matter or problem with him.)

The day ends for the mahatma as it begins—with an hour of prayer and meditation. This often includes singing of sacred and devotional songs by the members of his little community house. When he finally turns in, it is to sleep on a piece of meager bedding spread on the bare floor. Mahatma Gandhi's sleep averages from four to five hours; another four hours may be said to take up his prayers and meditation, ablutions and meals; for four hours again religiously every day he spins the coarse "Kadda" (homespun cloth). Almost every quarter of an hour of the remaining twelve hours is accounted for by a program of work and activity systematically arranged and regulated.

Such are the daily life and working habits of the man for whom it has been claimed by responsible critics that he is literally the most widely influential individual of our age. An informed English observer, S. K. Ratcliffe, says that Gandhi is "the most extraordinary popular leader ever known. His followers are counted by tens of millions."

(The second of this series of three articles—Gandhi's Amazing Philosophy of Life—will appear in The Post tomorrow.)

ECONOMY BILL GETS BRITISH HOUSE VOTE

Measure Wins Second Reading by 57 Majority; Salary Cuts Proposed.

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The national government's economy bill passed second reading in the House of Commons today by a vote 310 to 253, giving the administration a safe majority of 57.

The division in the House came after long debates on the proposed cuts in the "dole" and the reduction of salaries and social services. The bill actually would authorize "the making of orders in council for purposes of effecting economies in public expenditures."

Salary and expense cuts are proposed in the departments of national education, health insurance, police, unemployment insurance and roads.

George Lansbury, a member of the former Labor cabinet, charged during the debate that American bankers had demanded the cut in the "dole."

"The American bankers said," he asserted, "'Your social services are attracting the notice of workers in this country who are going out with banners demanding the unemployment benefit.'" Philip Snowden, he said, had "capitulated to the moneylenders."

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal member of the new government, declared that the former members of the Labor cabinet had agreed to a 15 per cent reduction of teachers' salaries during the conferences over economy before the national government came into existence.

"The members of the late government are not free to attack in September what they were prepared to accept in August," he said. All the economies in the present bill were accepted by the late government, he said.

Mal Daugherty Begins Ohio Court Appeal Plea

Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Arguments in the appeal of Mal S. Daugherty, former head of the defunct Ohio State Bank, from a sentence of ten years, imprisonment, and a fine of $5,000, opened before the Ninth District Appellate Court here today.

Harry M. Daugherty, Columbus, former attorney general of the United States and brother of the banker, was in the courtroom but did not participate in the arguments. Daugherty was convicted last March 18 of mishandling funds of the bank. He is under bond of $40,000 pending completion of his appeal.

SPEAKEASY BANDITS MURDER POLICEMAN

Wound Second as They Flee Greenwich Village Bar; Alcohol Runner Slain.

New York, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Racketeers carried their warfare into Manhattan's Lower East Side tonight, slaying Frank P. Lescia, 28-year-old alcohol runner after following him beyond the crowded section of Thirteenth street, presumably to prevent their bullets striking bystanders.

Lescia was carrying a gallon can of alcohol when his enemies shot him twice in the back with pistols. Police said Lescia had been arrested recently for transporting alcohol. He was at liberty on bail.

The Thirteenth street killing climaxed a day of outlawry in New York, including the murder of a police sergeant, the wounding of a patrolman and a vicious attack on a Brooklyn diamond merchant.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Police Sergt. Timothy Murphy, who ran to a Greenwich Village speakeasy on hearing shots early today, was shot to death by one of seven gunmen robbing the place.

A block away Patrolman Fred Knocke attempted to stop the fleeing gunmen. Two whipped out pistols and dropped him with shots in the shoulder and right arm. Knocke was wounded seriously.

High police officials, immediately on the scene, ordered a cordon thrown about the district and all passersby were stopped and questioned.

Police detained Frank Fern, alleged proprietor of the speakeasy. He was asked to identify suspects brought in for questioning.

Murphy was 48 years old and had been a policeman for 25 years.

Mechanical Timer Cuts Stainforth to 379.05

London, Sept. 14 (U.P.).—The Royal Aero Club announced today the official average time set by Flight Lieut. C. H. Stainforth in his world record seaplane tests yesterday was 379.05 miles an hour, rather than 386 miles an hour.

The official time was taken by a clocking device, whereas the time announced at Calshot were taken with stop watches. The announcement also showed Stainforth's fastest test was 388.67 miles an hour.

NEW OIL BURNER harnesses RADIANT HEAT

Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. Nearly 50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs comes from the luminous radiance of the flame itself. That's what this new Petro-Nokol gives you... ideal, radiant heat that saves fuel. And for further economy... this flame is located right at the grate level... where it belongs... where the coldest water absorbs the maximum of heat.

At 60 miles an hour... through two panes of glass ... on the coldest day, you can feel the radiant heat from a bon-fire 50 feet from the track! You can't see it or smell it. It's just pure heat rays. The new Petro-Nokol puts it to work in your boiler.

First time ever accomplished by any oil burner selling as low as

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

The ideal form of heat... is radiant heat! The same intense heat you feel from the summer sun. It is just pure heat rays. No smoke. No odor. No sound. To harness these clean, silent, radiant heat rays and put them to work in your own boiler with the new Petro-Nokol Rotary Oil Burner is the supreme achievement of the world's oldest and largest oil heating organization.

OIL HEAT COSTS DROP STILL FURTHER

Now... at the lowest prices in oil burner history, the cost of heating homes with oil is reduced even further below the cost of heating with other fuels. And this new low-cost oil heat is assured for a generation at least, due to the world-wide overwhelming surplus of oil. In many cases, this new saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

TRAFFIC IMPROVEMENTS.

Beginning this morning motorists in Washington will negotiate left turns according to the nationally approved pattern. This is one of many changes the traffic department is inaugurating in an effort to facilitate the movement of vehicles, especially during the rush hours. It may be assumed that the left turn from the center of the street will work satisfactorily here, as it is in use in practically all large American cities.

Obviously, this change has been made in the interest of facilitating traffic rather than as a safety measure. The rotating turn heretofore used requires more time to complete and it frequently causes traffic jams, but it is regarded as one of the factors responsible for Washington's low automobile accident rate. The new inside turn may be expected to expedite the movement of traffic, but the public will doubtless withhold judgment as to which method best serves the interests of the community until it has a chance to study accident statistics under the new turn.

A number of improvements in the traffic regulations are being made by Director W. A. Van Duzer. A flexible system of control is being tried out on Rhode Island avenue with considerable success. The light signals are so arranged as to allow a continuous flow of traffic and thus increase the capacity of the street. Many other improvements of this nature are needed. Under present arrangements wide streets are choked with traffic in busy hours when the stream of cars should flow freely and with as much dispatch as possible.

Sixteenth street provides an example of almost intolerable sluggishness in traffic during the rush hours. Long lines of cars must start and stop at every second street and sometimes at every street. It requires so much time for waiting, starting and stopping that the green light goes red before the motorist can pass it.

So long as conditions remain as they are traffic lights are essential to prevent entanglements and crashes at intersections. But extensive improvements might be made in the timing of those lights. It is absurd, for example, to allow cross traffic the same amount of time on the go signal as is allowed to through traffic on a busy street. The signals ought to be timed to push traffic along in rush hours.

The improvements that Director Van Duzer has already made give hope that others will follow. If the best known methods of controlling traffic without interfering with its steady flow are put into use here, Washington with its broad and numerous streets should not be seriously afflicted with traffic congestion.

ADVANTAGES OF ROAD WORK.

Road building, more than any other work, offers opportunity for prompt relief of the unemployed. It has many distinct advantages over other forms of construction which require the preparation of elaborate plans and the acquisition of sites. Highways and streets are already public property and their improvement enlists the service of large numbers of men who do not have to be skilled in trades. Good roads add value to a community, reduce the cost of transportation and constitute a permanent investment.

This is not a new discovery, but is verified by facts that have been demonstrated throughout the country. Highway activities are giving employment to more than 1,000,000 men. Through Federal aid, State and county appropriations more than $1,000,000,000 will be expended for various forms of highway improvement during 1931. Economists estimate that for every man directly at work on roads two more are engaged in the preparation of materials, so that altogether probably more than 3,000,000 workers are engaged upon highway improvement.

It is estimated that more than 75 per cent of the money spent for road work goes to labor. Each dollar expended on highway construction is divided about as follows: Labor, 15 per cent; aggregates, such as stone, gravel and sand, 33 per cent; binders, cement, tar, asphalt, 33 per cent; equipment and miscellaneous, 19 per cent. Following back along the line of the materials that go into this construction it is found that of the cost of the aggregates and binder about one-half goes to labor. Approximately 40 per cent of the money spent on manufactured equipment ultimately reaches workingmen and in the transportation of all these materials still more labor is employed.

Highway work affords probably the largest market today for cement, sand, gravel, crushed stone, vitrified brick, asphalt and tar, while steel is used in a variety of ways in road and street construction. The hauling of road materials is an important item in freight tonnage.

Some experts conclude that improved highways reduce the cost of trucking and hauling 2 cents a mile per vehicle. This might be difficult to prove, but when motor transportation in this country totals about 200,000,000,000 miles annually, any fraction of that saving would run into startling figures.

From every part of the country come reports that preparations are being made for extensive programs of highway construction to relieve unemployment this winter. It will be carried on in the Northern States until stopped by severe weather, while in the milder climates of the South it will be continued through the winter.

THE BELIZE DISASTER.

The fury of a Caribbean hurricane is inconceivable to one who has not witnessed the havoc and desolation that it can scatter in its wake. The West Indian Islands are the most frequent sufferers from these terrible windstorms, but the latest visitation to the mainland at British Honduras is the most disastrous tropical storm since Porto Rico and Santo Domingo were devastated.

Late reports indicate that not a building in the little capital of Belize has escaped damage, and most of them are total wrecks. Out of a population of 16,000 it seems probable that 10 per cent may have lost their lives. The dead are so numerous that scores of victims were burned in great funeral pyres built of the ruins of the ill-fated city. The scene is reported as one of utmost desolation and misery. All who can are departing on the limited number of vessels available. Much of the shipping in the harbor was destroyed, with launches and tenders left stranded three hundred yards inland by the tidal waves.

American airplanes have rushed to the scene with the first greatly needed medical supplies and food. American and British warships will provide supplies in greater quantity and will be able to assist in police duty if necessary to restrain the demoralized native population from looting and food riots.

Reports that another storm was headed in the same general direction yesterday brought fresh concern, but later indications were that it probably would strike the continent farther north, along the largely uninhabited shores of the Yucatan Peninsula.

The sympathy which Americans feel for these neighbors in distress has not been limited to sentimental expressions, but is demonstrated by very prompt and efficient service from the nearest sources of supply in Nicaragua and Florida. The Red Cross will follow up this good work with its always ready and welcome ministrations.

AUSTRIA'S REVOLT.

It is somewhat surprising in this era of revolutions and political unrest that Austria with all of its troubles should be able to maintain its equilibrium. Long before conditions became serious in other parts of Europe or before South American governments began to crumble the Heimwehr, military organization of the Austrian Fascists, was threatening to overturn by force the government at Vienna. But the Heimwehr never attempted to carry out its threats until Sunday.

For several years the presence of armed forces under the direction of political leaders has been a source of unrest in Austria. On several different occasions the Heimwehr and forces of the Social Democratic party have engaged in armed clashes. But apparently the government remains at all times prepared for trouble and is therefore able to put down a blundering attempt on the part of a Heimwehr faction to establish a dictatorship.

This failure will, of course, bring the Heimwehr into further disrepute. An organization that threatens a revolution for many months and then makes such a weak attempt to carry out its objective can not expect to retain its prestige. Nevertheless, the presence of this armed force over which the government has no control is a constant threat to the peace of Austria. The current attempt of the Heimwehr to upset the government should be ample reason for the authorities at Vienna to disarm it.

Austria has many troubles to combat. The inherent weakness of this tiny country supporting one of the large capital cities of Europe is accentuated by present economic conditions. Austria was forced to forego its plans for a customs union with Germany because the financial position of that country makes the good will of France a necessity. But Austria is accustomed to adversity. For a long time it has prepared for the worst and thus escaped many disasters that have come upon other countries unawares. If the Heimwehr's fiasco leads to measures that will put that organization under rigid control, one important source of danger will be removed.

LEADERSHIP IN NEW YORK.

Last December W. Kingsland Macy became the Republican leader of New York State. This appointment was considered generally as of little distinction in an organization which had been defeated four successive times, and had done little more than talk about the corruption of its opponents. It opposed investigation when Tammany threatened up-State retaliatory inquiry and drifted along in some degree of harmony with its adversary. For years the local Republican organization had not produced a big man, nor a fighter.

Macy had endeavored to bring about an investigation of New York City ever since he entered politics in 1923, but his own party had regularly overruled him. A Harvard graduate, former member of the stock exchange, Macy is just over 40. His gift of expression and stinging sarcasm led him to fight every one who stood in the way of the inquiry he felt was vital to New York's political health. In no uncertain terms he accused the Republican State leader of incompetence and called upon him to resign. When in time this officer did resign Macy's enemies tried to avenge themselves by giving him the post. This office, they believed, would be Macy's political death.

As State leader Macy continued his fight for investigation, and by a coup got the bill passed through the House of Representatives on a day when three of the Democratic members were absent. In the Senate, however, it was defeated because the Republicans from Westchester voted with Tammany. It was subject to reconsideration, nevertheless, so Macy went about to win the support of Boss Ward, of Westchester, the most stubborn politician in the State, before the bill was resubmitted. Through a newspaper campaign Macy urged every citizen of Westchester to telephone both State senators and Boss Ward to support the investigation. After days and nights of torment the senators capitulated and finally Ward, who had received calls from virtually every prominent citizen in the district, agreed to vote for the bill.

When Tammany then suggested investigating the Republican organization it came as a surprise that Macy also favored it. All corruption, he maintained, should be exposed. He shocked the members of his party by stating that he had a high personal regard for the Democratic governor, by proposing Judge Seabury, a Democrat, for counsel of the investigating committee and by calling Max Steur, a Tammany man, to investigate the State department of banking. These admissions, which seemed indiscreet to his associates, were not only fair and square but proved to be politically fortunate.

WHALE FISHING

By Dr. J. TRAVIS JENKINS, in the London Times.

The whale is now rapidly joining the ranks of those living creatures—such as the American bison, the flightless birds and seals—the extinction of which is threatened by man's desire for wealth or mere lust of killing. About eight different species of whale have been successively the object of a fishery, or, in other words, have been slaughtered en masse for commercial purposes, and in each case a few solitary survivors roam the seas where formerly schools of thousands were met with. Some of the earlier enterprises lasted for a century or more, but with the development of the modern machinery of slaughter a few years are now sufficient to reduce a species to vanishing point. The tale of the terrible slaughter which goes on in the Antartctic regions—the last refuge of the whale—is so appalling that it would be incredible if it were not well authenticated.

Sir Douglas Mawson has quite recently emphasized the necessity for restrictions on the Antarctic industry. In his opinion, whaling could be maintained as a profitable occupation for many years provided some reasonable check on the present wasteful methods were instituted. The industry is now suffering, for the second time in recent years, from overproduction. In 1921, owing to the great slump in the price of whale oil, none of the companies associated with the combine, Det Nordske Hvalfangerforening, operated in Northern waters. Ten years later the combine have agreed, for similar reasons, to discontinue operations in the Antarctic in 1931-1932.

The earliest whalers of whom we have any record were the Basques. They hunted the Biscayan whale near the coast and in the bay until it became shy and scarce. It is still possible to trace their watch towers and furnaces, and the town seals of Bermeo, Lequeito and Castrourdiales show views of the old Basque whale fisheries. The Basques followed the whales to Norway and Newfoundland, but the fishery was declining rapidly when the discovery of Spitzbergen (then known as Greenland) led to its revival for another species, the Greenland whale. This creature was found in abundance in the bays and inlets of Spitzbergen, and for about twenty years a bay fishery was carried on and every summer a town was established—Smeerenburg or Blubbertown—for the boiling down of the oil. The whales eventually left the bays and were followed by the whalers right up to the ice floes. This fishery, though carried on by sailing boats and with the primitive hand harpoon, eventually died out, owing to the scarcity of the whales.

The next phase was the development of the American whale fishery. This, like the Basque and Spitzbergen, originated as a coastal and inshore fishery, and in the early history of Massachusetts there is frequent reference to the abundance of whales in coastal waters. These were of the Nordcaper species or a variety of the same. In 1712 a Nantucket whaler, who had been blown out to sea, captured a sperm whale, and from this the great whale fishery developed. The improved oil from the sperm whale led to vessels being specially fitted out for its capture. Readers of "Moby Dick" and "The Cruise of the Cachalot" will not need to be reminded of the romance of this episode in maritime history. The fishery was carried on in all the seas of the globe and for two species, the sperm and the Nordcaper. Latterly the American whalers entered the Behring Straits and there attacked the bowhead—a variety of the Greenland whale, which is therefore circumpolar in distribution. The Americans killed hundreds of thousands of whales, with the result that they gradually became scarce. This fact, combined with the discovery of petroleum in 1859, led to the decadence of the greatest of all whale fisheries.

Minor fisheries have been carried on from time to time, notably in the Faroes for the grindhval, in Spitzbergen for the beluga or white whale, and in California for the California gray whale; but these have always been coastal fisheries of minor importance. Toward the end of the nineteenth century whaling was apparently dying out, and it was only the invention of a harpoon gun by a Norwegian, Svend Foyn, that resuscitated the industry. This gun, invented in 1860, does not appear to have been in general use until about 1880, from which time modern whaling dates. Finner whales, owing to their activity and their sinking when dead, had been immune from attacks with the hand harpoon. They are now hunted in specially built steamers which, after the whale is killed, pump air into the body and tow it ashore to be cut up and boiled down. Not only is the blubber boiled down, but the whole of the whale's body.

JUST FOLKS

LADY RICHES PAYS A CALL.

When Lady Riches calling came
We fancied she would stay,
We bought a house to suit her fame,
And planned a garden gay.
We changed our habits and our ways
That she might feel at home,
We went in debt to win her praise,
Not thinking she would roam.

When Lady Riches smiled on us
We thought her heart was won.
We put on airs and made a fuss
As folks have often done.
We took a costly ocean trip
The scenes afar to see
And all because her ladyship
Dropped in on ma and me.

While Lady Riches lingered here
We lost our senses quite,
We looked on poorer friends as queer
And frowned them out of sight.
We thought, of course, she'd come to stay,
So very true she seemed,
And that she'd up and fly away
So soon we never dreamed!

But hear it now from one who knows
She is a fickle dame.
The Lady Riches often goes
As quickly as she came,
And having let us think that we Knew just where we were at,
Without a word of warning she
Packed up and left us flat.

Now back to old-time friends we turn
Who count not what is spent,
And with the little we can earn
We try to be content.
And should the Lady Riches pay
On us a second call,
No friend in truth shall ever say
That she has spoiled us all.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MUCH of the misunderstanding in this world is caused by taking things for granted instead of removing the lid to see what makes them tick.

There is, for example, the matter of government. Do you know what a government is for? What is the theory back of it? What are its powers and where does it get them? What are its duties?

Well, a government isn't a natural phenomenon, nor is it a creation of heaven. It is an organization effected by men for their mutual protection and convenience. That is all.

If all men would behave themselves, there would be no need of government. In Kansas there is a thriving, unincorporated village that has fared well for 50 years without a government of any kind.

Government is necessary because the strong prey on the weak and the evil violate the standards of decency.

The people of a community organize because there is strength in union, and when they are organized they agree on certain rules of conduct and hire somebody to see that the rules are enforced. That is a government, and that is the business of government.

Of course the thing becomes more complicated as the years pass. The men chosen to serve the people soon begin to feel important and assume authority. They think of themselves as rulers instead of servants.

And since they must collect dues, or taxes, to pay their own wages and do necessary public work, they soon learn to abuse this power as they abuse all others.

They are wasteful because the money they handle is not their own, and they use both their power and the public money to curry favor, because they wish to hold their jobs and it is human nature to be selfish.

Thus government is corrupted by graft, favoritism, venality and countless abuses of power; but still its mission remains to protect men from one another, to do public work, and to enforce the rules of decency.

That is all. Government is not Santa Claus. It never was intended to be a wet nurse or a guardian or a philanthropist.

It is not the business of government to take from one citizen and give to another, but only to see that both get a square deal.

A government owes nothing to any of its citizens unless it has made them poor and others rich by neglecting its duty or making unfair rules.

Boston Transcript.

Because former Gov. Alfred E. Smith neither confirms nor denies the story, circulated by some of his friends, that he will not allow his name to go before the Democratic national convention of 1932, we are not of a mind to believe they are uninformed as to his intentions. The story, seemingly authenticated, is to the effect that the former governor, instead of being a candidate for the Presidency in 1932, will devote his energies to securing the adoption of a wet plank in the Democratic platform. We are inclined to believe that the friends speak by the card, notwithstanding Mr. Smith refuses comment on the story. It is doubtful if he could get the powerful Tammany backing in New York if he wanted it, for that canny organization, whether it regards Gov. Roosevelt with personal favor or not, notes the popular treng toward him, and correctly figures that, free of the handicaps which embarrassed Smith, he would stand a better chance of election. Indeed, it will be recalled that Roosevelt carried New York State in 1928 and Smith did not, and the former governor is no stronger in his own State now than he was then, if as strong.

Dry Plank, Wet Candidate.

Boston Transcript.

Southern reactions to the presidential candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt will be noted with great interest in the North, where the Democracy is confronted with the somewhat baffling task of running a wet candidate on a dry platform and getting away with it. It must come as a real gift, therefore, for the Southern politicians and newspapers to be given something to talk about besides the prohibition issue, and the Richmond Times-Dispatch leaps to the job of saying what it thinks about the New York governor's program of unemployment relief.

Now, if Senator Schall and other public men will get busy and do their bit, instead of criticizing the administration, we may prevent that war which he so confidently predicts.

Tourist Complains That Washington Police Do Not Know What Courtesy Means.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Washington being my native city, I have always maintained a very keen interest in it, notwithstanding the fact that I have not lived there since 1918. Consequently when incidents occur which do not reflect credit on Washington I am naturally displeased.

It is, I believe, customary for the police of a city to extend a little more courtesy to tourists, with regard to traffic regulations, than would be shown to local residents, who are supposed to be familiar with these regulations, but the treatment I received recently from the traffic officer stationed at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue leads me to believe that the Washington police apparently do not know what courtesy means.

I must confess that I have never in any city received such discourteous treatment from a traffic officer. Even in New York, where the police have the reputation of being hard-boiled, they are far more courteous to tourists than are the Washington police, if this officer is typical of your force. If a Washingtonian were passing through Greensboro I can assure you that he would be shown the greatest courtesy by our traffic officers and any infraction of the local traffic laws would be overlooked.

Why Do Labor Leaders Spend Money on Beer Propaganda When Working Men Need Bread?

To the Editor of The Post: Sir: According to the labor leaders, the workingman has a longing for 3 per cent beer. They say they want beer for two reasons: First, it would bring back prosperity; second, a revenue on beer would reduce taxation.

If the workingman should buy beer instead of homes, automobiles, food and clothing, it is difficult to see how this would bring prosperity to any one except the brewer. It is a well-known fact that in the days of the saloon too large a share of the workingman's pay check went for drink and too small a share to the grocer and clothier.

From the workingman's viewpoint the taxation argument is even more absurd. If a tax is placed upon beer and the workingman drinks the beer, the burden of taxation is transferred to him, making possible a reduction of taxes on the incomes of the rich. That is the purpose of the millionaires who desire the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. But the rank and file of labor do not believe that they can be made more prosperous by drinking beer, even though it might bring in revenue. It would seem that in times like these, when men need bread rather than drink, the labor leaders could make better use of the money they are spending in their propaganda for beer.

Hot and Indignant Washingtonian Attacks That Abominable Liar, the Kiosk.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am not one of those who are continually "writing to the Times," but I wish to commend your paper for the tone of optimism that the country so sadly needs and the new paragraph which you are publishing entitled "Plus Signs." It is good psychology.

Believing in psychology, I want at the same time to severely condemn as a loyal Washingtonian your article of September 11 headed "Mercury Hit 103 at Peak Yesterday." Why Washington wants to continually advertise that it is the hottest place on earth and try to keep people away from the city simply because we have a registering thermometer placed in a fireless cooker called "The Kiosk" is beyond my conception.

The maximum temperature in Washington on September 10, by proper records, such as are given in other cities, was, as this article itself indicates, only 94 degrees. Why insist on adding 9 degrees thereto for the benefit of the rest of the country? Wherever I travel through America they continually claim that Washington is the hottest city on earth, wholly on account of our abominable kiosk and the pride which our press takes in advertising its records.

CHARLES L. PARSONS.

Citizen Fears That Shorter Hours for Government Employes Would Turn Some to Crime.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Paul Hudson asks whether if Federal employes were granted their plea for a six-hour day and five-day week, they would agree "not to take additional part-time jobs and infringe on other workers."

This raises some very delicate questions which one with tender feelings would hesitate to answer. It is safe to say, however, that doubtless there are many who would not make any such agreement except as a last resort to get their time cut down.

If granted shorter working hours, many would start immediately seeking additional jobs to augment their incomes. Others would utilize their extra time for self-improvement in cultural lines. So doing they would really gain from the change. There are still others who would have so much idle time they would become bewildered.

Then comes the devil's opportunity. He is diligent in finding employment for idle hands. Idleness is an effective breeder of crime, is another way of expressing the same great truth. The so-called crime wave is occasioned by the numerousness of idle people.

DICKEY CHALLENGES SOURCE OF ORINOCO

Explorer, Back From Trip to Jungles, Declares River Rises in Brazil.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Covered with sandfly bites, but happy, Dr. Herbert S. Dickey, explorer and ethnologist, returned from South America today to tell the world's mapmakers they apparently are all wrong about the source of the Orinoco River.

Unless his astronomical observations are incorrect, he said, the river rises in Brazil, and not in Venezuela. He should know, for he announced he was the first white man on record to explore the desolate country of bare hills and rushing torrents where the river begins.

As the next step in a long career of roughing it, Dr. Dickey plans to lead a "dude expedition" through South America. He brought back 12 crates of ethnological treasures for the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, Amherst College, and Peabody Museum of Yale. In his party, which returned on the liner Munamar from Trinidad, were Sargent Child, of Dorset, Vt.; T. Evans Dunn, jr., of Philadelphia; Walter J. Lanz, of New York, and Carleton S. Francis, jr., of Philadelphia.

A 1,750-mile dash by outboard motor up the Orinoco, believed to be a record for that mode of travel on an exploring expedition carried Dr. Dickey to the headwaters. Indians fled in terror through the wilds as the little boats putt-putted past.

As for the "white Indians," long-rumored descendants of Spanish conquistadores, there just aren't any, said the explorer.

Another possibility from his trip, said Dr. Dickey, may be a shift of 60 miles or so in the Brazil-Venezuela boundary. Old grants set the Parima Mountains as the boundary, but the explorer believes they are about 60 miles west and north of where they are shown on the maps.

"I can find more adventure here in New York than I found in the Orinoco," said the explorer. "Savage Indians? There aren't any such creatures, unless the white man makes 'em savage. As for ferocious animals and poisonous snakes, we didn't see any."

Mrs. Dickey, who accompanied the party to collect animals for the Bronx zoo, proved the truth of her husband's opinion about the Indians by living among them for a month while the rest of the party went up the river.

3 Cited as Heroes In War and Peace

War Department Gives Silver Star and Two Medals for Bravery.

For deeds of heroism in war and in peace time, three men were rewarded yesterday by War Department citations.

A silver star for gallantry in action in France thirteen years ago went to Hoxie N. Fairchild, 35 Claremont avenue, New York. Citations for soldiers' medals were given Capt. Loyal M. Haynes, Le Mars, Iowa, and Private Cosby M. Humphries, Muncie, Ind.

The citation said Capt. Haynes saved Government property and possibly human life on June 4, 1931, by removing explosives following a fire at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Humphries was cited for heroism on Miraflores Lake, in the Canal Zone, on May 9, 1931. An explosion demolished the bow of a boat in which he was riding with three companions, killing one and throwing the other into the water. He saved the lives of his two companions.

Parliament of Ulster Summoned on Economy

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The Ulster Parliament has been summoned to meet September 22, to consider northern Ireland's participation in the British economy program, as proposed by Prime Minister MacDonald's national government in London.

One point seemed already decided, John M. Andrews, minister for labor in the Ulster government, having announced that the dole will be cut as in England.

Pope Pius appointed him to Colombia and from that post he went to Madrid as papal nuncio, serving there for ten years. Pope Benedict XV created him a cardinal in 1921.

Prince Leopold Dies; Former Kaiser's Cousin

Flatow, Germany, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Prince Friedrich Leopold of Prussia, the former kaiser's cousin, died here today aged 65.

Since the war he had lived most of the time in Switzerland. His widow, Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, a sister of the former kaiser's first wife, survives.

Report Says MacDonald Is To Come Here

If Made Ambassador Here Daughter Would Be Hostess.

Rumors from London that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald might become British Ambassador to Washington excite interest in the Capital, where the genial statesman, accompanied by his attractive daughter, Miss Ishbel MacDonald, was an official visitor during the first year of the Hoover administration. Official Washington was favorably impressed with Prime Minister MacDonald, and the fact that there is a possibility of his returning to this country in the role of envoy will cause keen interest here. When Miss MacDonald accompanied her father to the United States, it was her first visit to this country, and if the Prime Minister is appointed Ambassador to Washington she will have opportunity to reside here. As official hostess for the premier, a role which she has assumed for many years, she would doubtless come to the Capital in the same capacity.

When the Prime Minister and his daughter were in Washington, they were guests of the former British Ambassador and Lady Howard, at the old embassy on Connecticut avenue. During their brief sojourn they were feted at the White House at dinner, and at a large reception at the British Embassy among other official hospitality which was extended them.

The News of the World, a London paper owned by Lord Riddell, close friend of David Lloyd George, understood that Prime Minister MacDonald might go to Washington "in circumstances which would enable him to discuss with full authority the question of war debts," according to dispatches from London.

Mrs. Davis Prepares Her Capital Home.

Mrs. Davis, wife of Senator James J. Davis, spent yesterday supervising the opening of their home on Massachusetts avenue for the winter. Mrs. Davis will return to the farm near Devon, Pa., to remain another week before bringing her children to the Capital, where they will resume their studies.

Col. Frank Elbridge Webb was host yesterday at a luncheon at the Hay-Adams in honor of Mr. Charles G. Johnson, treasurer of the State of California, who, with his family, is visiting in Washington.

Among the luncheon guests were Mr. William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor; Col. Frederick H. Payne, Acting Secretary of War; Mr. Walter H. Newton, Secretary to the President; Mr. Perry E. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, U. S. A., retired.

The Secretary of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Popovici have returned to their apartment in the Shoreham after a stay at North Shore Point near Norfolk, where they were the guests of Lieut. and Mrs. L. W. Curtin.

Trip Planned By Fulfords To Far East

Will Go From Canada Where They Were Hosts to Washingtonians.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Fulford, of Brookville, Ontario, Canada, the latter Brockville, Ontario, Canada, the latter Washington, are planning an extended trip to the Far East. They will leave their estate in Canada shortly for the West Coast, preparatory to sailing September 26 from Vancouver for China. After a sojourn there, they will return to Canada, either by way of Russia and Europe, or Japan and the Philippines, across the Pacific. If they take the latter course, they will return to their home December 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulford have been entertaining Washington guests through the summer season at their Canadian home and aboard their yacht. The latter's father, Mr. Joseph I. Weller, and Mrs. Weller, who have been with the Fulfords for several months, will return to their home in Massachusetts avenue next week. Mrs. Fulford is one of the four daughters of Mr. Weller. The others are Mrs. Edward Cherrington, of Washington; Mrs. Charles Drennon, of Kansas City, and the youngest, Miss Nancy Weller.

Miss Ruth Hastings, of Houston, Tex., has arrived in Washington to begin her duties as a member of the executive staff of the National League of Women Voters.

Miss Hastings, formerly a member of the law firm of Boyles, Brown & Scott in Houston, will become secretary to the league's committee on the legal status of women. In this capacity she will assist in the work of the organization to remove the remaining legal discriminations against women and to support specific measures necessary to give to women equality with men before the law.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Craig, of Blanchester, Ohio, are spending a few days in the Capital and are at the Dodge Hotel.

Mr. Earl B. Elder, of Chicago, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison at their home in M street for a few days.

FRANCES M'DONALD

TRUE INDECENCY.

IT may be possible for a human being to be self-respecting when reared without a moral code, but present day youth seems to refute the claim. Out to get, without regard to any consideration except personal inclination, their way through life can not be anything but one succession of impacts with nature's law. Nothing matters but personal gain. It would seem unbelievable if it were not so universal a characteristic of the growing generation, groveling at the trough of life like some hungry litter at an empty pan. There is something revolting about youth without ideals. Youth out to get—whatever the cost. Lida, for example. Friendship, honor, decency—all just so many words to Lida. Read her letter and wonder about the next generation and the next after that, devouring each other around the overturned pan.

Dear Frances McDonald: Do not tell me to give him up. But tell me how to tell my friend what has happened. We are all 22. My girl friend and her husband and I. They were only married a month when he began to show that he cared more for me than for her. He would call me at the office and take me to work. Then we started having lunch together. Sundays I was always out to their house for the day.

Here is what I do not understand. He sees no reason to tell her anything about it. He says that it is our affair. I can see how he would feel that we have a perfect right to care for each other, as life is for all, and not for a few. But if he loves me as he says, then I think he could consider me a little. I love him but I think I have a right to be sore when he brings her gifts, praises everything she does and kids her along right before my eyes. I do not know how to take this, whether he is just trying to keep her from being suspicious or really loves her. If there is ever a question of her way or mine she wins. I spoke to him about that and he hit the ceiling. Then the next minute he was telling me how he loved me. His explanation is that no one can have everything. We have to take what comes and like it. But the love I have is not like the love she has. She has the cute home. She has the gifts and the future.

I want a showdown. I want to tell her. He says if I do he will leave us both. She has a wonderful job and is self-supporting. Is there any reason why he should refuse to tell her that we care for each other?

LIDA.

And there you have the modern idea of snatch as snatch can. The other fellow's bone or the other fellow's heart. A fine set of neurotics. If this young woman of 22 thinks that what this man feels for her is love then she might just as well be unable to read. If what he offers were all love could give, the world might well worry. None can wonder at his complete satisfaction with matters as they stand. But picture the complete depravity of this code without honor, this fetish of love without decency. Is it time that youth began to see life as something better than this groveling around an empty pan?

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to get rid of grubs and beetles in my lawn. This is the first time I have been bothered with them in large quantities. FRANKLIN G. L.

A means of checking these insects is the use of arsenate of lead. Mix five pounds of arsenate of lead with one bushel of moist sand and apply it to 1,000 square feet of surface. Work the mixture into the ground with a rake or broom. It should be applied when the grass is dry so that the poison will not stick to the grass and burn it. A thorough soaking with the garden hose should follow.

This year my dahlias have been a failure. I planted the tubers and divided them before I saw signs of growth. Could this have been responsible for their failure?

NELLIE W. L.

Dahlia tubers should never be divided until the eyes begin to show. You should never cut off the tubers without a portion of the old stem.

Please tell me if I can use potato fertilizer for my gladiolus.

ELSIE G. T.

Most growers use either potato fertilizer or powdered sheep manure.

I have some thunbergia in a hanging basket which is not doing very well. I have it in shade. Would it be likely to do better in sun?

NANCY F. L.

Yes.

I am anxious to grow some old-fashioned gourds next season. At what season should I sow the seed? Is there any special care I should give these vines?

MRS. PAUL R. T.

Seed must be sown as early as possible in order to give the fruit time to ripen before frost. They are liable, when first set out, to be eaten by cutworms and they should be protected by a bottomless tin can sunk into the ground 2 or 3 inches, care being taken that soil within the can is free from worms. The gourds do not grow for some little time after setting out, as they are making roots, but once they begin they develop rapidly.

Please tell me whether Boston ivy injures a brick wall in any way. I am so fond of this ivy and yet my father insists that it always causes a wall to leak. ELLA G. W.

Your father is entirely mistaken. Boston ivy will never injure any stone or brick wall.

We have a great deal of lilies-of-the-valley, which this year for the first time failed to flower. Would this be a good time to have the bulbs reset and would it likely cause them to flower next year?

HELEN G. T.

Reset your lilies of the valley any time between now and frost, being sure to use plenty of bonemeal. The bulbs may have failed to bloom because they were crowded or because of last season's drought.

Please tell me whether you can start pansies in September. EMILY L.

Yes.

Please tell me whether elephants' ears are hardy. MRS. CHARLIE Y.

No. Elephants' ears (Caladium esculentum) must be lifted as soon as the leaves are touched by frost and when thoroughly dry may be kept in any place where the temperature does not fall below 50 degrees.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Sept. 14.

WHEN the sleeve "went plain" a little while ago, many a lovely lady who had expertly prevented a trailing cuff from entering many a plate of so-o-oup, heaved a sight of relief! At last—free and graceful use of the arms and hands at the table, without fear of falling into the food when it was least expected, thought she! But, being a lovely lady, it wasn't very long before she was just a bit bored with the prospect of long, tight sleeves for every hour of her day.

She needn't have worried—long, tight and plain sleeves were just a sort of catching the breath on the part of the couturiers, a pause, a break between the elaborate cut of the summer and something brand new for the winter. 'N' this something brand new, my deahs, made its appearance a few weks ago at the Paris collections. First, came the sleeve which broadened out at the shoulder and emphasized its shoulder section by embroideries, novel yokes, lingerie epaulets and so forth, and then came sleeves that balloon about the elbow! Oh, not a big balloon like grandmother used to have to stuff with feather pillows to preserve in melon-like rotundity, but as a modified 1931 balloon that, because of the tightness of the sleeve above and below it, preserves itself without other aid. And of course grandmother's sleeves ballooned right at the shoulder seam, while ours are much lower on the elbow section.

And in cases where balloons of any sort just won't fit in, or be becoming, the couturiers resort to spiral bands of fur or embroidery or a contrasting material—this band extending from just below diagonally to about 6 inches above it!

* * * *

Tucks 'n' tucks 'n' tucks—but seldom are they more effective than the lozenge tucks at the edge of the cape and the peplum of Lyolene's black crepe marocain many-purpose daytime frock that I sketch for you today! 'N' they're not the only noteworthy feature either—isn't it clever to think up an incrustation that gives a long, graceful line to the frock when it isn't busy flaring out into the jaunty cape and peplum, and to finish the neck with softly knotted scarf collar?

Though the little tucks seen so much these days add a great deal to the cost of one's frocks, don't let the price influence you when you're on a shopping bout—they are smart and lovely enough to be worth their weight in platinum!

* * * *

See what an innocent little cuff can do from the glove I have sketched for you today? Just a plain black envelope glove, my deahs, until the cuff of narrow valenciennes lace and finely stitched georgette was added; matching the black valenciennes lace hat ornament—and then, adorable charm!

'N' if you want to put a cuff of this sort on your gloves, but don't care for a hat ornament, why not put a matching collor on your frock? O-o-o-h, it isn't hard to do at all, and it's one of those little touches that will add such 'spensive appearance to your costume, making both the frock and the gloves visions of Parisian loveliness. Collars and cuffs aren't hard to make, either, if you know how! And it's easy to know how—simply send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. This shows lots 'n' lots of collars and cuffs for all occasions and of many delightfully different materials!

Au revoir!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

MAKING ASSURANCE DOUBLY SURE

In the play of many hands at Contract, the expert has little, if any, advantage over the average player. There are numerous hands which yield just as many tricks under ordinary treatment as under expert treatment. A large percentage of the hands yield a game to the expert while failing to produce a game for the average player. When such hands occur, the play of the expert is in striking contrast with the average play. If the hand appears likely to produce game the average player takes it for granted that luck will be with him, plays the hand the "natural" way, and then curses his luck when he finds the breaks against him. The expert, however, takes it for granted that luck will be against him, and stops to analyze the hand. He looks to see, first, whether there is a chance that a bad break is in store for him, and, second, whether there is a way to make the contract against either good or bad distribution.

The following hand played by Mr. John D. Bibb, of Anniston, Ala., in a recent Team-of-Four Duplicate match gives a good illustration of the difference between average and expert treatment.

East was the Dealer; both sides vulnerable.

Mr. Bibb held the North hand and was faced with the question of whether to bid or to pass. His hand did not hold the honor-tricks requisite for an Opening bid of one. It was, however, extremely rich in distributional values if his partner in the South could supplement either his clubs or his diamonds. In order that he might not be entirely adrift on the seas of distribution, if left to play it at a bid of one, he tossed an anchor to the windward by bidding one club, reasoning that the honor-count, if the worst came to the worst, would compensate him in part for a defeat. However, the fact that all three players had passed seemed to indicate a rather even distribution of the honors in the other three hands. The final contract was five diamonds doubled by West. It is worthy of note that East and West could have made spades losing only a heart and a club. At each table East opened with the spade King, which North trumped. Here the difference in methods began to operate.

As was stated, this hand was played in a Team-of-Four Duplicate match and the final declaration at both tables was the same. At table one when North looked over the Dummy he decided his contract was a cinch. Accordingly, he led trumps and lost to the Ace and Queen, East leading spades at every opportunity. With the average player's usual idea of exhausting trumps, North led a third round of diamonds, which took his own last trump, as well as West's, and left South with one trump. Then he started to run off his clubs, and found that East would win the fifth round unless he used Dummy's last trump on it, and that he had to lose a trick in hearts at the end, notwithstanding the established club he held. It never occurred to him that the hand could easily have been made by proper play, and he complained bitterly of his bad luck in finding West with only one club.

At table two, North happened to be Mr. Bibb. After trumping the King of spades, he led the Knave of diamonds, hoping to induce East to cover, if he held the Queen. The bad break in trumps failed to dismay North, except for its tendency to show that West might be blank in clubs. If so, no line of play would be successful, as East would stop the clubs and North would be compelled to lose a trick in clubs or hearts, or allow West to make his eight of trumps, being set in any event. He was compelled, therefore, to play as if West held at least one club. If so, North could make the contract which he proceeded to do as follows: When the diamond Knave was won by the Queen, West led a small spade (as at the other table). North trumped, and led a small diamond, on which he played Dummy's Ten, thus keeping a high trump in each hand. West forced North again with the Queen of spades. North retained the nine of diamonds as a reentry for his clubs. He then led the Ace of clubs, which held, and followed with a small club, which was trumped with Dummy's King. The lead of the seven of diamonds pulled West's last trump, and put North in to make the rest of the clubs. Trick 13 was won with the Ace of hearts. North thus won 5 club tricks, one heart trick, 3 spade ruffs and one trump trick in the closed hand, and one club ruff in Dummy—fulfilling his doubled contract as the result of preparing for the worst instead of expecting the best.

It pays to take nothing for granted, even with an apparent "cinch" to make assurance doubly sure.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Next to the Approach-Forcing bids the negative one notrump is the most important bid in Auction and Contract. It keeps the bidding open without increasing the contract, and, at the same time warns partner that although the hand contains not less than 1½ honor-tricks, it does not contain even a ½ trick more than 2 honor-tricks.

The negative one notrump is a logical corollary of the Approach-Forcing principle. Some players and writers practically nullify the value of a good principle by abusing it with bids of one notrump on considerably less than the minimum 1½ honor-tricks. The 1½ minimum is the basis for gauging the rebid values in the Opening Hand, and the Takeout should therefore never be shaded below 1 trick. Bids of one notrump merely to announce that the hand is quite weak or, worse still, merely because a singleton is held in partner's bid suit, upset the delicate balance of rebid values especially with the type of hands where the bidding is already very close. As a result the valuable part-scores are squandered on futile attempts for game and unnecessary penalties are incurred. By a strange ricochet the very players who indulge in "ultra-negative" notrump rescues will, when vulnerable, frequently fail to contract for a successful game for the very reason that they fear that partner might hold less than 1½ honor-tricks.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:10 p. m. to 6:05 p. m., and from 9:15 p. m. to 10:50 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 10:10 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:50 p. m.

September 15 is, astrologically speaking, a generally fortunate day, but particularly for minor and passing interests. If energy be used, business will prosper, as the influences are quite favorable. In domestic circles, differences of old standing will be composed, and a clearer understanding established.

A child born on this September 15 will have a strong personality, capable of great good or evil, but will be inclined to dream. Unless curbed, its ways will be dilatory, thereby wasting its powers. Its disposition will be rather cantankerous. It will, however, have a way with it that will rob its criticism of asperity and disarm resentment.

You, if born on September 15, have a good head, a keen mind, and a penetrating intellect. You are eminently fitted for work of a special character, such as research, statistical, or scientific. Keeping in a rut of routine will blunt the edge of your capability, and you will become a cog in a wheel instead of its hub. You are concentrative, and allow nothing to interfere with you when engaged in unraveling a problem.

You can write more convincingly than you can talk. In conversation, you are confused and hesitant, but in writing you are lucid and fluent. Notwithstanding your many natural talents, you hate the limelight, and it never worries you who gets the credit for a job—provided it is well done. You are rather too sensitive for your own peace of mind. You are very mindful of criticism, but quite indifferent to adulation.

Your temper—quick and fiery—militates against you, especially as you are slow to make the "amende honorable." You are many-sided, and take a live interest in a variety of subjects. Your reading is quite diversified. You will probably travel a good deal. Capable of a strong love, you will expect much from your mate. If reciprocity in the full sense of the term is not forthcoming, you will suffer—and suffer much—in silence, rather than voice the ache of disappointment.

Successful people born September 15:

James Fenimore Cooper, novelist.
Daniel Allen Reed, congressman.
William Howard Taft, 27th President of U. S. A.
Horatio W. Parker, composer.
Richard Olney, statesman.

4 egg yolks
4 tablespoons cold water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ cup chopped cooked ham
4 egg whites, beaten
2 tablespoons butter

Beat the yolks and add the seasonings and ham. Fold in the whites. Heat the butter in frying pan, slowly pouring egg mixture. Lower heat and cook slowly until omelet has browned on the under side. With aid of fork and spatula, fold over half. Hold in place until mixture "sets." Carefully turn onto warm platter. It requires about 12 minutes to properly cook an omelet so the heat must be very low to allow even cooking.

2 cups chopped onions
2 cups chopped celery
2-3 cup of salt
6 cups sugar
8 cups vinegar
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon celery seed
2 teaspoons powdered cinnamon
1 teaspoon powdered cloves

Wash green tomatoes. Cut out stems. Wash and peel red tomatoes. Chop the tomatoes, peppers which have had the seeds discarded, onions and celery. Sprinkle with the salt and let stand over night. In the morning drain well and add rest of ingredients and boil gently 40 minutes. Stir frequently. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

HYATTSVILLE LAW HITS LOUD RADIOS

Operators Face Fine in New Action; Limit to Time Not Specified.

Radios are just "noise producing instruments" to the Hyattsville town council, which last night passed an ordinance to curb sets which are unduly loud.

The new law provides a fine of not less than $1 or more than $10 for any person who operates a "radio or other noise-producing instrument" to the annoyance of neighbors. The ruling differs from others of this nature in that it sets no specific limits to the time when the nuisance can be committed. Ordinarily laws provide that radios shall not be played loudly after a certain hour at night.

The new law was one of six passed at the council meeting last night. Others provide that a parking limit of one hour shall be set for automobiles on Maryland avenue and Rhode Island avenue, and that no cars shall be parked in front of private residences except by the owner or his guests. Even a house-owner may not park in front of his home for more than 48 hours, however. The one hour limit goes into effect at once, and the other is effective October 1.

Other laws provide for putting into effect the new ten-year plan of paying paving assessments, and for the paving of Ellaville street. The council also ruled that hereafter all restaurants must have a permit from the town government, the permit only to be given when sanitary conditions are approved by the health officer.

GIRL'S FATHER SHOT AT HIM, MAN AVERS

Capital Resident Obtains Warrant for Bethesda Parent, Aged 70.

Warrants alleging assault with a dangerous weapon were sworn out last night against Richard Hardy, 70 years old, of Dorset avenue, Bethesda, Md., by Ernest Whitman, 1515 Thirty-third street northwest, before Justice of the Peace A. L. Moore, of Bethesda.

Whitman told Judge Moore that Hardy had fired a shot at him while he was parked in his automobile at the curb in front of the Hardy home. Hardy's daughter was seated in the car with Whitman, he told the judge.

According to Whitman's story, the elderly man objected to his paying attentions to the daughter, police say, and several times has ordered him away from the house. He had parked the car in front of the house and was talking when the elderly man came out, he said, and recognized the car. "If that man doesn't get away from here in two minutes I'll shoot him," Hardy is alleged to have shouted and then to have run into the house for his gun. He returned in a few minutes and fired a shot at the car, Whitman said.

Corpl. Oscar Gaither and Policeman James McAuliffe, of the Bethesda Substation, Montgomery County police, responding to frantic calls from neighbors that a shooting was in progress, found Whitman but were unable to locate Hardy. The policemen took Whitman to the substation where he swore out the warrant. Police were looking for Hardy at an early hours this morning.

As they approched the house in an automobile, Jenkins saw them and became alarmed and took to his heels. Policeman Butler fired several shots in the air, and Jenkins halted. In police court he pleaded guilty to the charge and wept, blaming drink as responsible for his actions.

CIVIC FEDERATION PUSHES ROAD PLAN

Montgomery Group Unanimous in Asking Action on Two Boulevards.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Completion of Western and Eastern avenues by District authorities and permission by the Federal Government for Federal employes residing in Montgomery County to participate in county political affairs are asked in resolutions presented at the meeting of the Montgomery County Civic Federation last night in the Bethesda School. The federation also approved a report which opposes more than one senior high school for the eastern suburban area of the county.

The federation voted to make special business and act upon immediately a resolution presented by Maj. Phil D. Poston, delegate from the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce, asking the District Commissioners to recommend to Congress that Western avenue and Eastern avenue, which bound the northern tip of the District of Columbia, be completed as soon as possible. The resolution points out that practically every main Montgomery County and District of Columbia highway would connect with the avenues and that they would provide a picturesque and beautiful drive around the District, as intended in the L'Enfant plan for the development of the National Capital, as well as a connecting link for the main highways leading out of Washington. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Would Regulate Elections.

William P. Horne presented the resolution asking that the employes of the Federal Government who reside permanently in Montgomery County be permitted to hold offices in the county which would not interfere with their official duties and to participate in political campaigns and elections for county offices. The measure was referred to the committee on legislation and legal action for report.

George H. Lamar, chairman of the membership committee, recommended in his report that constituent bodies be asked to hold elections concurrently with the federation in order that there be no confusion in seating delegates.

Robert Bondy, chairman of the schools committee, in his report, objected to the division of senior high schools in the eastern suburban district so as to provide three as is being contemplated by county officials on the grounds that it is inconsistent with economy and with educational efficiency to support three sectional schools instead of one central senior high school.

Reaffirms Major School Plan.

The resolution reaffirmed the federation stand recommending a major school plan for the county, providing, among other things, that there be one central senior high school for each of the eastern and western suburban areas and that it considers erection of more than one senior high school in either section "to be educationally and financially unsound and would deplore the educational loss to the school children and the extra burden upon tax payers that would result from a departure from the plan to erect but one central high school in each section," and further urges that an impartial recognized educational authority be retained to make a survey of the situation before such action is taken.

The Evening Star Cup, presented to the member of the federation who has performed the most outstanding service for the civic betterment of the county, was awarded to Stephen James, president of the federation. The cup was presented by Oliver owen Kuhn, managing editor of the Star.

The federation adopted a resolution thanking The Post for recognizing the importance of Montgomery County by sending the city edition, complete with Maryland news, to county residents.

Fairfax Officials Deny Fair Is Ended

Plan to Continue Annual Event; Improvements Contemplated.

Officials of the Fairfax County Fair and Horse Show Association yesterday vigorously denied the report that the annual fair and horse show face extinction. Robert D. Graham, of Fairfax, secretary of the association, stated that although the fair this year did not come up to expectations, or as many people attend as in former years, that all prizes are being paid as rapidly as the accounts can be settled."

The officials admit, however, that they do not expect this year's fair to show any profit, but that expenses will be cleared. In the fair department all premiums have been mailed to the winners, except in the cattle department. As soon as the books can be straightened they declare these will be sent the winners.

Checks for the winners of the horse and pony show also will be mailed on schedule, as every year the awards are withheld until entry fees, box stall rents and other indebtedness of the exhibitor to the association are paid.

The association is planning to rearrange the county fair grounds at Fairfax prior to the fair next year, as a right of way for the Lee highway cut-off around the town has been deeded the State highway commission.

More Than Adequate Facilities Provided at Beach for City Workers.

What makes any suburban community attractive to the man or woman who is compelled to work in town all day? Transportation of course, and Woodland Beach. The Washington Post's summer home development on South River in Maryland offers excellent transportation facilities.

The beach, rapidly growing into one of the largest communities of its kind in this section of the country, may be easily reached over excellent highway by motor. It is just a 32-mile drive via Defense highway to Camp Parole; a right turn into Maryland State highway No. 2 across South River and left into Mayo road which leads to the clubhouse on the grounds.

For those who do not drive, the W. B. & A. electric line goes to Camp Parole and makes connections with buses running to the beach while the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis bus line has altered its routes to serve Woodland Beach since it has grown so large.

When next summer comes with its heat, what better way to spend the nights in comfort than to run down to your summer place along the river, where cool breezes blow constantly? Others have found Woodland Beach the ideal place in which to spend the warm months and you too, will quickly learn how nice it is there.

Lots at the beach are selling at $93, no more, no less. But you do not have to pay that in cash. Put up $9 together with the price of a subscription to The Post and you are enrolled in the community. Pay the balance at $3.50 a month and all the while be enjoying the summer cottage you have long had in mind.

Raids Yield Liquor In Prince Georges

27 Cases of Rum and 500 Bottles of Beer Seized; Three Arrested.

More than 27 cases of liquor and more than 500 bottles of beer were seized by Prince Georges County police in a series of week-end raids which netted three prisoners.

Seventeen cases were taken when police arrested William H. Tonker, who said he lived at 1219 Four-and-a-half street southwest. Tonker was captured on Queens Chapel road, and held in bond of $1,000. The driver of another liquor car made his escape after a chase, but abandoned his machine, which was loaded with 10 cases. Policeman Arthur Brown saw the suspicious looking car in front of the Hyattsville police station and followed it. The driver outdistanced Brown in a foot-chase, leaving his car in the road.

The beer, a small quantity of alleged whisky, and several slot machines were seized when Sergt. H. G. Machen led a raid on the Oakcrest Club, near Laurel. Frank Stewart, said to be the proprietor, was arrested and charged with possession and permitting the operation of a gaming table. William Wyer, said to be his assistant, was charged with possession.

Have you what is commonly called that Tired Feeling?

"I just can't go on"
. . . how often you hear this

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong"

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living * * * pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count * * * the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning * * * so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

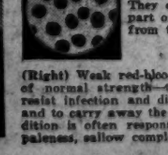
Helps you build New Red-Blood-Cells



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

ROOSEVELT PLANS TO HOLD ASSEMBLY

Legislature Must Pass His Relief Bill or Again Be Called in Session.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt today cracked a whip over the Republican-controlled Legislature when he threatened to prevent adjournment of the special session now in progress unless his unemployment relief plan is approved as he drew it up.

Two alternatives face the legislators—they may pass a Democratic bill, based on the governor's recommendations, which provide that a $20,000,000 relief fund be administered by a special commission selected by the governor, or they may pass a Republican bill calling for administration under the jurisdiction of the existing State Department of Social Welfare.

Although W. Kingsland Macy, Republican State chairman, had been reported as saying his followers would not oppose the governor's plan, the majority leader of the lower house, Russell G. Dunmore, two days ago predicted the Republican bill would be passed.

Controversy Over Credit.

Prospects of a controversy over who should receive credit for the Roosevelt relief program vanished today when the governor refused to comment on a statement made last night by Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter.

The young New York Republican legislator said that the governor's plan was announced some time after an identical program had been inaugurated by President Hoover.

"A pair of oxen couldn't draw the governor into a discussion as to whom the credit should go," close friends said.

The governor remained silent, but at the Capitol it was learned he would not sit passive while his own wishes were ignored. If the Republican bill is passed, it was said, he either will prevent adournment and hold the legislators in session or will call them back the day after adournment.

It is known that the governor has studied a precedent set in 1907 by the then Gov. Hughes, when he warned the Legislature that if it adourned without accomplishing the purpose for which it had been assembled, it would be called back the next day.

His Objections to Bill.

Gov. Roosevelt objects to the Republican bill, because he contends he could not procure the type of men he wants for the relief commission under the Republican control.

He also is openly opposed to another provision of the opposition measure, that the State aid communities in their relief work by giving them 40 per cent of all money raised locally for direct charity work and 50 per cent of money appropriated for public work employment.

The matching of State money with that of individual localities he has called "a blank check scheme" which might cost the State far more than the contemplated $20,000,000.

Democratic hopes that the Republican bill will fail are based on the appearance within the last week in Republican ranks of a bloc hostile to any move to defeat the Democratic governor's relief program.

Troops Disperse Mob And Take Up Manhunt

C., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A company of National Guardsmen this afternoon quietly dispersed a mob estimated at 1,000 men at the Broad River Bridge, near here, and began a systematic search of the swamp for Wade Moore, Negro farm hand, charged with slaying Abbey Wilburn, white plantation overseer, earlier in the day.

FILIPINOS WILL SEND DELEGATION TO U. S.

Round Table Discussion Will Be Sought on Independence for Island Group.

Manila, Tuesday, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Filipino leaders, including Senator Sergio Osmena, president pro tempore of the Insular Senate, and Manual Roxas, speaker of the House, revealed plans today for the sending of an independence commission to Washington soon after the departure September 26 of Patrick J. Hurley, the American Secretary of War.

The Filipinos indicated a round-table conference would be sought at Washington. They hinted the commission might endeavor to compromise on the independence question.

Secretary Hurley, who is here studying the independence problem in behalf of the administration, was attacked in speeches delivered by two legislators in the upper House yesterday.

Senators Jose Clarin and Epidio Quirino criticised the War Secretary for the form of questions he asked during his trip through the provinces, and expressed the belief Secretary Hurley came to the islands to gather facts to oppose independence.

Meanwhile, Secretary Hurley, meeting the foreign correspondents here, said he was taking note of the speeches "because one can often get valuable information from criticism."

The Secretary added that, since he was here to get all the information possible, he was interested in the viewpoint of the legislators criticizing him, and said none of the lawmakers had approached him to verify statements attributed to him.

Joining Senator Osmena in urging toleration of his investigation, Secretary Hurley reiterated that he had reached no conclusions and still had an open mind.

He said he had been unable to complete the investigation in the length of time originally set aside for it, and had postponed his departure for the United States from September 17 to September 26, when he will sail aboard the liner President Hoover.

TEST ON LONG PLAN DUE TODAY IN TEXAS

No-Cotton Projects Defeat Thought Probable; Carolina Assembly Meets.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The Texas Legislature approached a test of strength tonight between proponents of cotton acreage reduction and Gov. Huey P. Long's "no-cotton" plan.

The showdown, expected late today when the House began consideration of bills submitted, failed to materialize, and definite action was carried over until tomorrow.

In the House the fight narrowed to disagreement between advocates of the Long plan and supporters of a proposal indorsed by Gov. Ross S. Sterling of Texas to prohibit the individual farmer from planting more than one-third of his cultivated land to cotton. It is expected the latter plan would cut production 50 to 60 per cent.

Three Plans Before Senate.

The Senate had for consideration these two plans and another to change the one-third figure to one-fifth. In the House, amendments to change to one-half and one-fourth were defeated late today by majorities of about 3 to 2.

It had been generally conceded that the Long plan will be defeated unless there should be a change of sentiment, but its advocates were carrying on the fight, buoyed by the appearance of an official delegation from Arkansas uring cotton prohibition and a telegram from the South Carolina Senate to the Texas Senate asking enactment of a 1932 cotton holiday law.

Advocates of the plan to reduce acreage to not more than one-third the cultivated land interpreted the House votes today as indicating that a majority was standing by their program. Long-plan supporters said they saw in today's balloting indications that the vote between prohibition and restriction would be close. Few of them predicted victory.

Carolina Assembly Meets.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Convening in extraordinary session today for the first time in seventeen years, the South Carolina General Assembly tonight cleared its path for action on the proposed "cotton holiday" in 1932.

Committees of both houses late today approved similar bills making it illegal to plant cotton next year. They will come up for consideration tomorrow.

The Senate agriculture and judiciary committees, meeting jointly, gave the measure drafted by Gov. Blackwood a majority favorable report, 14 voting for it, but some reserving the right to offer amendments. Six members signed a minority report.

Strong Favor in House.

The House committees gave the bill an overwhelming favorable report, but two members voting against it.

Proponents of the Long plan, already adopted by the Louisiana Legislature, regarded as a test vote for the Senate's action in passing a resolution calling on the Texas Legislature to enact legislation forbidding planting next year.

After hours of bitter debate the resolution was approved, 25 to 13, over the protest of opponents of the proposed drastic step. Little indication was given of House sentiment on the plan, but members of the agriculture committee appeared to favor it with few exceptions.

Moore Criticizes Sumptuary Laws

Dry Acts and Police Rule Breakdown Blamed for Crowded Prisons.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Joel R. Moore, probation supervisor of the Department of Justice, in a speech here tonight blamed sumptuary laws and the "breakdown of police control in the jungle cities of our land" with crowding Federal prisons.

His audience, the judges' section of the American Bar Association, generally assumed the Department of Justice official was referring to the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement of the Volstead and Jones acts.

Moore credited "the strict enforcement of sumptuary laws," which he said were resisted by "large minorities, if not majorities" of the American people, with a large share of the responsibility for the Nation's huge prison-building program. He also complained of the meager allotment of funds for probation work, saying it received less than half a cent of each dollar credited to the Department of Justice.

FARM BOARD DENIES FLOUR-MILL LOANS

Stone Answers Charge Body Put Big Wheat Stocks in Plants.

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, today formally denied that milling companies profited from grain operations of the board.

The denial, in the form of a statement prepared by Chairman Stone in collaboration with George S. Milnor, president of the Government-sponsored grain stabilization corporation, was in answer to a question by Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma executive asked if it is not true that the board loaned 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to one milling company when wheat was 85 cents a bushel, and now is taking it back at a price so low the company is profiting $600,000 by the purported transaction.

Board Owns No Wheat.

"The Federal Farm Board has not and does not own any wheat," Chairman Stone said. "The Grain Stabilization Corporation is the owner of all the wheat which has been purchased for stabilization purposes.

"During the winter, the stabilization corporation offered to sell wheat to any miller in the United States at the current market price and for cash, with the agreement that if the miller ground and exported the wheat in the form of flour prior to June 1, 1931, the miller would be given the privilege of returning to the stabilization corporation any time before July 1 an equal quantity of the same grade of wheat as that which had been exported in the form of flour, and on the miller returning such wheat the original per bushel purchase price would be refunded.

"By this operation the stabilization corporation saved from four to six months' storage and carrying charges amounting to from 5 cents to 9 cents a bushel.

Competitive Prices Met.

"In order to sell the flour for export, the miller was forced to meet world competitive prices and, therefore, the loss that he incurred on the high price wheat that he had purchased offset the gain that he later made in returning the wheat.

"The principal advantage to the miller was that it enabled him to maintain his established flour brands in foreign markets and to help keep his plant in operation, while otherwise the plant would have been partly closed down, thereby adding to the unemployment prevailing at that time.

"That the millers did not find the operation a particularly profitable one is evidenced by the fact that the total quantity of the wheat thus handled was approximately 3,000,000 bushels throughout the entire United States.

Plan Open to All.

"The plan was open to all millers in the United States, and no single milling firm took advantage of it to the extent of more than 150,000 bushels."

Gov. Murray had challenged the board to disprove "that the board has deposited with large milling companies this wheat, and have discriminated against the small milling companies." Stone denied the discrimination and said that the operation had a tendency to bolster the market, removing the wheat from the country.

Chairman Stone said he disapproved of the attention focused on the stabilization feature of the Farm Board's activities, pointing out that the stabilization is only one of the phases of the marketing act, and that cooperative marketing organizations sponsored by the board were not getting the attention they deserved.

Electrical Guild to Aid In Giving Idle Men Jobs

Pittsburgh, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Louis Comstock, of Washington, D. C., president of the Electrical Guild of North America, said today at the convention of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors that thousands of unemployed workers in the electrical industry would be put to work as a result of a program to be inaugurated soon by the guild.

Employment will be provided by small permanent improvements throughout the country, he said.

British Train Makes Speed Record.

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The Cheltenham Flyer, one of England's fastest trains, traveled from London to Swindon, a distance of 77¼ miles, in one hour today. The Great Western Railway Co. called it the fastest start-to-stop express run in the world.

CHICAGO IS SEEKING BOTH CONVENTIONS

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Deserted these many years, Chicago began an ardent courtship today to woo back one or both of the major political party conventions in 1932.

Edward N. Hurley, war-time head of the United States Shipping Board, and a corps of foremost business men and public officials, will do the courting. Mr. Hurley announced today that White House, Cabinet and Congress will be approached; that party chairmen in each of the Nation's 6,000 counties will be solicited, and that Gov. Louis L. Emmerson and Mayor Anton J. Cermak will personally invite the governors and mayors of America to exert their influence for Chicago conventions.

Only thrice since 1880 has Democracy elected to pitch its tent here for the big quadriennial nominating show. Grover Cleveland was twice nominated here, in 1884 and 1892 for his two successful presidential campaigns. William Jennings Bryan cried the "open sesame" to his first presidential nomination with the famous "Cross of Gold" speech in Chicago in 1896. Since then the Democrats have met elsewhere.

Republican Stamping Ground.

But Chicago is the old stamping ground of Republicans, albeit a decade has gone by since last they gathered here and nominated Warren Gamaliel Harding in 1920.

Abraham Lincoln was chosen to bear the party standard during its infancy at the historic wigwam on the banks of the Chicago River, and since 1880 the Republicans have convened at Chicago eight times to choose nominees, of whom seven became President.

In 1880 it was Garfield and Arthur; Blaine and Logan, in 1884; Benjamin Harrison and Levi Morton, in 1888; then an absence of sixteen years until a succession of five Chicago conventions began in 1904, nominating Roosevelt and Fairbanks, Taft and Sherman. Taft and Sherman again while the Progressives walked out for Roosevelt and Hiram Johnson; Hughes and Fairbanks and finally Harding and Coolidge.

Coliseum Still in Field.

The sprawling, limestone castle that has seen much of Republican history in the making, the Coliseum on South Wabash avenue, still offers its vast arena for conventions of 1932. But there are other capacious halls now: the Chicago Stadium that has seated 25,000 at indoor sports events; the 124th Field Artillery Armory in Washington Park, with a full 100-yard football field easily encompassed under its roof, and the Travel and Transport Building.

Chairman Hurley said 35 per cent of the national committeemen have indicated they favor Chicago for their conventions. Sixty-five per cent of the delegates, he added, live within a night's ride of Chicago.

Hurley also urged Chicago as a strategic center politically, being the focal point of problems confronting the 1932 platform builders.

By NELSON B. BELL.

In this initial offering of the new theatrical season of 1931-32, Mr. Myron C. Fagan, the author, has demonstrated to what degree romance may result from a complication of inferiority complex and big business in the mind of a single diffident young man.

The exposition is one that is thickly punctuated with laughs when it is not going in for melodramatics in a large and acrimonious manner, more lusty than ludicrous. The skillful balance of comedy and tense but transparent drama last evening met with the obvious approval of an enthusiastic audience of surprisingly generous proportions, temperatures and humidity being what they are.

Many insistent curtain calls greeted the second act climax and after the fall of the final curtain another round of bows was necessitated. This was no less a tribute to the entertaining qualities of the play than to the excellent performances of the individual members of a cast composed largely of gifted players who long since have endeared themselves to Washington's theatergoing public.

The pivotal figure in the comedy-drama is Peter Turner, a youth of negligible personality, who has never attracted the slightest notice in his native town of Rosedale, N. J.—except to be fired out of a clerkship in old George Brooks' bank—until he returns from a winter in Florida, preceded by Associated Press dispatches expiating upon his heroism in throttling a mad dog on the golf links at Miami, a feat which is supposed to have earned him a high place in the regard of J. P. Morgan, Otto H. Kahn and Robert Guggenheim, among others.

Trading on the personal inflation accruing from these encomiums, Peter lays it on a bit thick in his personal recitals of his prowess in many heroic capacities and interests the town's bigwigs in a fanciful promotion involving the purchase of a considerable parcel of land. In fact, he not only flies high, but goes that one better and flies high, wide and handsome!

When the bubble bursts, it is quiet, demure little Judy Walker who pulls him out of the fire and snatches him away from the altar toward which he had been headed by coquettish Miss Irma Brooks, the banker's daughter.

The entire action of the drama takes place in the living room of the Turner home in Rosedale and concerns itself with no matters weightier than a little wholesome and wholly innocuous amusement with an occasional dash of melodrama tossed in for condiment. The second act is the meatiest of the three in dramatic content, the third skidding dangerously close to the edge of farce in the fight episode which marks the turning of the worm and Peter's complete emancipation of the inferiority bugaboo.

The title role is well fashioned to the talents of Glenn Hunter, last seen here in the George C. Tyler revival of "She Stoops to Conquer." He brings a boyish wistfulness to the character that was effective last night, despite the inevitably taut nerves of a first performance, and will become increasingly so as he grows into the part. His explosive tirade that marks the climax of the second act is a long and exacting speech that he handled well. In the opposite role, Mary Loane in ingenuously charming and, when need be, authoritative and forceful. Neither role could have been more judiciously cast.

Indeed, the entire acting personnel is competent, not a change having been found necessary, I believe, since rehearsals were begun. Particularly warm receptions were accorded Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard, as Peter's mother; Burke Clarke, Banker Brooks; Forrest Orr, Mr. Barrett, personal representative of Mr. Guggenheim, and Kathryn Givney, who brings poise and striking beauty to the role of Mrs. Brooks, which she causes to stand out considerably beyond the actual importance of the part. Another arresting portrayal is turned in by Brian Donlevy, the trouble maker of the piece, who succeeds in making a disagreeable part one of the comedy highlights of the evening.

Eileen Wilson and Dulcie Cooper maintain the cast's high level of excellence as may also be said of William T. Hays and Matthew Crowley, in characters essential to the drama's development.

Altogether an auspicious season's inaugural, whether "Peter Flies High" is destined to write Broadway history or not. It at least provides an agreeable evening in the theater, regardless of any consideration of permanent importance as a piece of dramatic literature.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE boys are up and juggling those dates again. Beginning on Friday of this week, September 18, both Loew's Palace and Columbia Theaters will put in force the policy of inaugurating their new bills on Friday of each week, instead of Saturday as heretofore.

This will have the effect of swinging the balance of power to the Friday opening, as among the downtown, first-run picture houses, in the ratio of 4 to 3. Henceforth, assuming that no change is made in the operation of the Earle, Metropolitan and Rialto, these three will be the only houses adhering to the Saturday opening.

The change in Loew policy is national in scope, the aim being to put in effect a uniform practice throughout the Nation-wide circuit of Loew Houses. Simplified routing of the stage shows, playing the Palace and many other Loew de luxe houses, and a minimization of layoffs and idle time for the stage units, has been a prime consideration in bringing about the promulgation of the new order which was received by Colby Harriman, managing director of the local Loew interests, only yesterday.

All Loew theaters throughout the land, come Friday, will be operating in consonance with the Capitol in New York, the chain's key house.

And if you think that makes it any easier for the dramatic desks, the heat must have gotten you!

One of the novelties to be included in the fourth anniversary week's bill at the Fox next week will be an all-talking kid comedy made locally with a cast composed exclusively of Washington boys and girls.

Not that it matters, but I am off dress rehearsals from this time on, henceforth and forever. They are a delusion and a snare. You leave one with fear and trepidation in your heart as to the final outcome, then go to the first public performance and discover that actors are either inspired on opening nights or weren't trying on the penultimate evening.

I mean to say that having attended both, I am prepared to state unequivocally that last night's performance in the National Theater was an easy 1,000 per cent better than the final dress rehearsal that ran from Sunday night well into the early hours of Monday morning. The boys and girls did a swell job of premiering last evening.

Probably I should have known they would, because the night before Lew Leslie opened in "Rhapsody in Black" at the Belasco last spring, I wouldn't have given him a thin dime for its chances. And on opening night it went over with a bang.

So hereafter, as I say, I'm off dress rehearsals — unless, of course, they spread a buffet supper, as Mr. Stephen E. Cochran did at midnight, and even then it won't be the rehearsal I'm attending!

Jack Hurford, the genial and efficient house manager at the Fox, is still receiving congratulations on having passed his two-dozenth birthday last Satday. Mine, too, fella, and may lips that touch liquor never touch yours—or whatever it is you say at such times.

To some mysterious delivery system, this desk is entitled for two very elegant autographed photos of Joe E. Brown, who closed his week of personal appearances at the Earle last Friday night and opens the B. S. Moss Broadway in New York on Saturday—one that I liked, and one that he liked better. To whom it may concern, many tanks—as Mr. Rockefeller said to Mr. Deterding.

Lew Pollack and his act from the Earle were callers at the rehearsals of "Peter Flies High," at the National Sunday night, he being an old pal of Glen Hunter's.

The Motion Picture Herald, in its issue of September 12, devotes considerable editorial space to the futility of idiotic publicity stunts put over for the mere sake of fleeting attention in the press, regardless of any constructive or otherwise worthy purpose.

The caustic blast was inspired by a news dispatch from the grain belt in the Middle West to the effect that wheat was being accepted in lieu of money for admission to motion picture theaters in certain towns. It is pointed out that no authenticated case has been discovered in which wheat bins and grain elevators have been substituted for box-office cash drawers.

Convenient, though, carrying a couple of bushels or so of wheat along every time you want to go to a movie!

And on the twenty-second of August to think that we had a grate fire going. My gosh!

LEGION IS ADVISED TO DROP AGITATION FOR MORE BONUS

the matter has been characterized as nondebatable because it came under the head of politics.

The big question in the minds of many present yesterday — although unemployment was the sole topic on the agenda—was the question of further bonus loans. Until Gen. Harbord arose, late in the day, it had not been mentioned.

Should Care for Its Own.

Gen. Harbord, who led the Second Division in the battles of Belleau Wood and Soissons, and later became chief of staff, is now the chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, and a power in American finance.

Gen. Harbord said that the American Legion by all means should endeavor to take care of the 750,000 veterans who, it is estimated, are out of work. This number is about 12½ per cent of the total of jobless.

"If," he said, "we can show the country an example of, say 3 per cent of the population (the total number of veterans) taking care of 12 per cent of the unemployed, and could say to the President of the United States and Mr. Walter S. Gifford, 'Now, in your calculation of the unemployed leave the veterans out, for we can take care of those boys,' I think you will be doing a very great thing.

"Another thing I can say to you folks—I don't represent any particular party or organization. I am representing myself here. I can say things to you without hesitation. What I have to say is that there is a little uneasiness in the country about the American Legion."

At this point, Gen. Harbord made the statement that if the legion "holds out a tin cup" for more bonus loans at Detroit, the country will laugh at it.

Past Commander Savage, in replying to Gen. Harbord, said that the primary purpose of the gathering was to cooperate with the President's Unemployment Relief Organization.

"At the same time," he said, "it is our desire to drive ahead on a program for the finding of more jobs and the creating of work that will furnish more jobs.

Bonus Not "Legion Baby."

"As far as the bonus is concerned, and it is certainly a rather wild and popularly overtalked subject today, it is my belief that if a proper picture of that subject is presented to the national convention the right answer will be forthcoming.

"I do feel this: That if they keep on goading the fellows into it, they will have a battle.

"The bonus matter, in my opinion did not originate in a legion convention. It is not our baby. I feel, without being unduly exercised, that the situation, if properly handled, will be given the right decision at Detroit.

"But what we are interested in today is getting some of those 6,000,000 men back to work."

National Commander Ralph T. McNeil told the gathering that "unrest and fear are abroad in the land, and the ranks of the unemployed are fertile fields for the fallacies of communism."

Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said that the experiences of Great Britain and Germany "should constitute a warning to the United States never to get on the dole." And then, with the proposed bonus loan drive in mind, no doubt, he said that the Nation should not burden itself with taxation for unnecessary things. Already, he said, the burden of taxation is becoming almost "confiscatory."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a message to the gathering that President Hoover ought to call a conference out of which would come assurances that those already at work will not lose their jobs.

Wants Governors Called.

John A. Elden, representing the Governor of Ohio and the American Legion of Ohio, also suggested a conference here. He would have the President invite the governors of the 48 States, the president of each chamber of commerce, the president of each State Federation of Labor, the commander of each department of the American Legion and the mayors of all cities with a half million population or over.

Mr. Elden would have the conference consider a five-day week, the staggering of employment, so as to spread out the work; and a discussion of some plan whereby the present surpluses in foods and supplies might be placed in the hands of the needy.

In addition, he would have the conference consider the floating of a $1,000,000,000 bond issue, the money to be spent on public works.

Maj. Alvin C. Reis, however, representing Gov. La Follette of Wisconsin, submitted a proposal that made Mr. Elden look like a piker. He would have the Federal Government spend $10,000,000,000 on public works.

Urges Preparation for Distress.

Father John O'Grady, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, told the conference that it would be impossible to find jobs for the 6,000,000 unemployed this year. Consequently, he said, it was important that the conference turn its thoughts to the question of relieving the distress that is bound to exist this winter.

Using the suggestions and the information that were spread on the records yesterday, National Commander McNeil and Past Commander Savage will now begin the drafting of a set of recommendations to the Detroit convention.

Woodpeckers and Pigs Point Strawn's Moral

(United Press.)

Silas Strawn, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, warning the American Legion conference yesterday not to get hysterical about balancing governmental budgets, &c., told this story:

A farmer trained his pigs to come for their food when he banged his shovel on a fence.

A visitor a little later found the pigs running frantically from tree to tree all over the pasture.

"I trained 'em that way," said the farmer, "and now the woodpeckers are running them to death."

THEATER TO PLACE TRIBUTE TO WILSON

Plaque Dedicated Tonight to Mark Box at Keith's President Used.

Tonight a tribute will be paid to the human side of President Woodrow Wilson in the dedication of a memorial plaque on the box which he occupied practically every week at RKO Keith's Theater during his residence in Washington.

Washingtonians will recall the weekly visits during the war and those that followed; first with Wilson in his prime and then later during his lingering illness when he was practically carried to that theater to see the then presentation of vaudeville at that theater.

The ceremonies tonight will be attended by Democratic leaders, including Jouett Shouse chairman of the national committee, and Senator Carter Glass, who will make the trip here from Lynchburg, Va.

Huston Thompson, former Federal Trade Commissioner and a close friend of President Wilson's, will make the dedicatory address, with the occasion given further significance due to a preview showing of a Floyd Gibbons, world-famed war correspondent, short reel based on the life of the War President titled "Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision." The picturization of the Wilson life was made in cooperation with Admiral Cary T. Grayson, physician to the President.

The memorial plaque reads: "In Memory of Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States during the World War, who occupied this box as a regular attendant of this theater throughout his residence in Washington."

Others who will attend will be delegations from the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

One-Man Band Wins Police Court Leniency

A one-man parade, consisting of a drum and a drummer, was haled partially into Police Court yesterday so that the drummer might face a charge of intoxication. He gave his name as Daniel Stevinson.

Police said Stevinson was marching down Ninth street northwest with his drum suffering some punishing blows from the man. He was picked up and taken to the station house and the drum was kept there for obvious reasons. After remarking that "you were as tight as that drum," Judge R. E. Mattingly took Stevinson's personal bond and permitted him to go.

Brookhart to Urge Bill Against Brokers' Loans

(Associated Press.)

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, said yesterday he would introduce a bill in the next Congress to stop banks from making brokers' loans. He said the accumulation of surplus credits in New York banks, which were "in turn loaned to stock gamblers," was one of the causes of the present economic crisis.

The Iowa senator also said he favored a measure introduced by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, at the last session to tax stock exchange sales which were resold within 60 days 5 per cent.

Legion Defense Group Confers With Hoover

(Associated Press.)

The national defense committee of the American Legion yesterday conferred with President Hoover.

After the conference Brig. Gen. Albert Cox, of Raleigh, N. C., said the committee was meeting in Washington to discuss the program it will submit to the Detroit convention this month. He said he was not at liberty to reveal the tentative program.

GAYETY

The second week of the new season finds Lillian Dixon and her Big Revue entertaining the patrons at Jimmy Lake's renovated Gayety on Ninth street.

This show clicks right along with midseason smoothness, presenting a cast of headliners including George Murray and Bob Startzman.

George and Bob, the funny men, keep everybody in good humor from start to finish. Two of their comedy scenes making big hits are "If I Only Had Another Bullet" and "The Stage Director." Assisting Murray and Startzman are Charlie Cole and Harry Beasley. This pair, as straight men, are a great team.

A novelty dance by Murray and Beasley was well done and won much applause, while the quick change and blackface acts by Startzman deserve special mention.

"Beauties on Parade," a scene of dazzling costumes and pretty girls, would do credit to the "Vanities" and is a typical Big Revue number.

STOP and think before accepting a so-called substitute for Kotex! Who made it? Where? Under what conditions? How do you know it's fit for this intimate hygienic purpose?

Surface resemblance to Kotex is not enough. Demand the purity of Kotex. Accept nothing less. Your health is involved. You can't afford to risk health for the few pennies you may save by accepting a questionable substitute of whose makers you know nothing.

Kotex is a hospital product. Hospitals used more than 10 million pads last year. Kotex is scientifically made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding.

In addition, Kotex offers every comfort. It is skilfully shaped. Treated to deodorize. Amazingly soft—and the softness lasts.

WOMEN'S BANKING DINNER SET TONIGHT

More Than 100 Are Expected to Attend Meeting on Educational Plans.

Annual dinner of the women's committee of the Washington chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Hotel Roosevelt. The object of the dinner, it is announced, is to bring together women employes of banks with the idea of developing interest in the various educational courses offered by the chapter.

The principal speaker will be Mrs. Anne Tillery Renshaw, of the Anne Tillery Renshaw School of Expression. Mrs. Renshaw conducted a course last year in the Washington chapter of the institute in "Personal Efficiency," which was confined to women only. The course was hailed as a complete success.

More than 100 are expected to attend tonight's dinner. S. Winifred Burwell, chairman of the women's committee, will preside. Raymond B. Dickey, dean of the faculty of the Washington chapter, will make a brief address. Short addresses will also be made by Aubrey O. Dooley, president of the chapter, and Richard A. Norris, educational committee chairman. Greetings from the national women's committee will be brought by Miss Rose Royce, of the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Chapter Meets Thursday.

The Washington chapter of the institute will meet on Thursday night at the Willard Hotel, when certificates will be awarded to the banking students who took the second semester's work last year. Prizes for scholastic honors also will be awarded.

An increase of 428 surplus freight cars on August 31 over the week ended August 22, on Class 1 railroads, is reported by the car service division of the American Railway Association. CURB MARKET REVIEW

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The curb market's official dedication of its new fourteen-story building turned out to be a distinctly bearish ceremony today, if the action of share prices may be regarded as providing the keynote.

Share prices were on the downgrade along a broad front, in the most active market since June. The turnover approximated 510,000 shares, and trading embraced the largest number of issues active in some time. Utilities again bore the brunt of the selling pressure. There was some upturn from the lowest in the late trading, but the rally lacked vigor.

Electric Bond & Share was traded in large volume, contributing about 13 per cent of the day's entire turnover. The stock dropped 2 points to a new low, then recovered half its loss. American Gas & Electric dropped 4 points. American Light & Traction, Central and Southwest Utilities, Insull Utility Investment, and Middle West Utilities were among issues recording new lows, losses ranging from 1 to 3 points. United Light A held about steady. Among the high-priced, infrequently or thinly traded issues, Commonwealth Edison closed at 174, off 10, and Public Service of Northern Illinois at 185, off 20, both new lows.

In the industrials, Parker Rust Proof, Safety Car Heating and A. O. Smith each dropped about 4 points to new lows. Mead Johnson and Aluminum Co. sold off about 2 and 4, but failed to penetrate their previous bottom levels. Coppers were depressed by the heavy tone of the red metal market. Newmont sagged 1½ to a new low, and Consolidated Mining made one of its rare appearances, selling at 75½, off 21½ since it last traded here.

Oils were also under pressure, Indiana and Gulf losing about a point. In the natural gas issues, Lone Star got down to 11, a new bottom.

STOCKS AGAIN DROP TO LOWER LEVELS

Selling Drives Losses Below Recent Marks; Leaders Hit by Decline.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Selling by professionals and by nervous or distressed investors dumped stocks into new low ground for the two-year bear market today.

Severe weakness at the opening, which saw many blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares, gave the cue to the day's tone, although there was enough covering in the late trading to boost some prices a point or two above the minimum quotations. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press weighted index of 90 representative stocks broke through the June 2 low of 96.9, closing at 96.1, off 2.1 points. Sales of 2,450,160 shares were the largest since July 15, when the volume approximated 1,500,000.

Stock which only a few months ago would have been considered cheap at recent levels had to take a severe drubbing, for selling was concentrated on the leaders. American Can finally went under its 1929 low. American Telephone sold at 154⅜, off 5⅜, and then came back 2. United States Steel at 78¼ was the lowest in ten years, but it cut the loss of 2⅜ to just a point.

Leaders Join Losses.

National Biscuit had few friends, losing nearly 4 net. Eastman, Auburn, American Tobacco, Detroit Edison, North American, Peoples Gas, International Match preferred, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and McKeesport were off 2 to nearly 7 points net. Atchison and Union Pacific closed heavy, 4 points lower. Delaware & Hudson more than regained a 4-point drop and Lackawanna reduced its decline. New York Central was sold at the finish, losing 1⅝ net.

Traders went home last Saturday disappointed at the absence of the favorable news which, rumor had it, was coming out of Washington. Since nothing happened over the week-end to restore their hopes or courage, a large volume of selling orders awaited the opening and the list had only momentary breathing spells thereafter.

Comparisons with previous bear markets are in many ways tricky, since no two depressions follow the same pattern, but some Wall Street observers are now digging up their 1920-21 files to see what happened in the late stages of that decline.

They have reported that stocks made lows early in the summer, comparable to the June 2 minimums this year, and then went a few points lower in August, after which a long upswing started. In the present instance, however, it is pointed out, signs of business recovery are unpromising and with third quarter earnings statements still to be heard from Wall Street has swallowed a large dose of pessimism.

Money Markets Soft.

The money markets were soft on the eve of the Treasury's quarterly turnover. Preliminary estimates place the probable size of tomorrow's overdraft at $100,000,000. Foreign exchanges, steady to firm, appeared undisturbed by the Austrian trouble, with sterling moving up narrowly, perhaps on the belief that the Bank of England discount rate is to be jacked up again. The discount in Canadian dollars was reduced.

Postponement of dividend meetings has frequently forecast unfavorable action, so the delay by Baltimore & Ohio was viewed bearishly by traders searching for straws in the wind. The decline in Sears Roebuck sales for the four weeks ended September 10 was further evidence of curtailed purchasing power and the apathy of consumers even in the face of lower prices.

Wheat's gains ranged from ¼ to ⅝, reflecting a decrease in the visible supply and frost damage in Argentina. Unfavorable Kansas and Nebraska reports helped wheat to comparable advances. Cotton paid little attention to the census report showing a much larger consumption this August than last. Final quotations were 4 to 7 points lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Aggressive buying of corn helped rescue grains today from the clutch of stock market mishaps. A decrease of 1,819,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, the first decrease since the 1931 crop began to move, was also a stimulating factor. September corn jumped 2 cents a bushel, with reports current that premature ripening had brought about important shrinkage of corn yields.

Corn closed unsettled, ¼@⅞ cent higher, wheat, ¼@⅝ up, oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

Upturns in corn came after the March delivery had fallen to a new bottom-price record for the season. This downswing accompanied a temporary increase of commission house selling that had as a basis a report by a Chicago crop expert just back from a 2,600-mile trip through the West and Southwest. He said the corn crop was further advanced than usual, and that a killing frost ahead of the ordinary time would do much less damage than generally expected from such an occurrence.

Big purchases for a leading speculator did much to lift the corn market later. The advance went in hand also with Northwest advices that a great deal of corn showed premature ripening, especially in Minnesota, where many fields contained only corn so shriveled by excessive heat and by moisture dearth that the value of the grain as fodder had been destroyed. Another bullish influence was scantiness of arrivals of corn, today's receipts in Chicago amounting to but 45 cars, against 218 a year ago.

Wheat prices average lower early, influenced by stock market weakness and by word of enlarged stocks of wheat at Liverpool, more than quadruple those of a year ago. The fact was also noted that this week's world shipments of wheat included 6,056,000 bushels from Russia, and that Russian plans for grain "dumping" in other countries were apparently being put into effect, plans that contemplated export of 8,000,000 tons of Russian wheat, mainly to Great Britain and Italy. Wheat bears, however, made haste to reverse their market position after corn displayed strength and the United States wheat visible supply had shown significant curtailment. Oats were governed by corn and wheat.

BOND PRICES SLUMP GREATEST IN YEARS

Some Issues Lose 9 Points in Heavy Selling; Decline Range Is Wide.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—The bond market declined sharply today, and established the lowest prices in several years in a large number of issues.

Average prices of 20 issues each of industrial, public utility and railroad bonds all reached new bottom levels. Sales on the stock exchange aggregated $12,908,000, the largest total for a full session since July 13, when the turnover was $13,286,000. Tangible explanations for the general weakness were not forthcoming but the slump in the stock market possibly had some bearish effect.

In the foreign group German issues reflected a lack of buying support, rather than heavy pressure, and a number of them touched new bottom levels. This was true of the 5½s and 7s of the national government, but they recovered partially during the afternoon.

Net losses in foreign loans ranged from fractions to 9¾ points. The latter declined, which occurred in Utereloe Power & Light 6s, was extreme but losses of 1 to 5 points were common.

The slump in the rails was almost as severe. Even a gilt edge issue like Atchison General 4s lost fractions on a moderate volume. Net losses ranging from 1 to 4 points were common among such bonds as Baltimore & Ohio southwestern division 5s, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s of 1949, St. Paul 5s of 1975, Great Northern 7s of 1936, the series A 5½s and several other Missouri Pacific issues, Pennsylvania series D 4½s and St. Louis San Francisco 4½s of 1978.

The slump was not confined among the public utility and industrial issues. However, bonds of high standing like Western Union 4½s of 1950, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, American Telephone 5s of 1960 and of 1965, Standard Oil of New York 4½s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s closed fractionally lower. More speculative issues scored larger losses.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—An opening decline in cotton here today was recovered on trade buying and covering, but prices eased off again under Southern selling and some liquidation by resulting early buyers, which may have been influenced by the easier tone of the stock market. Prices sold back to or within a point or two of previous low records with December declining to 6.71 or 10 points net lower and closing at 6.75. The general market closed steady at net declines of 4 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 6 points and active months showed net losses of 7 to 9 points during the early trading under Southern selling which seemed to be a little more in evidence during the early trading, while there may also have been some selling on unfavorable view of the weather news, combined with weakness in the stock market.

These early offerings were absorbed by covering or trade buying at the decline and prices worked back to nearly Saturday's closing quotations during the middle of the day with October advancing from 6.52 to 6.57 and March from 7.03 to 7.11. The demand then tapered off, however, while the selling continued and Southern offerings, which tapered off during the middle of the day seemed to increase somewhat toward the close. October broke to 6.52 and March to 7.01 under this pressure, making net losses of about 8 to 10 points and both December and July contracts sold back to the previous low records of the season. Closing quotations were 2 or 3 points up from the lowest on covering.

The standard cloth statistics showing a decrease of 6.9 per cent in stock on hand for the month of August but a decrease of 21.6 per cent in unfilled orders, were without any apparent effect upon the market. The report of the Census Bureau showing 425,819 bales consumed in this country during August, compared with 450,518 in July and 352,385 August one year ago was about in line with expectations.

Liverpool cables said that hedging and continental liquidation had been taken by covering and trade calling in that market and reported a small turnover in cotton cloths and yarns with buyers cautious. Exports today 8,775, making 403,012 so far this season. Port receipts, 34,326. U. S. port stocks, 2,638,366.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

When Is a Man Drunk?

PROF A. R. KING indorses the opinion held by most physicians that man is made drunk by one drink. He answers the question—When is a man drunk? by—Shortly after taking his first drink.

The question—Is a man drunk? should be changed to—How drunk is a man? The practical question is one of degree.

The highest mental quality under consideration is capacity for self-criticism. The effect of alcohol on the brain is usually a loss of this capacity. The individual loses that sense of detachment and fine ability to weigh and value that enter into the excellence of a good mind. The man who takes a drink, and loses that for a moment, is drunk to that degree.

A loss of certain inhibition follows second in the list of effects of alcohol. The loss of these inhibitions marks a second level of drunkenness. Sense of humor he ranks third in importance, and loss of it marks a third level of inebriety. A drunken man may be very funny to others, and often is, but he has either lost capacity for humor, temporarily, or else it is thrown out of all balance. A fourth level is a loss of quick reaction to stimuli; and a fifth is drowsiness. All of this relates to the intelligence. A man may be drunk in his intelligence, without being intoxicated in other departments of his being.

Next lower in the scale, as Dr. King arranges them, are the disturbances of motor and sensory control. As the ordinary man increases in drunkenness, manifestations of his intoxication begin to appear in this lower level. Among these are thick tongue, and such disorders of speech as impediments, repetition of words, painful particularity, repetitions. Or, the gait becomes affected, causing staggering. It is said the man is "drunk in his legs." Disturbance of equilibrium and inaccuracy of movement belong in this class. Among the sensory disturbances are seeing double and rumbling in the ears.

People are generally able to recognize drunkenness on this level, and rarely do they confuse it with anything else.

Heavy sleepiness, when not excited, lies at about the extreme of this group of effects of alcohol. In fact, it merges into Dr. King's third great head: Effects on instinct and emotion. These he terms "complete anesthesia of instinct and emotional impulses." The ordinary name for drunkenness of this degree is "dead drunk."

PURE APPLE CIDER.

Mrs. H. E. J. writes:

1. What is the difference between neuritis and rheumatism?

2. Is pure apple cider, taken regularly for a month, one pint a day, beneficial? I have heard of wonderful cures for same.

REPLY.

1. Neuritis is inflammation of a nerve. Rheumatism is the name given a group of diseases in which the tendency to attack the joints is outstanding.

2. It may be. Cider is an antiscorbutic and it is rich in minerals. Chase says drinking pulque saves the Mexican peon from scurvy. If pulque, as a health promoter, deserves praise, cider should be given a blue ribbon, a gold medal, and a place in the hall of fame.

Salaries of Police Paid By Traffic Violators

Phoenix, Ariz., (U.P.).—If all motorists obeyed the laws, as ordered by the Phoenix traffic detail, the traffic officers probably would lose their jobs, as the new city budget estimates revenue from fines as a means of providing partial payment for the speed cops.

Church Organist Ends 28 Years of Service

De Pere, Wis. (U.P.).—During 28 years' service as organist of St. Mary's Church here, Mrs. Frank J. Deloye, who recently retired from that post, played 322 church wedding marches, 288 masses at funerals, 1,327 requiem anniversary masses and 1,906 requiems.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE United States Golf Association has unbent itself to the point of changing the specifications of Big Boy, the balloon ball, but the effect on Gus McDuffer and the army of golf fans is the same as scratching a place that doesn't itch.

McDuffer didn't want a variation of the balloon ball which the U. S. G. A. has given him with the decree that the official ball will be the same size as the 1931 ball, but with added weight. Mac wanted back the old ball that was in vogue for ten years prior to this season and the compromise won't stifle the alibis that have been heard throughout the land since the U. S. G. A. took the smaller ball away from him.

The old ball, which measured 1.62-1.62, was replaced last January 1 by Big Boy, 1.68 in diameter and 1.55 in weight, larger and lighter. The new official ball, to go into effect next April, still measures 1.68 in diameter, but now weighs 1.62, the same weight of the old ball.

Psychology Wrong

The psychology of the U. S. G. A. has been wrong since the golf moguls first started tinkering with the old ball. The decree that only Big Boy was to be official after last January 1 and must be used by all golfers in all recognized tournaments was tantamount to inviting trouble.

Every golf ill known to the great army of golfers, who knew of par only by hearsay, was blamed on the new and bigger ball. It was the alibi for slices, hooks, topped brassies and shanked midirons. It drew the blame for putts that rimmed the cup or were off line. Everything but the depression was blamed on the new ball. The organized protests put the U. S. G. A. in a fine stew.

Telling the golfers that only Big Boy was to be the official ball was the U. S. G. A. error. It should have ruled that the larger and lighter ball was to be used by pros and four-handicap men exclusively, and was not for the common herd. That would have had the desired effect. Instead of rising in protest against the imposition of Big Boy, the great army of golfers would have raided the storehouses in an effort to buy the new ball that was denied them. And they would have liked it.

Its Good Points

The added weight given Big Boy may rectify a few of the complaints against the larger ball, now the same weight as the old one. The added weight is destined to make the ball hold a truer line on the greens and behave more like a model ball in the wind. Those were the chief indictments against Big Boy.

It can not be gainsaid that Big Boy affords the golfer a better lie on the fairway by virtue of its greater height which in effect leaves it slightly teed up in contrast with the smaller ball which sometimes presented a problem if wooden clubs were used.

But the U. S. G. A. is reckoning without McDuffer if it believes its newest ball will prove popular. It's still Big Boy to him and he has too many fond remembrances of long, curling putts, albeit lucky ones, that dropped for him when the smaller and heavier ball was in vogue. There will be more alibis and more organized protests, but the august and austere U. S. G. A. cannot be expected to backtrack twice in one generation. By the way, there were no complaints against the old ball in the first place.

Five Minor Leaguers Are Recalled by Cubs

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The Cubs today recalled five of their former players from the minors with orders to report at the Catalina Island training camp next spring.

They were Lynn Nelson, Leroy Herman, Bill Campbell and Johnny Moore, of Los Angeles and Bill Jurges, who was sent to Louisville recently in the deal for Bill Herman.

Red Sox Rout Chisox, 12-8, on Blue's Error

Boston, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Five unearned runs in the seventh inning, after Lou Blue's fumble of a grounder at first base, eventually let the Red Sox defeat the Chicago White Sox 12 to 8 today. Each team used three pitchers during the battle but the Chicago defense was full of holes.

Weiss-Barry Again Fight To Draw

Leon and Eschinger Also Win in Fort Wash. Bouts.

By JACK ESPEY.

REDS BARRY and Sammy Weiss, those two light heavies, whose punches fail even to scratch the skin, again fought to a draw last night in the eight-round feature before a capacity house at Fort Washington. This time Barry, pride of Southeast, was given an even break by both judges and the referee, whereas on the previous occasion the voting was split.

Though it failed to settle the question of superiority, the bout was lively throughout, and both Barry and the tough Philadelphian were ever cutting loose with all they had. But they lacked the steam to produce fireworks such as the knockout lovers seek.

Contrasted with his previous fight, Barry sailed in at the outset and he shook Sammy with blows from both hands to win the first round easily. The change in Reds' tactics indicated that he might stop Weiss early, but it wasn't in the Redhead to lay it on hard enough after the opening round.

The Washington Post score sheet showed Barry winning the first and seventh rounds, with Weiss taking the third and fourth, the others being even.

Barry Forces Fighting.

Barry's clouting sounded harder than it really was, for Weiss, instead of going backward, rushed in after many of Red's shots. Barry forced the fighting and connected cleanly with his overhand rights, while Weiss, playing a waiting game in the main, resorted to a two-fisted body attack at close range.

The scuffle was entirely free of bloodshed. Barry held a weight advantage of 14 pounds, tipping the scale at 186.

In the semifinal, scheduled for six rounds, Henry Irving, 161, of Washington, was awarded a technical knockout over Gus (Old Folks) Edwards, 165, of Baltimore, when the veteran struck his head in a dive through the ropes in the second round. Edwards was spun completely around by a blow to the stomach and landed in the laps of ringside spectators after hesitating in his fight long enough to strike the edge of the platform. Confused as he was, he failed to negotiate the climb back

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The United States Golf Association today pronounced the "death sentence" of the so-called "balloon" golf ball, with the official announcement that a "new ball of increased weight will become effective for play, on or after April 15, 1932."

The exact specifications of the new ball have not yet been fixed. It probably will be a compromise in construction, retaining the present diameter of 1.68 inches and weighing 1.62 ounces, the same as the old ball. The ball put into play this year for the first time and which aroused so much protest weighs 1.55 ounces.

Ramsay Issues Statement.

The announcement of the pending change came from H. H. Ramsay, president of the U. S. G. A., in the folloing statement:

"The association has been carefully studying the golf ball situation since the first of the year in all sections of the country and among all classes of players. The size of the 1.68 ball is universally popular. Tests are now being conducted along the line of an increase in weight. A new ball of increased weight will be adopted to become effective for play on or after April 15, 1932. The final weight specifications will be announced next November."

The decision to try another type of golf ball on the American links has been reached less than ten months after the larger-and-lighter sphere was put into official use last January 1 by the game's national governing powers. It is a direct result of Nation-wide protests which began last winter and reached a climax early in the summer.

Hope to Satisfy Criticism.

By retaining the advantageous feature of additional size, while putting more weight into the ball, the golfing fathers apparently feel convinced they will meet the criticism arising from the caprices of the "balloon" ball in the wind and on the putting surfaces. These were the main sources of protest.

Agreement on retaining the present size was reached by the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. during the amateur championship at Beverly two weeks ago. A majority opinion, it is understood, favored going back to the old weight of 1.62 ounces, but this has yet to be definitely decided on.

British View Is Doubtful.

More than a year's notice was given the golfing public before the present ball was made official, replacing the sphere that had been in use for 10 years. The old ball weighed 1.62 ounces and measured 1.62 inches in diameter.

These are still the specifications of the British official ball. The oversized American ball found no favor whatever with visiting British professionals this summer. Whether the British may view a larger and heavier American ball favorably and consider its adoption, to standardize this feature of the game, remains to be seen.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second baseman, handed the Detroit Tigers their second beating today when he came through with a timely double in the eighth inning, driving in two runs and giving the Yankees at 2-to-1 victory.

He stole home the previous day to down the Tigers.

Boxing Body Moves to Clarify Various 'World' Championships

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—World boxing championships will mean just that, if recommendations of the president and the championship committee of the National Boxing Association of the United States are adopted in tomorrow's session of the association's twelfth annual convention.

Citing the possibility that winners of United States championship bouts are not necessarily the best in the world and that boxing officials of other countries have felt that "we in America are taking in too much territory," the championship committee will present its recommendation for creation of American championships on the convention floor tomorrow.

The American champions thus created would be approved as outstanding contestants for world championship titles, under the plan proposed.

A proposed international committee would transmit a report once every three months, giving the list of recognized champions and the ten highest rated opponents in each class. Uniform rules on referees, judges and scoring and on time limits for defense of titles would be a part of the plan.

Hadley Stars In Nats' 6-3 Triumph

West and Cronin Are Leaders of Attack Against Stewart.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A BRILLIANT relief performance by Pitcher Irving (Bump) Hadley enabled the Nationals to take the opener from the St. Louis Browns yesterday and to hang on to their two-game second-place margin over the Yankees, who downed Bucky Harris' Tigers. The final score was 6 to 3, with the visitors getting but one hit off Hadley in five and two-thirds innings.

Until the relief flinger, who was called on in the fourth after Starter Fred Marberry complained that his pitching hand was swelling as a result of contact with a liner off Burns' bat in the first, got into action, the Browns were making quite a contest of it. The Nationals had scored three runs and the Browns had gotten two back in the third and had men on first and second with one out in the fourth when Hadley went to the hill.

Bettencourt Opens With Single.

Bettencourt greeted Irving with a single, which tied the score, but he then fanned Ferrell and pulled out of the hole by forcing Storti to line to Kuhel. From then on, he had no troubles whatsoever. He yielded no more hits and walked but two, stupid base-running by Bettencourt, who drew one of these passes, preventing it from helping the Browns any.

Walter Stewart, southpaw, who used to beat the Nats with painful regularity, went the route for the visitors. He allowed but nine hits, but every one was used in Washington run-manufacturing. In four of the Nats' scoring frames, two hits were inserted, while only one was needed in the seventh, when Joe Kuhel's double cleaned the bases after Cronin and Harris had walked.

Myer opened the game with a base on balls and singles by West and Harris turned this walk into a run. In Round Two, Bluege led off with a double and the natives were two up when Marberry singled to center.

Twice the Browns knotted the score during the early rounds, and they did it the first time in the third. Ferrell gave them a start by doubling to left center, and a useful out and Stewart's long fly converted the hit into a run. Then Schulte met one on the nose. It hit the wired screen just above the base of the left-field stands and bounded back toward third. Rice might have held the blow to three bases, and then again he might not have. He fell flat on his face while chasing the ball, however, and the runner completed the circuit by the time Cronin could retrieve the ball.

Nats Step Out Again.

Johnson's charges stepped out again in the third, which saw West and Cronin open with successive singles. The former tallied while the Browns were turning Harris' infield tap into a double play.

Then came the aliens' last scoring frame. Marberry hit Goose Goslin, opening the fourth, Kress popped to Myer and the Goose took second on Melillo's one-shot to center. Exit Marberry and enter Hadley. Bettencourt lined a single to right, knotting the string again and then the Browns were through for the day.

The Nationals were not, however. They molded one run in the fifth, which started like it would be one of those big innings. With one dead, Rice walked and West's single and Cronin's double followed. On Harris' roller West was nipped at the plate and then a walk to Kuhel packed the aisles. Bluege, however, rolled to Melillo and a force-play at second resulted.

The last two runs of the game were coined by the Johnsons in the seventh. With two out, Stewart walked both Cronin and Harris and Kuhel then puled a long double down the right-field line.

West, with three hits, led the home attack, with Cronin getting a double and single. The alien hits were made by four different players.

Tiny Roebuck Hurt As Dick Shikat Wins

Reading, Pa., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Dick Shikat, 218, Philadelphia, defeated Tiny Roebuck, 249, Kansas, in 16 minutes 40 seconds of their heavyweight wrestling bout at the Fair Grounds here tonight. Roebuck attempted a flying tackle and dove out of the ring. He was knocked unconscious and was unable to continue.

4 Race Horses Stolen From Belmont Stalls

Valley Stream, N. Y., Sept. 14 (U.P.).—Four race horses owned by Dr. Irving Jacobs, of Brooklyn, were stolen from their stalls at Belmont Race Track on Long Island tonight. The horses were valued at $30,000.

2 Outfielders Sold Nats by Baltimore

Gill, Leader in Runs Batted in, and Boyle Bought Outright.

FOR some time the Washington outfield has been worrying Manager Walter Johnson and President Clark Griffith. Sammy Rice is not as young and spry as he once was, although still a mighty valuable man to have around, while Sammy West's arm has been bothering him and, until he has an operation performed, makes him a rather doubtful quantity for day in and day out toil. This leaves only Heinie Manush and Dave Harris, and the latter is not particularly effective with the stick when facing good right-handed curve-ball pitchers.

Two steps were taken yesterday, though, which change the entire outlook for the 1932 race, Outfielders John Wesley Gill and Ralph Boyle, recognized as two of the best in the International League, having been purchased by the Nationals. Money and a player were paid for the first-named, while the deal bringing Boyle here was strictly cash. Gill will join the Nationals at the close of the International season next Sunday, with Boyle not getting his trial until at the Biloxi training base next spring.

Both Had Trials In Majors.

Both of these youngsters have seen previous major league service, Gill with the Cleveland Indians and Boyle with the Boston Braves, and each is so highly touted that the present crop of fly chasers will have to look to their laurels if the newcomers are half as good as their Baltimore followers say they are.

Gill is the better of the two. Always a highly regarded hitter, he has improved in leaps and bounds as a fielder. He hit .328 with the Orioles last season, but is traveling at a .346 trip right now, having poled out 206 hits in 596 times at bat. Among his bingles are 23 homers, putting him third in the International in this respect; 45 doubles and 7 triples. He has driven in 125 mates, which gives him league leadership for coming through in the pinches.

Boyle is, perhaps, Gill's superior afield, but he is not as good a batter. His 1930 mark was .335, made while he was with the Providence club, and he has fallen off a little, hitting .319 this season. Out of 567 trips to the tee, he has hit safely 181 times, these blows including 10 home runs, 13 triples, 32 doubles, and having driven in 67 runs.

The second game of the current set with the Browns is listed at Griffith Stadium this afternoon. Manager Walter Johnson plans to call on Lefty Lloyd Brown for the native flinging, while Dick Coffman probably will be Killefer's choice.

Coffman, a former Nat, is the youngster who pitched a three-hit game against the Mackmen, while snapping Lefty Grove's consecutive game winning streak at 16. He has been slowed up with a sprained ankle but is said to be O. K. now.

It looked like "Rookie Day" at Griffith Stadium before yesterday's Teams Add Strength for Coming Championship Races.

League to Complete Plans at Meeting Next Week.

THE first move to launch the 1931 season of the Capital City Football League was made last night when representatives of the 135-pound, 150-pound and unlimited class teams met at French's Sport Shop and signified their intention of participating in the coming campaign. All indications point to the most successful season the league has ever enjoyed, with most of the clubs boasting stronger elevens than those of last season.

The teams represented and their managers are as follows: 135-pound class—Noel House, J. Mathews; Northeast Trojans, Charles Rich; Meridians, N. Scafide; St. Stephen's Preps, C. Burke; Mercury; Lyon Park, C. McNeely; Comets, I. May.

150-pound class—Brentwood Hawks, C. W. Simpson; Brookland Boys Club, J. Pepper; Northern Preps, Ted Otte; Del Ray, E. Von Deck; Columbias, Arthur Pierdon; Wolverines, R. Raum; Petworth Pennants, R. Bedell; Stantons, Tony Jordan; Centennials, J. C. Knuen.

The 135-pound and unlimited meetings progressed smoothly enough, but the fireworks crackled when the 150 managers convened. The proposed ruling to bar unlimited players from this class evidently affected a number of teams, and the managers of these immediately protested against the adoption of such a regulation. In lieu of the players who would be ineligible, officials of the league substituted a clause permitting the use of ten players whose respective weights did not exceed 160 pounds. This, however, failed to pacify those who had objected, and when the meeting adjourned the discussion was continued, unabated, on the sidewalk.

Meetings of all divisions will be held next week, at which time the rules will be thoroughly discussed and franchises will be posted. The 135-pound class will meet on Monday night, the 150 teams Tuesday and unlimited Wednesday. All of the confabs will be held at French's Sport Shop.

—Lincoln Fields Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LINCOLN FIELDS, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 14.—A double feature program, each carrying the allowance clause, will be offered as the main attractions on the card at Lincoln Fields tomorrow. The Thomas Hotel Purse, fifth on the card is fashioned for the older horses at the 7-furlong route, while the Calumet Purse, third event will be decided by juveniles at 6 furlongs.

The Reichert entry of MY DANDY and BROWN WISDOM, two sterling sprinters hold a slight edge over their five opponents in the headliner. MY DANDY stepped this route in 1:23 4-5 last start and figures to outfoot his rivals. CAMP PRINCE, from the J. Marsch string, should force the pace of the Reichert pair. KARL EITEL is an erratic performer, but is gifted with plenty of speed and may share in the purse.

R. M. Easton's highly regarded juvenile, CATHROP, a double winner at this track, did not favor the slow track in his previous outing, but over a fast strip will be hard to beat in the secondary feature. DEPRESSION, which scored over the Supremus colt in their last meeting, is favored to furnish stern opposition, with SHARP THOUGHTS given the show call.

FIRST RACE—THE WHIG is selected to graduate from this group The Warm Stables' colorbearer closed considerable ground after a poor start and with that effort as a conditioner, figures to annex the purse. BEAVER finished second to On Sir the other day and should go as well here. MUELLER has disappointed in recent efforts but appears best of the others for the minor award.

SECOND RACE—RIVER FOREST and BAG SMASHER are closely rated over their opponents. The former is given the call on his consistent form. BAG SMASHER turned in a splendid effort last start and should extend the top one. THE OKAH is rounding to form and under the conditions will prove dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—NELLIE CUSTIS, from the Superior Stable, was overmatched in her last start but appears admirably placed in this number. SISTER MARY has several good efforts to her credit and figures to furnish the opposition. LADY CAPULET is meeting her kind here and should go well.

SIXTH RACE—DODGSON turned in two smart performances at Saratoga and since then has trained well enough to hold his opponents safe. MICHIGAN GIRL is dropped down here and should finish in the runner-up position. SKRIP is a steady plater which figures to get a part of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—GREY KITTY, from the F. M. Grabner string, should score. The Grabner 3-year-old has raced consistently against the top-notch routers and is selected to take the measure of this field. MAJEL and PLAY BIRD are closely matched to share the remainder of the purse.

LINCOLN FIELDS, ILL., CHART, SEPT. 14, 1931.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIRE FLASH, $5.78, $2.94, $3.06; PARFAIT, $2.58, $2.54; CELTIC QUEEN, $21.66.

FIRE FLASH, making her first start and a likely filly, quickly worked her way out of close quarters in the opening sixteenth, rapidly drew into decisive command and, maintaining good speed, won with speed in reserve. PARFAIT began fast, but was unable to keep up, was in tight quarters at stretch turn and closed with a rush when clear. CELTIC QUEEN, outrun for a half mile, had fine belated speed and closed much ground in stretch. ZINA moved up when entering stretch and went well in the drive. MAYETTA, a forward factor from the start, weakened after five-eighths. COUSIN JUDY quit. PUPPET faltered badly in final quarter. SUSU quickly dropped out of it and showed a poor performance.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:48½. Off at 2:51. Winner, Everglade Stable, owner. Trained by S. Ward. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVER LAKE, $14.58, $7.38, $6.26; BARNEY SEXTON, $5.00, $3.78; HOMER L., $7.52.

SILVER LAKE began fast, kept up close on inside opening three-eighths and, drawing into decisive command with a rush, won thereafter. BARNEY SEXTON, badly outrun for a half mile, was forced to lose much ground when working his way up in stretch and colsed strongest of all. HOMER L. began slowly, came through on inside in stretch and stood the drive gamely. PHANTASIME held on fairly well. GETTIN EVEN, a forward factor from the start, was forced to lose much ground when working his way up in stretch and colsed strongest of all. GENEROLA closed fast. HARRY KUHNS was always far back. CHUCKLING had speed, bore out at the turn and ran out badly when quitting in final eighth.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:19½. Winner, Northway Stable's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLDEN STATE, $20.58, $8.52, $4.52; HOOSIER PRINCE, $96.46, $19.40; VITEON, $2.86.

GOLDEN STATE, under energetic riding from the start, dropped back while racing wide at the stretch turn, but responded well when straightened up in final quarter and, working his way to front, outstayed HOOSIER PRINCE. Latter improved his position gradually, came to extreme outside in stretch and was wearing down the winner. WITEON had speed under hustling tactics, saved ground throughout and weakened, but outstayed TADCASTER. Latter forced the early pace under slight restraint, held the lead briefly and faltered in final drive. TONIGHT raced wide and weakened. BONNIE BRAE had early speed.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,400; claiming. Chicago Ridge Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:47. Winner, W. J. Salmon's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAD CAREER, $9.58, $3.94, $2.94; BURNING UP, $3.40, $2.42; STREET SINGER, $2.92.

MAD CAREER, going in his best form and a keen factor from the start, was under steadying restraint first five-eighths, responded strongly when called upon and, racing around the leaders, pulled away fast in last three-sixteenths. BURNING UP, slightly shuffled back when leaving the chute, raced wide final five-sixteenths and closed well, but was overmatched. STREET SINGER dropped back at the turn and rallied in a mild bid after reaching stretch, but weakened in final eighth, yet outfinished SKIRL. Latter weakened badly after showing good speed for three-quarters. ISLAM was done after forcing the pace under pressure to stretch turn.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. Public Lincoln Dixie Purse. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Martha Jones. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:13½. Off at 4:15. Winner, A. Peletteris ch. c. (4), by Wildair—Sweet Lady. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:45 4-5, 1:10 3-5, 1:23 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIDDLER, $7.66, $3.00, $3.20; LISTO, $12.22, $8.70; KINCSEN, $2.58.

FIDDLER, gradually taken into a long lead, saved ground after reaching the turn and weakened after three-quarters, but lasted. LISTO, a forward factor from the start, bore out while standing the drive gamely and stalled off KINCSEN while closing ground in last eighth. KINCSEN, slightly in hand for a half mile, responded mildly to severe pressure and suffered in being forced wide by LISTO in final three-sixteenths. PRINCE ATHELING closed fast in a good effort. ESKIMO had early speed. SISTER ZOE saved ground at the turn and lacked her usual belated speed. MARTHA JONES refused at the start.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:44½. Off at 4:46½. Winner, J. Spencer's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIQUIDATE, $6.76, $3.74, $2.72; TOMAN, $5.22, $3.50; FERN F., $3.86.

LIQUIDATE had speed from the start, easily disposed of KERRY GREEN when approaching the second turn and, drawing into decisive command, held sway for a handy win. TOMAN began slowly, saved ground to stretch, then closed with a rush on outside. FERN F., far out of it for three-quarters, came wide for final five-sixteenths and closed well. MISS CAROLINE lost ground and her rider appeared to have a foot out of the iron most of the way. DUSKY BOY, a forward factor under slight restraint first half mile, failed to respond when urged hard. SANTANDER quit. TUFINUF had early speed.

WILLA, widely the best and taken into the lead, drew into safe command after a half mile and held sway under steadying restraint the final quarter. THE SOUTHERNER, well up, held on courageously and wore down BIDEAWEE in final eighth. Latter was moving up fast when she went wide at stretch turn and weakened in final eighth. PRINCESS PEGGY was weakly ridden. CHUM closed fast on inside. GENGHIS KHAN quit.

COMMERCE NINE DEFEATS CONSTRUCTIONEERS IN SERIES, 6-3

Povich Stars At Bat and Afield

Riley, Taylor Hold Losing Club to Seven Hits.

Win Gives Commerce Lead; G. P. O. and Eldbrooke Play.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

IN a game that abounded with sparkling fielding plays from start to finish, Commerce eliminated the Constructioneers in the race for the week-day title by scoring a 6-3 victory over the latter on the South Ellipse before a crowd of 2,000 fans yesterday.

The victory places Commerce a half game ahead of G. P. O., its nearest rival, and establishes the Departmental League champs as the outstanding favorites to cop the title. The game was called in the eighth inning because of darkness.

The timely hitting of Abe Povich was the high spot in the winners' attack. The diminutive third sacker opened the attack on Usilton in the first inning with a drive to left field. He came through again with hits in the second, sixth and seventh innings, and on each occasion he either drove in a run or scored himself.

Riley Hurls Despite Sore Arm.

Leon Riley started on the mound for Commerce, despite a sore arm, and was holding his opponents well until the fifth inning when the ailing wing bested him. Riley insisted on finishing the frame out, with only one out and the bases fully occupied. He came through in grand style, forcing Snyder to pop to Gichner, and fanning Usilton. Taylor took up the pitching job starting the sixth.

Jenkins scored the Industrial League representatives' third and final run in this inning when he reached first on an infield hit, was sacrificed to second by Ortel and brought the rest of the way by Bowie's hit to right field. Riley then walked Hamel and Jewett before retiring the side. Taylor, who relieved Riley, breezed through the last three innings in easy fashion.

The winners sewed the game up with a two-run attack in the sixth round. In this inning O'Donnell led off with a walk and went to second on Povich's single. Shapiro forced the first runner at third but Wells tallied Povich with a screaming single to center field, and Riley completed the run making by driving over Shapiro.

Jewett Stars Afield.

The fielding features were contributed by "Lefty" Jewett, who played left field before relieving in the sixth inning. "Lefty" robbed Hessler of at least a triple when he raced over into left center to take a line drive. Gorman snagged Jewett's hit in the seventh inning with a running back hand catch. Povich made a pretty catch of Ault's roller in the sixth, and Jewett retaliated by taking Abe's drive in the same inning and doubling Shapiro off first unassisted.

G. P. O. meets Eldbrooke M. E. today at 4:15 p. m. on the South Ellipse. The game scheduled between these two for Wednesday has been postponed.

Gilliland's Work at Half Outstanding at G. W. Drill

Special to the Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 14.—Starting their second and final week of preseason practice here today, the George Washington Colonials are scheduled to face plenty of hard work. Today's workout was a fair indication of what the future holds with both sessions held in full equipment and each climaxed with a lively scrimmage.

Johnny Fenion and Lee Carlin are the only two casualities in camp. In practice Fenion suffered a slightly sprained ankle which was swollen twice its normal size tonight. A couple of days rest will put him back in shape, but it will be several weeks before Carlin is able to play.

Carlin to be Available Shortly.

Carlin's injury happened before he reported, when he was thrown through a windshield in an automobile accident that inflicted a bad cut in the back of his neck and another on his shoulder. All he has been doing is taking jogs around the field to get his wind, but he probably will be taking part in dummy scrimmage soon.

A young half back answering to the name of Vernon Gilliland showed plenty of class in today's scrimmages. Not only did Gilliland carry the ball well, but he also showed an aptitude in passing or receiving the pigskin that drew the approval of the coaches.

Gilliland is a tall and rangy lad with plenty of speed and is a shifty runner. He gets up to the line of scrimmage fast and is away like a flash through any opening in sight. Unless he turns out to be a "morning glory," more will be heard of this lad before the season is long under way. He is five feet, eleven inches tall, and weighs about 175 pounds.

No attempt was made to pick a first or second team in today's scrimmages but by the middle of the week the coaches should have a good line on the make up of their first team.

Soccer Association In Meeting Tonight

Plans for the seventh annual season of the Washington and Southeastern Soccer Association will be made tonight at a meeting to be held in the playground office, room 313, of the District Building. Robert W. Bruce, president of the association, will preside.

There are fine prospects for three leagues in Washington this season, with an unprecedented number of booters competing. Officials and devotees of the sport are confident that this will be the most successful season the English sport has ever enjoyed in this city.

The principal business tonight will be the selection of dates for the meeting of the various leagues, and election of officers and delegates to the association. The three loops will be the Washington Soccer, Capital City, and Recreation Leagues.

Ed Yeomans Given Scare By Hunt at Wardman Nets

By BOB CONSIDINE.

BY the margin of the skin of his bicuspids, Eddie Yeomans, seeded No. 2 player in the annual Wardman Park Hotel tournament, yesterday survived a brilliant exhibition of tennis off the racquet of young and startled Gilbert Hunt by the score 10—8, 2—6, 10—8. The match dominated a day filled with matches in which the tennis vied with the weather in that the tussles were hotly contested and are still being talked about today.

The long-awaited match between Yeomans and Dooly Mitchell, scheduled for the semifinal round, tottered on its hypothetical underpinning yesterday as Hunt, hitting his backhand like a man inspired to some great work, and otherwise knocking the cover off the balls with much irresponsibility, all but toppled Yeomans out of the draw. The North Carolina star aided matters by refusing to take his 15-year-old net heckler seriously until matters appeared on the verge of a notable upset.

Hunt Leads 5 to 2 In Opener.

Hunt led 5—2 in the first set, by the might of his superior hitting and placing. Overhauled and passed at 10—8, he stuck to his guns to take the second at 2—6 and went out to lead 3—1 and 6—5 in the third, only to fall a victim to a combination of Yeomans' sudden-found steadiness and his own failing to keep hitting the ball hard.

The match was full of amusing interludes, for instance the utter partiality of the gallery in favor of Hunt, and one of Hunt's backhand passing shots, which broke the leg of the ice water cooler and sent the chilly contents crashing with much confusion.

Eddie Jacobs showed up yesterday and was all that was expected, romping through Muscoe Garnett and Dick Purinton like a plague of 17-year locusts. Purinton salvaged one game from the Jacobean hurricane. Fred Roll, also one of the featured boys, put in an appearance. First he alternately dodged and parried the heavy thrusts of A. O. White, and then managed to nose out Dick Mason, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1. Bud Markey, another of the seeded boys, defaulted to Maurice O'Neill because of business reasons.

Play today finds Jacobs meeting Shore and other fan-drawing presentations, culled from the opening rounds of men's doubles and women's singles.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

game. In addition to Catcher Gordon Phelps, three other Youngstown Middle Atlantic players, showed up for trials. They were Catcher Frank Jordan, Pitcher Bill Runge and Duke Gartland, a combination infielder-outfielder. Besides these, a flock of Washington sandlotters showed up, prominent among which were Pitchers Ed Marosey, of the Takoma Tigers, and "Bud" Thomas, of the Olmsted Grills.

In the stands were Jimmy McLeod, infielder, who has been performing with York, of the New York-Penn League, and Pitcher Ad Liska, last with the Chattanooga Lookouts. The latter won one and lost none in the Southern, and is confident that his pitching arm, which has bothered him practically all season, will be normal next spring after a winter's rest.

Infielder Bill Andrus, due to show up yesterday, will be here this afternoon, according to a wire received from Joe Engel, Chattanooga president.

Kress made a good stop on Harris' scratch hit in the home opener. He took the ball on the grass back of Storti and came within an ace of forcing Cronin at second. He did not have a chance to nail the runner at first.

700 GRIDMEN START PRACTICE TODAY IN BIG TEN GROUP

Coaches Call Conference Players

Michigan, Northwestern Rated Best on Past Records.

Hopes High in All Camps; Stagg Opens His 40th Year.

By PAUL ICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Footballs start flying over the "big ten" horizon tomorrow as almost 700 hopefuls don the moleskins for their first dress rehearsal of the 1931 campaign.

Hopes for winning teams rode high in almost every camp. "Bear" stories were conspicuous by their absence and the fight for the championship looked even closer than a year ago, when Michigan and Northwestern finished in a deadlock for first place.

Even at Chicago, where the 70-year-old Amos Alonzo Stagg was eager to mold his fortieth consecutive Maroon Team, hopes were much higher than the past two years. The only sad note was heard at Wisconsin, where Coach Glen Thistlethwaite was under fire.

Northwestern and Michigan Favored.

On the basis of past performances, Northwestern and Michigan again ranked as the two big favorites, but Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota and Illinois boasted teams of fine possibilities. Minnesota expected 100 candidates out for the opening practice tomorrow, the largest turn-out of the day. Iowa and Indiana were big question marks.

This is how the ten teams looked to their coaches before the curtain lifted:

MICHIGAN—Fifty-four candidates, including sixteen lettermen, on deck. Ends and backs plentiful and good. A veteran line, but replacements must be developed.

NORTHWESTERN — Fifty candidates, including a good back field. Must replace Frank Baker at one end and Red Woodworth at guard, two big tasks. Wing positions chief worry.

PURDUE—84 candidates, including 21 major lettermen back; veteran back field with Risk, Yunevich, White, Purvis and Horstman. Guard positions weakened by the graduation of three 1930 regulars, but good looking reserves ready to take their places.

OHIO STATE—87 candidates, including 16 lettermen. Good sophomore material, but line questionable with Fesler and Larkins missing at end posts, Selby missing at guard and Ehrensberger lost at center. Good looking back field. A punter wanted.

ILLINOIS—70 candidates, including 13 lettermen out. "Should be better than last year, but we don't know for sure because we are depending on so much new timber," says Coach Bob Zuppke.

MINNESOTA—100 candidates out, including 17 lettermen, of whom 11 are linemen; tackle strength, fast ends and fast, smart quarter back are chief worries along with the hard trip to Stanford.

INDIANA—85 candidates, Indiana's largest opening day squad expected. Back field punch a question. Line good. A new coach in E. O. Hayes, successor to Pat Page.

CHICAGO—40 candidates. One of best first string teams in years, but reserves sorely needed.

BRANCH BACK AT N. C.

Johnny Branch, North Carolina quarter back, has successfully met scholastic requirements and will be eligible for play.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

HOLDING 25 tennis balls in one hand is a record that would satisfy most folks, but Julius Shuster goes it one better, he claims, when he holds 20 billiard balls in a similar manner. Though it may appear to be easier, this feat in reality is much more difficult.

The pyramiding of billiard balls not only calls for deftness in placing the spheres in a perfect formation, but requires much strength in the fingers. As an illustration Julius points out that although they are much larger, he can hold the same number of baseballs just as easily because they are not so heavy or slick. Another of Shuster's records is to pick up 20 billiard balls from a table and hold them, 10 in each hand, with the palms downward.

Recently at Leiperville, Pa., Ray Jefferis, Otto O'Keefe's ball o' fire boxer, won both the 160-pound and 175-pound championships of Delaware County in one night in slightly more than one round of fighting. Ray knocked out his first opponent in 1 minute and 22 seconds, and his second in the final bout, in 1 minute and 55 seconds.

JUNIOR GOLF MEDAL TO HOLZBERG

Shannon Beaten by 1 Stroke; Leader Has 80 Card.

JOHN P. HOLZBERG, who won the bronze medal in the recent District junior championship, yesterday won the medal for low qualifying score in the junior championship of the Columbia Country Club. His score was 31, 41—80. William E. Shannon 2d needed a 4 on the last hole to tie, after playing the first nine in 40, but unfortunately played his second shot into a trap.

He pitched out on his third, leaving him an 8-foot putt which failed to drop by a hair's breadth, giving him a 5, for 81.

The cards of the two leaders were:

Out—
Holzberg	5	5	6	3	6	4	4	3	5	—41
Shannon	4	4	4	5	5	5	5	4	4	—40
In—
Holzberg	4	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	5	—39—80
Shannon	5	4	6	4	6	4	3	4	5	—41—81

As soon as the scores for the qualifying round had been turned in the 24 youngsters were paired in flights of eight. The youngest was Karl Corby, jr., 9 years of age, who played 36 holes under the hot sun without even complaining of the heat. Nine of the players were literally juniors, bearing the same names as their fathers. Two nineteen-hole matches featured the afternoon play, Herbert T. Shannon, jr., 13 years of age, losing to Wimbar Gardiner, son of A. S. Gardiner, in an extra-hole contest, and William Craven defeating Charles Camalier on the nineteenth green. The match between Holzberg and A. S. Gardiner, jr., was marked by fine golf on Holzberger's part. He was 1 down on the fourteenth tee, but won the hole with a par 4, squaring the match. He won the fifteenth with another par 4 and then captured the sixteenth with a birdie 2. He brought the contest to a brilliant finish when he drove the seventeenth green from the lower tee with a spoon and then holed out an eagle 2 with a 6-foot putt.

FIRST FLIGHT—John P. Holzberg defeated A. S. Gardiner, jr., 3 and 1; Page Cornwell defeated C. Arthur Slater, jr., 2 up; Wilbur R. Garrett defeated William E. Shannon 2d, 2 and 1; Clarence C. Dodge, jr., defeated E. Charlton Graves, jr., 6 and 5.

SECOND FLIGHT—John Lewis Smith, jr., defeated S. C. Watkins, jr., 3 and 2; William B. Asher defeated Paul Dulane, jr., 3 and 2; Leo C. May, jr., defeated Wade Sherrier, 2 and 1; Joseph Bailey defeated Robert Shelton, 2 and 1.

THIRD FLIGHT—William Craven defeated Charles Camalier, 2 up, 19 holes; Samuel Miller defeated Karl Corby, jr., 2 and 1; Wimbar Gardiner defeated Herbert T. Shannon, jr., 1 up, 19 holes; James Brown defeated A. C. Minnix, jr., 1 up.

Match play will be resumed this morning, with the players who were defeated yesterday continuing in consolation flights.

The junior club championship of the Congressional Country Club will be played today, competition being 36 holes, medal play. Contestants will register at the first tee. Thos. P. Bones, jr., who won the title last year, has passed his twenty-first birthday and is ineligible to compete.

CONNIE'S CREW—Up Close

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NO. 2—MICKEY HIMSELF.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—About eight years ago a stocky, black headed, bright-eyed young collegian used to sit on the steps of learning at Boston University and gaze enviously across the street at major league ball players, lounging in wicker chairs on the porch of the old Brunswick Hotel in Boston.

"Cheez," he'd say to himself, "I wish I was one of those fellows. It must be great to be a big leaguer."

Today that youngster, Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane, is the greatest catcher in baseball and arguments will become hotter and hotter as the years roll on as to whether or not he isn't the greatest catcher who ever drew on shin guards.

Wanted to Become Shortstop.

He wanted to be a shortstop and baseball fortune made him a catcher. Every ball team he played with in his early days had plenty of shortstops. It was a case of, catching—or else.

He had to catch because no one else would at Boston University, where he was a great half back and a boxer. After his college days were over he played semi-pro ball at Saranac, N. Y.

The team broke up and one of the players had a chance to play for Jiggs Donohue at Dover, Del. He wanted to take Mickey along.

"You've got to be a catcher, though," he told Mickey. "They have everything else."

"But I don't want to catch," Mickey complained.

"Well, it's that or nothing."

So Mickey arrived at Dover as a catcher and he missed so many foul flies that the board of directors called a special meeting and ordered Jiggs to fire him.

"If he goes, I go," said Jiggs. "This fellow's a hitter."

There was a good pitching prospect on the club, a big fellow named Ralph Knight, from Brown university, in Providence, R. I., and he volunteered to make a catcher of Mickey.

For two hours a day he batted pop flies and Mickey caught them. It made a catcher of Cochrane, but Knight complained that it ruined him thereafter for anything but fungo hitting.

Mickey was a farmboy from just outside of Bridgewater, Mass. Even now his father tosses him a hoe now and then in the off season and motions toward the potato patch.

Game Cost Mickey Licking A Week.

Dropping that hoe over a wall and sneaking to town to play ball when he was a youngster cost Mickey an average of a licking a week.

He was a runner, too, in his boyhood days, and has a hatful of dollar watches, chains and knicknacks he won in races.

The first couple of years he was in the majors he used to run two miles every morning to keep out the kinks that developed in his legs from crouching behind a plate.

He has been idolized here yet he is still the same refreshing youngster who came up the "$50,000 beauty" from Portland, Oreg., in the Pacific Coast League.

Mickey's chief weakness is a saxophone, which he plays continually and very well.

TOMORROW—PEAS IN A POD.

BOWLING RESULTS.

Two matches were rolled last night at King Pin in the King Pin Business Men's League, Annex, Jrs. and First Americans being the winners. The latter took two from National Lithographic Co., 527-473, 490-496 and 519-452, while the Annex team made a sweep over Lansburghs, No. 2, 450-443, 445-442 and 461-447. J. Monk's 125 was high game, he being lead-off man for the First Americans.

NAVY SEEKS A CAPABLE BOOTER.

Coaches Also Worrying Over Back Field Material.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Navy has a new coach, a new system, and a lot of new football players. The result is a gamble that will produce either a feast or a famine on the shores of Chesapeake Bay by the time the snow flies.

Edgar E. (Rip) Collins, steeped in the lore of the late Knute Rockne and Notre Dame, an all-America guard for the old master in the days of the Four Horsemen, is the new Navy pilot. With the aid of Christy Flannagan and One-Play Johnny O'Brien, Rockne ends, Miller is tearing down the variation of the Warner system Navy Bill Ingram taught Navy until he left for California last winter. In its place, they hope will rise another monument to the wizardry of their own teacher.

Miller has a score of veterans from the 1931 squad as a nucleus for the new campaign, but unfortunately few of his veterans are stars. He must look to a host of new material from the sophomore ranks, men who do not have to "unlearn" the old Navy style of play.

Particularly on the ends, vital spots in the Rockne style of play, has Navy fine material. Mumma, McGill, Miller and Murray are all big and fast and there are good reserves from last season. Lou Bryan and Jim Chambers are veteran tackles. Underwood, Thompson, Reedy and Johnson have had years of experience in the guards and Mal Tuttle is a center under any system of play.

The backs are bothering Miller, particularly the need for a kicker. He has "Bullet Joe" Kirn, a 160-pounder line plunger; Joe Tschirgi, Tom Hurley and a few reserve backs from the 1930 squad but none is versatile.

The schedule:

November 7, Ohio State, at Columbus; 14, Notre Dame, at Baltimore; 21, Southern Methodist; 28, Wooster College.

December 5, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.

SCRIMMAGE MARKS G. U. PRACTICE

Mills Pleased After Squad Plays First Real Football.

Special to The Washington Post.

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del., Sept. 14.—The thump of body against body was heard over Georgetown's practice field here today as the Hilltoppers steamed through their first scrimmage of preseason training. Head Coach Mills, who hesitated somewhat in deciding to start this rough work because of the crippled condition of the squad, expressed afterward his gratification at the all-around proficiency shown.

The scrimmage lasted about two hours with about 35 players participating. The rest of the squad of 50 remained either on the sidelines with injuries or in their rooms at the Hotel Henlopen with minor illnesses.

Mills was especially pleased with the drive of the players who seemingly laughed at the heat while pounding up and down the turf. Some of the players performed in midseason style and impressed the coaches with ability they had not been known to possess. Mills also liked the brand of tackling exhibited, although one team yielded three touchdowns.

The better of the two combinations named for the kick-off lined up as follows: King, quarter back; Maczees and Danieu, half backs; Bradley, full back; Muti and Hudson, ends; Dyer and Konopka, tackles; Walacavage and Becker, guards, and McManus, center. The opposing unit was made up of: Lione, quarter back; Gellis and Alenty, half backs; Shimmins, full back; McCafferty and Murphy, ends; Katalinas and Anderson, tackles; Dubofsky and Danner, guards, and Callahan, center.

One casualty marred the day, Joe O'Neill, a sophomore tackle, sustaining a broken nose.

The Georgetown coaches will be guests of honor Thursday night at a gathering of the Rehoboth Beach Kiwanis Club at the local country club Mills and his assistants, John Colrick and Frank Leahy, are slated to speak.

Two knockouts spiced the preliminary program with Frank Vance, 179, stopping Billy Tucker, 191, in four rounds and Willie Eschinger, 136, flooring Nevin Barber, 137, for the count in the second of a scheduled four-rounder. Vance blackened the eyes and cut the nose of his foe before Tucker asked the referee to intervene. The loser, however, put up a game battle, sharing in two knockdowns in the opening round. Young Barber, former District amateur featherweight champion, fell a victim to Eschinger's short, straight right hand. Willie dropped him for a count of two and then quickly finished him when he came up.

Casper Leon, 138, of New York, who is a grandson of the former bantamweight champion of the same name, made a successful debut by outpointing Joe Piscatelli, 140, of this city, in four rounds. In the curtain riser Soldier Shasburger, 121, won a four-round decision over Young Lazarus, 130, a local novice.

C. U.'S SQUAD SCORED BY COACH

Following Lecture, Gridmen Do Well in Long Drill.

POTENTIAL regulars were worked overtime yesterday as Catholic University's football squadron entered the third week of its conditioning process in the Brookland Bowl. Dissatisfied with the showing of his top-line players in Saturday's intraschool mix-up, Athletic Director Bergman whipped them through a three-hour afternoon session before calling a halt.

Offense was the issue as the athletes lined up for action and many a call-down was delivered before a stop was called.

"The reserves and sophomores made you fellows look bad, awfully bad," Bergman commented in a general address before launching practice. "I'm going to see that you snap out of it in short order. Either that or there's going to be plenty of changes in our line-up."

This lecture had its effect for the athletes tackled their jobs with a will and proceeded to impress with a greatly improved exhibition. The ball running and blocking picked up considerably, while forward passing too appeared on the up-grade.

"That's much better," was Bergman's observation as his gridironers filed off the field in the gathering dusk. "A few more practices like that one should straighten us out."

An optimistic note was sounded when an X-ray examination revealed that John Jankowski, half back, had suffered nothing worse than a wrenched left shoulder in Saturday's game while Vincent Fraatz, ace end, who sprained his right ankle, is to return to action late this week. Two other casuals, Dan Pyne and John Nally, were back in uniform after a brief rest period.

NOMINATIONS DUE ON STAPLES BOARD FROM CIVIC BODIES

Leaders of 5 Organizations to Name Choices Today in Probe of Police.

GRAND JURORS TO GET ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE

Last of 'Hose Beating' Cases Complete; Trial Awaits Inquiry Result.

Investigation of Police Department personnel went forward yesterday along two fronts.

While Commissioners considered the make-up of a civilian board of six to hear grand jury charges that Orville Staples was "framed," the district attorney's office whipped into shaped the last bit of third degree evidence to be presented before the same jury tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Nominations to the civilian body will be made to the Commissioners today by leaders of five civic organizations, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby said late yesterday, following a conference at the District Building. Letters were placed in the hands of each of the civic heads, cautioning them to nominate only men of "high character," in whom the public has confidence.

May Broaden Scope.

Gen. Crosby said it is "possible" the group might extend its inquiries beyond the Staples case, expressing the opinion, however, that action of the courts in the third degree cases may obviate the necessity of the civilian board taking them up.

Appointment of the board, and the framing trial itself, will await investigation by the special advisory board of five lawyers already named by the Commissioners, he said.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover, who has been in almost daily touch with J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, did not divulge the number of officers involved in the latest "brutality" cases investigated by the Department of Justice.

Indictments against five First Precinct officers were returned by the grand jury following the first group of investigations. The additional cases are said to involve charges of similar character, with policemen from other precincts figuring. District Attorney Rover expects to conclude his presentation Thursday. Subpenas sent out by the Department of Justice involve a long list of witnesses, the names of whom are being withheld.

Pratt Denies Pressure.

Superintendent of Police Pratt yesterday denied any pressure is being applied from "above" to increase the number of arrests and convictions, as stated in published reports that charged third degree methods evolved from this pressure.

"We have striven right along to improve the character of the cases presented by policemen—that is, the kind of arrests that will lead to convictions," he said. "But certainly there is no efficiency record kept here, and if any is kept by the captains in the various precincts, I am unaware of it."

He declared that the "unexplained picketing" by police of a block on Eleventh street northwest between Pennsylvania avenue and E street northwest, has no connection with either the third degree charges or the Staples case.

Order Issued by Bean.

It has been reported that a store in the block is owned by a man who attempted to intimidate James H. Harker, whose alleged beating at the hands of police, exposed by The Post, was responsible for the present investigation.

"I suppose the store is being picketed because he is breaking the law," Maj. Pratt said. "Inspector Bean gave the order, and he is on leave."

Former Policeman Staples, whose ouster from the department by a police trial board gave rise to the framing charges to be aired by the new civilian board, called yesterday on Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride at the District Building.

Staples, who announced he has retained Austin Canfield to represent him, expressed confidence he would be accorded a fair hearing. He pledged Mr. Bride his whole-hearted cooperation.

Civic Leaders Called In.

Civic leaders called in yesterday to confer with the Commissioners were George W. Offutt, president of the Board of Trade; Harry King, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mark Lansburgh, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association; Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and Dr. George H. Richardson, president of the Federation of Civic Associations.

"The Commissioners appreciate your willingness to assist them in the selection of a police trial board from outside the District of Columbia Government," the letter to them read. "We desire this board to be composed of persons whose high character and position before the public are such that confidence will be placed in their verdict as independent, unbiased and fair."

It was requested that they submit six names, and all were told that they need not be limited to the members of their own organization.

Lawyers previously named as an investigating and advisory board were Henry P. Blair, Col. Walter C. Clephane, Col. J. Miller Kenyon, Daniel W. O'Donoghue and Stanley C. Peel.

Department of Justice agents yesterday continued examination of police witnesses. Three Tenth Precinct officers, Privates C. P. Robinson and J. H. Johnson, and Sergt. Buell Stanley were among those questioned in the bureau of investigation offices in the Hurley-Wright Building. Private E. W. Brown, of the same precinct, was notified to appear this morning.

Christian Science Lecture Friday.

S. B., of Sewickley, Pa. Mrs. Ritchie is a member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Several Here Will Return With Byrd to South Pole

Personnel Officer Declares Trip Probably Will Begin in Fall of '32.

Several Washington men will be among members of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition on his proposed return to Little America to resume his exploration in the Antarctic regions. All are veterans of the earlier Antarctice expedition, and a few assisted in the flight across the North Pole and Byrd's transatlantic flight.

The men are in readiness to accept Admiral Byrd's call when he decides they are needed. Tentative plans for the new expedition were discussed at a dinner in Boston last week, at which Admiral Byrd presented the special congressional Byrd medals to the members of his expedition.

However, all of the men refrained from definite announcements of their joining the party, pointing out that "the time is rather premature, and it is possible that we will not be needed." They also said there is still a considerable amount of work to be done on scientific data collected on the last expedition.

Those of Washington who were on the last trip are Charles E. Lofgren, of 904 Kearny street northeast, personnel officer and secretary; William G. Haines, now in charge of the Weather Bureau Airways Meteorological Station at Washington-Hoover Airport; Frank Thomas Davies, physicist at Carnegie Institution Laboratory here; Malcolm P. Hanson, radio engineer, now at the Naval Research Laboratory; Epominondus J. Demas, airplane mechanic of 1906 Irving street northeast, who is now studying aeronautics at New York University; Sergt. Kennard F. Bubier, United States Marine Corps aviation mechanic now stationed at Quantico, Va.; L. V. Berkner, radio operator, and Charles L. Kessler, aviator, of Foxall road.

Mr. Lofgren was unable to attend the Boston dinner, but had talked with Admiral Byrd a few weeks ago. He said he "would probably go along." The expedition, he said, probably will start in the fall of next year and will explore regions untouched on the last trip to Little America.

Mr. Lofgren, who has known Admiral Byrd for the past ten years, recently completed a lecture tour of the Middle West, Northeast and the South. On that trip he made 50 lectures. Next week he will go on another tour during which he will lecture in 400 high schools in five months. He will close his trip with a three-week extension course of the University of Minnesota to be given in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

On the next trip, Mr. Lofgren said, he will take along Tom Pratt, the Eskimo puppy dog, which was born in Little America and which has successfully survived the rigors of two Washington summers.

"I asked Admiral Byrd if he wanted me to take Tom Pratt along," Mr. Lofgren said, "and he replied, 'By all means.'" Mr. Lofgren served sixteen years in the Navy and retired four years ago.

Mr. Hanson assisted Admiral Byrd on his North Pole flight and also on his transatlantic flight. He said he is under orders from the Navy Department and was detailed to the last expedition by his superiors. If his superiors again detail him, he said, he would be glad to accompany the expedition He now lives in Bethesda, Md.

Readiness to accompany the new exploration party was expressed by Mr. Haines, who also said that any definite announcement would be "somewhat premature," inasmuch as final plans have not been completed. Mr. Haines assisted Admiral Byrd in the North Pole flight, having made weather observations and executed meteorological work at the party's base at King's Bay, Spitzbergen. He served in the Army Signal Corps during the war and later joined the Weather Bureau.

Mr. Demas was a member of both polar expeditions and also assisted in the transatlantic flight. Sergt. Bubier served in the Marine Corps for six years before joining the Byrd expedition. Mr. Berkner was a radio engineer for the Department of Commerce before the Antarctic trip and Mr. Kessler served six years in the Marine Corps before joining the party.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

EXERCISE MADE EASY.

AT last science has done something helpful about all this exercising business.

It has provided a way for a person to get all the exercise he needs without getting out of bed mornings.

This is the greatest need of mankind. Daily exercise has always lost considerable appeal because of the fact you had to get up to get it.

By means of this new invention, which flashes electric currents through the muscles of a prostrate subject, a person may stay abed and get all the benefits of a gymnasium or outdoor workout. This is something we have all dreamed of. The trouble with morning exercises, for instance, has been that it required physical effort.

You had to get out of bed. Often you had to walk clear across a room to the exercising machine or dumb-bells. In some cases you even had to hike to another room fifteen or twenty feet away for it. It required resolution and strength of character.

It has long been recognized that physical culture could never be put across with Americans in a big way so long as people had to exert themselves to get it. There are too many mental obstacles.

SUPPOSE you really feel the need of exercise. As soon as your eyes are open in the morning you first must concentrate on the idea. This is so abhorrent to the average man that he immediately turns over and goes to sleep again.

But if he is a little more resolute and plays with the idea of getting physically fit, about the best he can do is to think, "Well, exercise is a good thing. I approve of it. The question is, when?" And before he has reasoned that out to his satisfaction he has fallen asleep again.

The attitude of the average man toward morning exercise has been, "If I had a medicine ball I would put in a strenuous half hour with a medicine ball and a pair of dumb-bells, if I had a pair of dumb-bells."

This explains why so many men have a surplus of chins and are troubled by shortness of breath even when they open their mail. But now all will be different. With the new invention announced by scientists as successfully tested, you can get all the exercise you need without the slightest effort.

Toot! Toot!
Farewell-ll-ll-ll!

Or, better yet, ring for the butler to press a button.

WHY FRANCE MAY HAVE MADE MAYOR WALKER OF NEW YORK A COMMANDER OF THE LEGION OF HONOR.

1. For going wherever the French taxicab drivers wanted to take him, instead of trying to make them understand where he wanted to be driven.

2. For not bringing any other American mayors with him to France.

3. For not drinking toasts to the Republic in ice water.

4. For abstaining conscientiously from trying to sing The Marsellaise with an American accent.

JOBLESS MAN LEAPS OFF SPAN BUT LIVES AND SWIMS ASHORE

After 60-Foot Drop From Key Bridge Boyd Weber Decides Not to Die.

REACHES NEARBY PIER; IS PULLED TO SAFETY

The luck which has failed 40-year-old Boyd Weber for the last eight months while he was looking for a job saved his life late yesterday when he attempted to commit suicide by jumping off Key Bridge.

He plunged 60 feet, striking squarely on his back, then changed his mind about ending it all and swam to a nearby pier and hung on until he was pulled to safety.

Induced Cousin to Stop.

Weber, who lives in Clarendon, Va., induced his cousin, C. R. Crouch, to drive him to Washington yesterday where he said he might get a bridge painting job. As they were crossing the span, Weber asked his cousin to stop and let him out so that he might do some "inspecting."

Both Get Out of Car.

Both men got out of the car and the Virginian walked to the center of the bridge, requesting his companion to "look over" something else several yards away. When Crouch turned around Weber was out of sight. A moment later he heard the splash of Weber's body striking the surface.

While Crouch was running to summon police, his cousin had recovered from the shock and was swimming to a pier. He held fast while four members of the Potomac Boat Club rushed to the rescue and pulled him out of the water. George Birch, G. J. Lawer, Phil Ransom and Norman Marden participated in the rescue.

Weber was taken to Emergency Hospital, after receiving first aid at the boat club, where he was said to be in undetermined condition from a severely sprained back. He was later transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

Driver and Hitch-Hiker Hurt by Another's Auto

Charles H. Smith, 18 years old, of 1241 K street southeast, and Charles Moses, 21, of Cambridge, Va., a hitch-hiker, were injured early yesterday morning when Smith's auto was struck on the Baltimore boulevard by a motorist who failed to stop.

Smith is thought to have a fractured pelvis, while Moses has a possible skull fracture. They were taken to Sibley Hospital and then removed to Gallinger. The pair were thrown 20 or 30 feet, they told hospital authorities. Both, however, were in a semiconscious condition.

Dry Informer Chased And Beaten by Crowd

Shouting that they were going to kill him because he was responsible for a liquor raid near Twenty-first and M streets northwest, yesterday, a crowd of more than 50 colored persons last night chased Roosevelt Catoe, 30, colored, and caused a riot call which brought six police cars to Eighteenth street and Florida avenue.

Police learned that the chase began at the corner near which the raid occurred when Catoe reappeared and found a mob waiting for him. He was beaten and bruised during the pursuit, which ended at Eighteenth street and Florida avenue when he took refuge in a store. The alleged informer did not require hospital treatment.

Refrigerating Machine Break Calls Firemen

Firemen and the rescue squad were called yesterday to Western Market, Twenty-first and K streets northwest, when the refrigerating machine ceased to function and spread a sharp smell over the neighborhood.

Leo Brooks, market manager, called authorities in an attempt to have the leaking ammonia sealed in the the cooling coils, so that a quantity of meats in the ice-boxes would not spoil.

Shepherds of Bethlehem Will Install New Lodge

A new lodge of the Shepherds of Bethlehem will be installed at the Masonic Hall, Fourteenth and U streets southeast, at 8 p. m. Thursday. The new unit will be known as Hope Lodge, No. 7.

Supreme Commander Harry Bollarth will conduct the installation exercises, assisted by Deputy Supreme Commander Emma B. DeLaney, who organized the local group.

POLICEMAN'S DEATH IN RAVINE WILL BE INVESTIGATED TODAY

Coroner's Jury Will Visit Hollow Where Morrow's Body Was Found.

ACCIDENT THEORY HELD BY DEAD MAN'S FAMILY

Inspector Learns Victim's Whereabouts Day Before; Friend Questioned.

Six members of a coroner's jury today will visit a ravine near the Spring road home of Policeman Raymond Morrow, in an effort to decide whether his body, found there Saturday, was victim of foul play or accident.

Police are convinced the officer met with a fall, or was in an automobile accident, before he lay down to die in the ravine near his home, at 1445 Spring road northwest. They will have nothing to say, however, when they accompany the coroner's jury to the spot, it was said last night.

The inquest will get under way at the District Morgue at 11:30 this morning, according to Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt. The six men summoned to serve on the jury are Richard C. Lake, John W. Davis, F. C. Huth, Harry Dean, D. L. Mooney and Mason Taylor.

Hotel Guest Queried.

Detective Sergt. James Springman last night questioned Albert Hall, of the Gordon Hotel, following published reports yesterday "that a man named Hall" at that hostelry might know something about the case. He said he questioned the man by phone Saturday night, and was convinced that although he knew Morrow, he had not seen him for months.

In checking up on Morrow's whereabouts the day before his body was found, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke learned that he spent some time in the vicinity of Seventeenth and L streets northwest between 5 p. m. Friday and 1 a. m. Saturday.

Two theories supporting the belief that the policeman came to his death by accident are that he is said to have been in the habit of taking physical exercise in the ravine and that he may have gone there so as not to be at home if a policeman were sent there to learn why he did not report for duty Friday midnight.

Family Share Accident Theory.

Police last night said members of Morrow's family share the accident theory of his death and have told members of the department they have confidence police are doing everything in their power to clear up the mystery.

Funeral services for the policeman will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at W. Warren Taltavull's funeral home, Fourteenth street and Spring road northwest. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Police Extinguish Blaze As Woman Disappears

Looking through a side window of a first-floor apartment at 3620 Sixteenth street northwest, Tenth Precinct police saw a flaming divan. This was early yesterday, after they received a report that a woman was screaming for help in the apartment.

The policemen entered the suite by a master key and extinguished the blaze. There was no one in the apartment, and the Tenth Precinct men left without learning exactly to whom they paid the visit.

A number of out-of-town visitors are expected to attend the meeting, at which plans for a communication network for the winter season will be worked out.

TRUST GAS ENGINEER HELD RULING WOOD ON MAINS PRESSURE

PROMISES TO PRODUCE RECORDS FOR HEARING

Recent History Concerning Last Court Fight Expected to Be Aired.

Effect of foreign ownership of local public utilities was hinted at in the course of the public hearing before the Public Utilities Commission yesterday on the proposal of the Washington Gas Light Company to have the commission formally approve an increase in the pressure with which it forces gas through its mains to consumers.

George A. G. Wood, president of the company, admitted on the witness stand that he had removed from the gas company offices certain records which included a recommendation by company engineers that new mains be laid so that gas could be sent to consumers without wasteful pressure. Mr. Wood promised to produce the records he had taken to his home in Edgemoor, Md.

Subsequently William H. Wilds and Donald McClure, vice presidents of the Central Public Service Corporation, one of the corporations of the nationally powerful public utilities owners, and Alfred Hurlburt, an engineer, testified that it was their recommendation which President Wood had followed in disregarding the advice of his own engineers and forcing gas through old mains at higher pressure.

Nature of Removed Papers.

Frank A. Woodhead and Walter M. Russell, engineers of the gas company, are said to have recommended construction of additional mains so that gas could be carried to consumers without increasing the pressure with which it is driven from the containing station. These recommendations are among the papers Mr. Wood is said to have taken from the gas offices to his home.

William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel and Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, examined Mr. Wood. When Mr. Roberts obtained the admission from the gas company president he immediately demanded that the commission issue a subpena ordering presentation of the papers at the hearing. The commission was willing to do so but Mr. Wood asked that he be permitted to bring the records in person and this was agreed to.

The fight over gas pressure is based on the contention, advanced by representatives of the consumers, that inadequate and old and leaking mains makes it necessary that the company shall force gas through its mains at a high pressure in order to get to its farthest consumer.

Higher Pressure Limit Sought.

The present limit of pressure, fixed by the Utilities Commission is 6 inches. The company wants to have the limit increased to 10. Mr. Wood told the commission that he is prepared to show by customers' monthly bills that the increased pressure which has been applied by his company has not resulted in increased charges. Mr. Roberts and Mr. Keech are seeking to show that the engineers of the company urged additional mains to avoid wasteful pressure.

The determination of the Washington company to serve surrounding communities was brought into the hearing by questions from Mr. Roberts in the course of the examination of Mr. Wood Mr. Roberts mentioned Alexandria, Va., and Hyattsville, Md. Mr Wood said that Alexandria had its own plant. He said, too, that he never had heard of Hyattsville.

But of more importance than the question of pressure was the question of the ownership of the Washington Gas Co. It is the avowed purpose of the Utilities Commission to determine, if it can, the true ownership of the company and determine whether that ownership is in violation of the La Follette antimerger act. That law, enacted as a rider to a District appropriation law, was designed to forbid outside interests acquiring control or even an important interest in District utilities.

Contention Over Purchase.

Contest of the purchase of the gas company was lost in the courts because of the construction by the courts that the wording of the law did not prohibit acquirement of a controlling interest in the company by a trust company. Since then, however, the investment trust, which admittedly purchased control of the company but insisted it was legal to do so, has been pushed more and more into the background and the nationally powerful utilities interests which were interested in the trust company have come into play through more active corporations.

This phase of the gas company's recent history is expected to be brought more and more to the fore as the hearings proceed. The hearings, held in the District Building, will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

Watermelon Bargains Brings Man Jail Term

A watermelon bargain sale was interrupted by police of the Fifth Precinct when they arrested Joseph C. Thomas, colored, and charged him with selling things he didn't own.

Thomas, it seems, took a watermelon from a truck. The melon belonged to James Williams, colored, who returned to his truck in time to see Thomas cutting up the fruit and handing it out in small portions to his friends. Thomas went one further, police said, and while the owner of the truck was searching afoot for a policeman, he sold the other melons in the truck for 10 cents each. Thomas was sentenced to 30 days.
